THE PRESIDENT.

CONTINUATION OF THE CRISIS - GREAT ANXIETY AND APPREHENSION-A SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT IN THE PA-TIENT'S CONDITION IN THE EVENING AWAKENS RENEWED HOPE.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star. 1

UNOFFICIAL BULLETIN. EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 23, 11.30 A. M .- The condition of the President has not materially changed since yesterday afternoon, and is yet the subject of grave anxiety. The improved tone of the patient's stomach, which gave some encouragement to his attendants yesterday, is still maintained, and this is the most hopeful feature of the case. He has taken this morning six and a half ounces of beef juice without nauses or any other symptom of gastric disturbance. Upon the continuance for several days at least of this ability to take and assimilate food, and upon the continued absence of further complications, would seem to rest the patient's chance of recovery. If the wound continues to do well, if no serious consequences result from the swelling of the parotid gland, and if the stomach continues to take food enough to make good the waste caused by suppuration, there will at least be improvement enough within the next four or five days to carry the patient to a higher plane of vitality, and perhaps to put him on the road, although not on the sure road, to recovery. The continuance of these favorable conditions, however, while universally hoped for, cannot be confidently predicted. Dr. Agnew returned to Philadelphia this forenoon. OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 23, 12.30 P. M .- The President continues to take by the mouth and retain an increased quantity of liquid food. At the morning dressing the wound looked well and the pus was of a healthy character. The mucus accumulations in the back of the mouth, on account of the perotid swelling, are less viscid and now give but little trouble. At present his pulse is 104, temperature 98 9, respira-

WASHINGTON, August 23 .- The following was sent this afternoon: Lowell, Minister, London:-In the last twelve hours, since 1 o'clock this morning, the President has swallowed eighteen ounces of liquid food. He has had no nausea, and the pulse and temperature are not essentially changed. In the judgment of his physicians he has lost nothing since the last dispatch. If there be any change it is for the better.

BLAINE, Secretary. UNOFFICIAL BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 23, 2.30 P. M .- From the best information obtains ble at this hour, including the statements of two of the attending surgeons, it may be said that the condition of the President has not changed in any material respect since yesterday afternoon. He is taking increased quantities of nourishment and this circumstance of course affords a rational ground for a feeling of encouragement; but the same uncertainty which prevailed yesterday with regard to the future course of the glandular inflammation prevails to-day, and there is still the same question, whether the patient can take nourishment enough to sustain his strength through the present critical stage of his case. The indications are that he can; but until there is a more decided change than has yet occurred a confident prediction must be withheld. At this hour it can only be said that the patient is certainly no worse in any respect, and that his ability to take nourishment is steadily increasing.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN. EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 23, 6:36 P. M.-The President continued to take liquid food by mouth at regular intervals during the day, and has had no recurrence of gastric disorder. The parotid swelling remains unchanged; but in other respects the symptoms show some improvement over the condition yesterday afternoon. l'ulse 104, temperature 99.2, réspiration 19.

(Signed) D. W. BLISS, J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN,

D. HAYES AGNEW. EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 23, 2 P. M. -In an interview with a reporter of the Associated Press at 1.30 this afternoon, Dr. Bliss made the following replies to questions asked him :

"How is the President to-day?" "He is doing nicely.' "How much food hashe swallowed since morning?" "He has had about eighteen ounces and a half of liquid nourishment since 1 o'clock last night, not including What has been the character of the food ?" "It has been stronger than yesterday. The quantity of beef juice has been largely increased and pepetonized milk has been added to the list." "Has the stomach seemed to assimilate food well without discomfiture?" "Yes."

"Do you notice to-day any evidences of increased strength as a result of this fuller and more stimulating diet?" "His pulse is a little less frequent and its character is etronger and better; in other respects there is not much change. "What is the appearance of the inflamed parotid gland to-day?" "It is still hard to the touch, and has not perceptibly changed in appearance.

"How long before suppuration will be-gin, if it begins at all?" "It may be two or three days yet. There is no certainty that lows: Lt. Smith and a force of twenty the swelling will suppurate." "Has there been any change in the blood?' "I think there are evidences that the septic condition is passing off." "Upon the whole, what do you think of the patient's condition as compared with vesterday?" "I think it is a little better.

The President seems to me to be gaining." Washington, August 23, 10:30 P. M -The President has had a rather better day to-day than was generally anticipated. The somewhat discouraging tone of Secretory Blaine's telegram to Minister Lowell thought have overtaken them ere this. last night seemed to prepare the public for the worst, and although the official bulletin this morning was not unfavorable, a general feeling of anxiety and apprehension prevailed, both at the Executive Mansion and throughout the city. It seemed to be almost universally conceded that the condition of the President was in the highest degree critical and alarming, and on the streets four persons out of five if asked what they thought of the President's chances would have replied that his death was a question of a few days, if not of a few hours. For this state of excitement and alarm, however, the real facts of the case hardly furnished sufficient justification. The condition of the President was, it is true, a subject of grave anxiety to his surgeons, to his attendants and to Mrs. Garfield; but not more so than it was vesterday, and not so much so as on Sunday. On Sunday afternoon there was could be brought to resume 'its functions. As soon as the President began to swallow food again his condition, to that extent, at least, became more hopeful. Without adequate nourishment death from exhaustion seemed inevitable, while with proper food he might live. In a qualified sense, therefore, he was better this morning than he was Sunday night, although his general condition in the interval had not materially changed. Before the morning examination to-day be had swallowed six ounces of beef juice without nausea or discomfort, and this increasing ability to take nourishment encouraged the surgeons to hope that the danger of death from exhaustion, which they regarded with the most apprehension, might be averted. Up to noon he had swallowed 16 or 17 ounces of hquid food, but there had been no indication of an increase in his strength, with the exception of a stronger and slightly improved pulse. Generally speaking the patient at noon was bolding his own, but making no perceptible progress. He slept about as much as usual during the afternoon and continued to take nourishment at intervals, until at 4 o'clock he had swallowed more than twenty ounces. At 4.20 P. M., Dr. Reyburn reported that the general condition of the patient seemed slightly improved. This informstion was confirmed by the evening bulletin, which showed a lower pulse than the patient has had at any evening ex-amination since the 13th inst. Since half-past 6 o'clock he has slept most of the time quietly and naturally, and the slight improvement of the afternoon is still maintained. At this hour, 11 P. M., Dr. Bliss reports that the President's pulse is 102 to 104, and his temperature apparently about normal. He is sleeping quietly and his symptoms are as favorable as at any time during the day. Dr. Bliss expresses the opinion that upon the whole the President has made a slight gain to-day, and that his symptoms indicate further improvement to-morrow. Most of the members of the Cabinet were at the Executive Mansion tonight, and all seemed more or less encouraged by the statements of the surgeons with regard to the President's condition. Attorney General MacVeagh said at 9 o'clock that the President seemed to be taking his nourishment well, and that he felt somewhat more hopeful with regard to the future of his case.

Dr. Hammond arrived from New York

The following was sent at 11 o'clock to-To Lowell, Minister, London:-The Presi dent's condition is more encouraging than it was at this time last night. During the last twenty-four hours he has swallowed ten ounces of the extract of beef and eighteen ounces of milk, retaining and digesting both. He has twice asked for food, which he has not done before for several days. His pulse and temperature are both somewhat lower. The swelling of the parotid gland has not specially changed. Its long continuance at the present stage iucreases the fcar of suppuration. At this hour, 11 o'clock, the physicians report that the President, has rested quietly the entire

A dispatch from Tunis says that the Bey's troops, which left Goletta yesterday, have gone to Kairwan in hopes of inducing the tribes there to yield, and thus obviate the necessity of the French entering the town. The French, however, are determined to occupy it, as they desire to quell the disaffection in the adjacent provinces of Algeria, for which purpose they must subjugate the southern portion of the regency. The French are entering upon he most difficult part of their enterprise. This entry into Kairwan will be seriously opposed, and it is feared that in the event of a collision, the Bey's troops will side with the rebellious tribes.

AWLESS PROCEEDINGS OF A BAND OF DESPERADOES-THE CITIZENS IN ARMS-SEVERAL OF THE OUTLAWS

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] ST. Louis, August 23 -Houston (Texas) specials indicate that the bloody tragedies which occurred at Orange during the past week are causing intense excitement along the line of the Texas & New Orleans Railroad, and fears are entertained that something worse will follow, The present condition of affairs grew out of a difficulty which occurred three weeks ago between O. L. Delano, a noted desperado, and De-tective Wood, in which Delano seriously, shot Wood and escaped, and Charles Delano, brother of O. L. Delano, accused Sheriff George Michael of aiding in the escape, and swore that he would get even with him. With this view he concocted a plan to assassinate Michael, in which he was aided by Dug Harris and two negroes, Sam and Bob Saxon. The plan failed, but they succeeded in wounding the Sheriff badly by leading him into ambush. The citizens became greatly incensed at these proceedings and one hundred and fifty of them congregated, captured four of the negroes and shot them. Bob Saxon was also captured, and, after extorting a confession from him, in which he revisited the plot to kill the sheriff, he was hanged to a tree. Another negro was arrested and hanged, and Charles Delano was captured and placed in jail. A hundred armed men scoured the neighboring swamps for others of the gang. A guard was placed around the jail night before last to guard Delano. Sam Saxon, one of the leaders of the desperadoes, who was wounded, came into Orange yesterday and surrendered to the guard at the jail. At 8 o'clock last night the guard was disbanded and went home; but an hour later a large body of men surrounded the jail, and the deputy sheriff, being unable to hold it, was compelled to surrender, and Sam Saxon and another negro of the gang were taken out and the bodies filled with buckshot. Before dying Saxon made a confession, detailing some of the operations of the band, one of which was an attempt to burn the town of Orange.
