Here is a sad little romance-ending in a tragedy. It is very brief, but none the less touching:

Twenty years ago it was deemed a great achievement if a horse could make a mile in 2.17. Only one or two had ever accomplished it. Now people are very much disappointed if a horse cannot do better than Vanderbilt's Maud S. did last Saturday at Chicago, when she made it in 2.112 and 211, instead of 2.10 34 and 2.101, which latter time she had previously reached. American people are sometimes very unreasonable.

Judge Robertson, now Collector at New York, has lost ground by his recent course. The New York Sun

"Mr. Robertson has held on to his seat in the State Senate in flagrant disregard of the prohibition of the Constitution, on the flimsy pretext that he had not yet accepted his Federal appointment. But in substance and fact, he had accepted it; and his open disregard of his constitutional obligations has greatly impaired his former standing."

Dr. Agnew says the location of the bullet is as much a mystery now as ever. He says the recent pus was was scathed, and thinks it possible case is every way more hopeful.

Justice Nathan Clifford, just dead, was horn in New Hampshire in 1803. He was a Democrat of the old school, and was appointed by President Pierce When Justice Clifford was commissioned he was the youngest of the Bench, excepting only J. A. Campbell. When he died he was, it is believed, the oldest of the Justices. He had outlived all his associates in the Supreme Court, and leaves, inleed, but one or two survivors of all the fifty and more Judges in the Distriet Courts whose commissions, like his, bear the signature of Mr. Pierce. He was very industrious. The New York Times says :

"In the summer of 1878, in his seventy-fifth year, he took no vacation, but devoted himself to clearing up the arrears of another Judge's business. During those months he wrote forty equity opinions, each one involving the examination of from two bundred to seven bundred pages of testimony. During seventeen days he wrote twenty-two opinions. In 869 he issued two volumes of United States Circuit Court reports. "Aside from his duties as Judge, is last prominent public appearance was in connection with the Electoral Commission, of which he was a memer by virtue of his place on the Bench and President because of the seniority of his commission. Together with the minority of seven he voted in favor of receiving aliunde evidence and going beyond the returns to determine Electoral qualifications. In his capacity as President of the Commission he did an act of which even an honorable man turpentine dull and weak at 414 cents; rosin | might be proud."

Edison's phonograph has been lost sight of, but it is not dead. Mr. Bentley, of Philadelphia, says it will be used one of these days in connection with the telephone. It will take down what the other receives. He said to a Philadelphia Times report-

"Edison, when he invented the phonograph, without going on with it and bringing it to a stage of usefulness, had, as was a habit with him, thrown it saide and taken up something else. But Edison had not forgotten it, and some days when he was in the humor for it he would take the phonograph up where he had left off with it, and by a few touches produce a perfect registering instrument to be controlled by the telephone. It was elear that one belonged to the other. The principle was there, and all it wanted was a master-hand to develop

There is a curious error in the 16 mo Oxford edition of the Revision. occurs in L. Corinthians iii: 5. W noticed it sometime ago and intended mentioning at. It has been pointed out by two of our Northern exchanges. It reads: "What then, is Apollos? and what is Paul? Ministers through whom ye Lord believed; and each as the gave to him.' The word 'Lord' has been dropped in 'making up' the form, and inserted a line ahead of its proper place; it should come in after each as the."

Senator-elect Lapham promises to be a civil service reformer who would please the late Hayes set perfectly. He made a speech at Albany in which he flapped the bloody-shirt and said that, "dispensing the Federal patronage in this great State of New York" was "an inferior portion of the high duty devolving upon a Senator," it was nevertheless a duty, and one which he hoped his collegue and himself would be able to discharge satisfactorily. Nice Lapham!

The Charleston News & Courier thinks Longstreet's communication in the Philadelphia Press was written by the correspondent of that paper who interviewed Mr. Davis. It says H. W. Grady wrote his account of Gettysburg for him, and says it was "an excellent piece of work." It thinks the last article makes him "ridiculous" and makes him talk "sophomorical slop by the pailful." We give our opinion on the second page.

Crops are looking well: Cotton not so forward as usual. Health generally good.

- Toisnot Sunny Home: Last Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, being the time designated by Ellis Pratt (who had been fasting and praying for more than a week, saying that the spirit of God was at work on him) for the resurrection of the body of Suncombe Bunn, who died at the advanced age of 65 years, near Battleboro, during the summer of 1880, at an early hour large crowd of believers had gathered at grave to witness the sight. After spending the day in the warm sun, waiting and watching, they went to their respec-tive homes thinking it a strange thing that 'Uncle Buncombe" didn't arise.

- Statesville American: The long drouth that had prevailed in this locality, came to an ending last Wednesday, with a heavy rainfall, electricity and high wind, thunder very heavy. The mill dam of L. S. Tays was much injured, some 80 feet swept away, likewise the dam at Stephenson's tan yard in the edge of the city. Coton and corn on the hill sides were badly washed. Some damage was done to the foundation walls of Jourgenson & Co. new tobacco warehouse, and store of J. J Mott, but not material from overflows from the streets into the basements. The rain was quite local, and the heaviest known here since the war. - Winston Leader; Miss Mariah Nail, the smallest woman in this country, is on a visit to Winston. She lives in Mocksville. She is 30 years old, 28 inches high and weighs 50 pounds. — Gentlemen from High Point and New Garden were in Winston last week prospecting with a view to locating a shuttle factory in this place or vicinity. - The Sentinel of this place, publishes the fact, furnished by G. A. Griffith, that on the 10th of July Rev. Solomon Les, of the Methodist church, while preaching a Prohibition ser-mon at Lea's Chapel, in Person county, was struck speechless, and that all remedies failed until whiskey was administered.

Winston Sentinel: On last Saturday night the valuable grist and saw mill of Mesers. Albert & Aquilla Jones, near West Bend, Yadkin county, was destroyed by fire. The property was almost new and valued at $3,000, There was a small insurance on it. —Scarcely a week ago Mary, the eldest daughter of Rev. F. H. The residence of J. W. Jones, Esq. at Mt. Nebo, Yadkin county, was destroyed by fire on the night of the 5th inst. The particulars, as we learn them are, that a lamp in the hands of Mrs. Jones exploded, which set fire to the dwelling. — Mr. Aleck Miller, who is travelling with Barker's threshing machine this summer, received a very painful accident near town last Friday. His right hand was caught the machine, and his thumb and first finger torn off and his hand facerated to such an extent that Dr. Bahnson, who attended the sufferer, deemed it necessary to amputate the larger portion of the palm.

The following are the Indications for the South Atlantic States to-day: Local rains followed by clearing weather, variable winds, stationary or higher has rometer and temperature. Heavy Rains.

This section was visited by heavy rains esterday morning, and, from what we can understand, it is probable that they were very general. Passengers on the C. C. road report that the rain commenced at Charlotte Tuesday evening, and from there to Wilmington and from Raleigh to Hamlet the fall had been by no means slight. It is to be hoped that the suffering crops in the western counties have shared in the refreshing showers to a beneficial extent, and that the rainfall has been sufficient in the regions penetrated by the tributaries to the Cape Fear to materially improve navigation and give the steamers some showing.
