The question of food adulteration is agitating the thinking public of Europe and the North. In fast legislation is exhorted to interfere to protect the people. Milk, butter, flour are found upon analysis to contain over 15 per cent. of adulteration. The New York Times says:

"The most extensive adulterations praciced in this country are those which affect prime necessity of rich and poor alikesugar. It is a fact not widely known that the sugar interest of the United States ranks first in importance and extent of all departments of commerce, and, of the entire imports into the States, one sizth in bulk and value is sugar.

"These broad facts indicate the yastness of the sugar consumption, and the fact that sugar enters largely into nearly all forms of infants' food that are used as substitutes for heir mothers' milk, is a cogent reason why dangerous adulterations of sugar should be prevented."

Where the remedy lies it would be hard to tell. The truth is the laws already passed to a considerable extent have been inoperative. But awmakers should not cesse to try to devise ways and means to suppress such vile attempts upon health and the pocket-books of others.

England is importing immensely in articles of food. It is said that a great deal of the money that is realized from investments go to pay for foreign importations of food articles. Prof. Sheldon has been giving the British people some needed light on the subject. He gives the following to show how the importation of dairy and other products has grown in ten years:

Eggs, value.....$ 5,634,265 $11,478,600 34,616,050 51,897,255 Butter, 15,169,250 19,120,085 cheese. Bacon and hams, val. 12,151,800 44,401,115 Pork, value...... 2,879,125 3,556,810 Lard, 4,652,580 7,100,405 But how can the Britishers alter these figures ? We suppose they do about all they can. They must continue to import or eat less. But what Englishman is willing to die indebted begin to be thinned of cut-throats and assassing. It is a summary way of dealing with onme, is lawless, and not to be advocated generally, but it is effective. None of the six will ever rob, burn or murder again in this life, but he may burn elsewhere.

"Uncle John" Stewart, of Shelby county, Alabama, is the oldest man in that State. He was born 102 years ago, and has about two hundred living descendants - Phil. Times

Is that so? Then Alabama is bad off. Every poor house in every county in North Carolina contains one or more inmates whose ages range from 110 to 150 according to the credulity of visitors. In every one of the 96 counties there are at least a half dozen persons who are way up in hundred and odd. Only one man in Alabama 102. Poor

Alabama There is one paper in Illinois that is a disgrace to that State. No Southern man of any party can have anything but contempt for the man who could write the following. We copy from the Quincy Herald:

"We believe Guiteau to be just as honorable as the man he shot, and a mighty sight less dangerous to the country at large than that plaus:ble, smooth-toogued, upprincipled man who, with a sniffl : sud pious groan, will turn from a prayer to take a bribe, commit a perjury or steal a presidency

Massachusetts has no such thing as coroner's icquest. Medical examiners are appointed, who operate under the district courts. - Exchange

That is about the best thing we have heard of Massachusetts. Medical men are better qualified to act than men generally in such case. The courts have jurisdiction and the ex aminers report to them and act under their appointments. Could not North Carolina improve its present system ?

Some Philadelphia and New York ballot stuffers are in Europe evidently enjoying the summer. How else can you account for the reported two hundred and fifty repeaters who were hours he seemed quite insensible of our presence, breathed heavily, and at last quietly sunk to rest with one deep-drawn sigh. Oh what a glorious rest was in store for him-the humble, consistent Christian, who, not many weeks before, had said, when we were talking of the assurance of heaven, he wished he could feel that assurance. He will be surprised at the welcome: "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter into the joy of thy Lord." Had be been successful instead of the "hero of a lost cause" he could not have been more beloved and honored. I am content and would not have him back, though I must continue my weary pilgrimage alone, without the support on which I had leaned with such perfect confidence for more than thirty years. We shall continue to make this our home. I could not bear to move into a new house, and my own Arlington is not open to me. Believe me always truly and affectionately your friend,

CURRENT COMMENT.

-The Times does not perturb the News and Courier by styling its warnings "foolish vaporings." There are none so blind as those who won't see. In the Southern States there are plenty of demagogues, although these cattle are fewer in number, in proportion, than in the North. They have a more daugerous element to operate upon than the Northern agitator has-the negro. What has kept the Sonthern demagogues back and down is the conservatism of the quiet property-holding Southerners who hold no offices and want none. These are the people against whom the Times declares war. They are the "Bourbons" whom it desires to overthrow and crush. The influences of the respectable white people of the South have been and are uniformly conservative in every phase of life. -Charleston News and Courier, Dem.

-- Atlanta is making every preparation for her Cotton Exposition. It will do her good. It will do the entire country good. Northern men and Southern men will be brought close together. People who have never been south of Mason and Dixon's line will get a better idea of the vast resources of the cotton States in a brief visit than they could get in years from dry statistics. There is nothing like seeing for yourself. It is barely possible that the Northern man will discover that there is really something of good in the South, after all. It is barely possible that the Southerner will find that the Northern man isn't such a terribly bad sort of a fellow, in spite of reports to the contrary. The two extremes of the country are about to shake hands over the cotton bales. Let the greet. ing be a hearty one.-Philadelphia Times, Ind.

THEORY VERSUS PRACTICE.

New Hampshire Republicans de not like any measure that looks to reform in the matter of elections The old fashioned, long-tried plan of cheating is good enough for them. An effort in the Senate to protect the ballot-box was opposed and defeated by the Republicans who are always clamoring about freedom and purity of elections. We have not seen the bill, but the Philadelphia' Times has seen it, and it says:

"There was nothing objectionable in the bill, even though there were never any frauds in the elections in New Hampshire to make it necessary; and if there ever are frauds to any degree whatever some steps should be taken to discourage them. In opposing such a bill without offering something better in its place, any party is loading itself with a responsibility waich cannot be pleasant to carry in a comparatively close State.

If the election methods were im proved that "close State" might be carried by the Democrats. The truth is the Republican party is the hypocritical party. It is forever prating and fussing over a free ballot. But look at Massachusetts, look at Rhode Island, and you will see their own interpretation of what they mean by free ballot. In the two States not less than 160,000 men over twenty-one years old are practically disfranchised. It is forever talking about honesty in the payment of debts. It hates repudiation as a most damning iniquity. This is the theory, but look at their practice. In Minnesota the Republicans repudiated-wiped out at one vote a large debt honestly created and dishonestly got rid of. In Virginia, under the sanction and favor of the present Administration, the Republicans, with a few honored exceptions, are cooperating with, are coalescing with, the Repudiationists-the party that is for wiping out half the indebtedness of the State. They wish t, make Virginia do what North Carolina did-get rid of millions of dollars that it owes.

Now, in New Hampshire they are fighting successfully a legislative project to prevent frauds in elections. This is exactly what they do not want in that State, as without frauds they may be beaten. They see a prospect of a defeat in an honest bal-

A laboring man of Richmond, Virginia, attended the meetings held two weeks ago at Lake Chatauqua, New York. He made a speech. It was a sensible one and well calculated to make those who heard him think less evil of the South. He denied that good, well-meaning people were ostracised in the South, but he told them of a class that were not desirable, either as acquaintances or setto his stomach?

tlers. We quote a paragraph from him

"It is true that, when one c mes along proposing to upset the social status of the races in the South, he is not so readily taken to the hearts and homes of the whites. Neither whites nor blacks in the South thick it best to pursue a course which, though slowly, yet surely, would lead to an amalgamation of the races. Here, where there are nincty-nine whites to one colored person, you may be disposed to complain of this 'caste spirit,' as you call it ; but, if you lived in the South, you would most likely feel and act just as we do." The Westminster Review is good authority in matters of belles lettres. When it enters the domain of theolos gy it is dangerous and absurd. It always refers to Christianity as "moribund," a statement neither creditable to its intelligence nor candor. The novels that are mentioned with commendation for the last quarter are: "Sunrise," by Black; "Doctor Wortle's School," by Anthony Trollope; "Miss Williamson's Divigations," by Miss Thackeray (Mrs. Ritchie); "Tigers and Traitors," by Jules Verne. We may mention that the strange name of Miss Thackeray's novel means simply "Going Astray." Her great father uses the word in one of his novels.

"I! Mr. Arthur becomes President, let him be judged by what he does, and not by what he has done or left undone. He is a strong Republican, of course, but he is a better man than some people represent him to be."- Charlotte Democrat.

The STAR will be willing to test him by his acts if he should under an inscrutable Providence become President of these United States. But there is nothing-absolutely nothing in his antecedents to excite hope. He was expelled from the New York Custom House by Hayes and John Sherman because of corruption. It will be a sad trial to have a man of this sort in the highest office in a used in Madrid in the election on last Tuesday? It is not fair in Republican bosses to try to overturn Spanish authorities by Northern methods.

THE DEATH OF GEN. LEE.

INTERESTING PRIVATE LETTER FROM THE LATE MRS. MARY CUSTIS LEE. Special Correspondence of the Times. CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Aug. 19.-

In the fall of 1870 we went to Lexington to visit General and Mrs. Lee. Perfectly do I recall my impression of the General as he advanced to meet me. The preoccupied, careworn expression that his face had worn during the war was gone, and he looked as I had remembered him years before. He had accepted the results of the war. There was no reserve of bitterness, no useless regrets, but the brave determination to make his life useful. We bade him farewell on Monday, September 26, after several days most pleasantly spent, and on the Wednesday following, suddenly and as a shock to the whole country, came the avant-courier of death. I will here add a letter from Mrs. Lee, giving some details of the sad event and bespeaking her own noble, beautiful character:

LEXINGTON, Nov. 20, 1870. MY DEAR MRS. --: I should sooner have replied to your letter, but have been very sick and confined to my bed for a month.

Dear friend I am so glad your husband and yourself made that visit, and only wish you could have remained longer. Constantly are we reminded how important it is to do whatsoever our hand findeth to do.

That Wednesday night, at halfpast 7 o'clock, after a day every moment of which had been filled with care for others and the closing hours to the vestry meeting of the church, my husband came in. We had been wating for him, and I remarked: 'You have kept us waiting a long time. Where have you been?" He did not reply, and stood up as if to say grace, but no sound proceeded from his lips and he sat down in his chair perfectly upright and with a sublime look of resignation on his countenance, but did not attempt to reply to our inquiries. That look was never to be forgotten, and I have no doubt that he felt then his hour had come, although he submitted to The Battle of the Glants. N. Y. Banker & B oker.

Our readers will remember our definite announcement that the "war of rates" was but the beginning of war between Mr. Vanderbilt and Mr. Gould. The former, a slow but unrelenting and headstrong man, feels at last that he has got a death hold on his nimble enemy, and unless he belies his nature and yields to the urgency of his friends and the promises of the man he disbelieves, he will force Mr. Gould to the wall or go there himself. The issue is hardly doubtful. OUR STATE CONTEMPORABIES. It is amusing to see the Hepublican press claiming the result of the election on the 4th as a victory for its party. The Republicans as a party are in a hopeless minority in North Carolina. They cannot so much as elect a magistrate or a county commissioner, and yet it is coolly claimed that they can cast 120,000 majority against prohibition !- Statesville Landmark.

There is another point to which public attention ought to be called in this connection, and that is the unjust discrimination made in the pay of male and female teachers, the pay of the latter being almost invariably smaller than that of the former, however large or small that of the former may be. We see no reason why the compensation of a woman, who does her work well and faithfully, should not be as liberal as that of the man who does the same work and does it no better-in many cases not as well. There is neither justice nor sense in this. There is no good reason for it. The woman who gives her time to perfecting herself in her profession, shows talent, energy, and devotion to her calling, taking an interest and pride in it, as many good women in this State do, should not be ignored and undervalued simply because she is a woman .-Charlotte Observer
