Sidney Lanier, one of the most admirably endowed of Southern literary men, a native of Macon, Ga., died in his 39th year of consumption on Thursday last, at Lynn, Polk county, North Carolina, whither he had gone in search of health. He has done a good deal of excellent work, and we are glad to know that when he was ridiculed even by Southern writers a few years ago we found much to admire and very genuine merit in the man. We venture to say that the best exponents of Northern culture and criticism will be found bestowing high and deserved praise upon this gifted son of the South. We will give some particulars of his life hereafter. An excellent editorial upon him in the Baltimore American says of his works and genius: "Mr. Lanier had all of a poet's temperament and much of a poet's power, a dainty sense of melody in words, a daring and inventive fancy and subtlety of thought. He had a fondness for antique diction, and for the use of words in their strict rather than their conventional meanings. His 'Centennial Ode' was much admired by those who read it with such care as to see the depth of its meaning. His poem 'Corn' was full of beauty. His work on the Philosophy of English Verse' was highly ingenious and thoughtful, and eminently characteristic of the mind at once imaginalive and analytic. But he is better known by his 'Boy's Froissart' and his 'Boy's King Arthur' than any of his other literary works. It was his misfortune to write chiefly under the spur of necessity, and it may be doubted that he ever gave complete expression to that which was great within him.'

FRIDAY'S STORMS.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE GREAT GALES OF FRIDAY LAST-DAMAGE TO VESSELS BELOW-HOUSES AT FORT FISHER SWEPT AWAY -DEATH OF ONE OF THE VICTIMS OF THE W.

& W. FREIGHT HOUSE DISASTER-DAMAGE TO CROPS, TURPENTINE TREES, &C.

A stroll through the streets and along our wharves yesterday gave us a much more adequate conception of the ravages of the tempest on Friday than we had previously entertained. In fact, in the brief interval allowed us after the subsidence of the storms we had very little opportunity to acquaint ourselves with all the particulars of the numerous disasters which they entailed upon the people of Wilmington and its vicinity.

The destruction of shade trees through out the city is not among the least of the evils entailed upon us by the terrible blow. It is probable that at least six or eight hundred of the finest trees in the city have been prostrated, while others have been stripped of most of their limbs. The most of the elms stood the blast remarkably well, but the mulberry, chinaberry and some others stood no showing; but a great many even of elms and oaks succumbed to the fury of the gale, especially in exposed places. All over the city, too, fences were lying upon the ground, and the sound of hammers could be heard in every direction, as the busy workmen toiled to remedy the damage done. It is an old saying that "it is an ill wind that blows nobody any good," and the truth of it is verified in this case, as it is probable that carpenters and other workmen will be kept busy for some time repairing the damages resulting from the storms. The scene at the Wilmington & Weldon and Carolina Central depots yesterday was a fair indication of the fury of the hurricanes. We found those who witnessed the sight of the roof of the W. & W. shed on the wharf being taken off bodily and hurled through the air a distance- of - Prof. Agostini left here for one hundred yards or more and thrown Samter, S C., on Friday evening, where he upon the hill in the vicinity of the machine shops, and they describe the scene as a fearful display of the power of the tempest when in its most furious mood. Some of the flying Uams and rafters and tin from the roof came in contact with a tree just inside of the inclosure, near the machine shops, and twisted the top off of it, leaving a large portion of the tin dangling from

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS. The house on the southwest corner of Ninth and Red Cross streets, known as Browning's church, where religious services are frequently held by colored people, was blown down. A colored woman who was in bed at the time made a narrow escape, one of the beams having fallen against the bed-post, but she was rescued from among the rubbish without much injury. Tin from the roof of St. Stenhen's A. M. E. church struck the Peabody school house on the other side of the square, and damaged it slightly. Several of the pillars supporting the upper plazzs of Mr. W. G. Fowler's residence, corner of Front and Ann streets, were blown out, but the piezza remained in position. The tin roof of the rice mill on Point Peter, belonging to the W. F. Potter estate, was blown off. One of the chimneys of Capt. Divine's residence, on Mulberry, between Third and Fourth streets, was broken off and thrown down upon the roof. Some of the windows were also blown out and carpets, etc., damaged by water beating in. The severity of the gale was greatly felt on the stillyard of Messrs. Morton & Hall, who had all of their still chimneys blown down, sheds broken in, and a portion of the roof of their spirits turpentine shed taken off, water-pipe broken, etc. Mr. Morton was standing in his office door and witnessed the taking off of the entire eastern side of the roof of the spirits shed, which was whirled into the air and precipitated into the yard about one hundred feet from the shed. He estimates his loss at about $200. The store and residence of Mr. Chas. Schulken, corner of Fourth and Swann streets, was unroofed, and his furniture was badly damaged by water, and the store and residence of Mr. J. W. Robins, corner of Fourth and Nixon streets, was served in the same way, while the whole neighborhood was blockaded with trees. A dwelling on Third, between Red Cross and Campbell streets, occupied by Mr. H.

IN THE VICINITY. At Mr. J. F. Garrell's Sans Souci planta. tion, on the Little Bridge road, near the Moses Jordan and Wash. About one mile of his fence was also prostrated. He had fifty acres in cotton, which was pre- from burning during the height of the gale. senting a splendid appearance before the storm, and he now estimates that it will be damaged at least one-half. The ground yesterday morning was almost literally covered with green bolls. He has two hundred and fifty acres in lowland rice, which has been damaged considerably by the heads being thrashed off, but to exactly what extent he cannot now say. Nearly all of the fine grove of trees at what was formerly 'his Sans Souci residence were also blown down, only two or three being left standing. Mr. Bray, his overseer, estimates Mr. Garrell's loss at not under $3,000. At the Fair rounds only one small building was left | fencing; much damage was done to Mr.

Clowe, had the tin blown from the roof.

The tin roof of the old Roberts foundry, or

and the remainder followed in quick succession. A colored woman, her grown daughter and two or three children were in one of the houses, but managed to escape serious injury, Mr. Thomas Monk's cotton crop near the city was badly damaged. The corn crop in Brunswick county, we learn, is badly injured, many of the ears being beaten off the stalks. Judge Russell's loss in cotton, it is estimated, will reach $1,200. The rice crops are also badly damaged. The gale played havoc with the TURPENTINE TREES. A gentleman stated yesterday that over one-third of the turpentine trees from Town Creek, Brunswick county, to this city, were blown down; and another stated that on the line of what is known as the "Nigger Head" road, nearly one-half of them were prostrated. In some places where formerly there were thick clumps only a very few are now standing. Out on the Little Bridge road, to a distance of about four of five miles, a great number were prostrated.

THE DAMAGE BELOW.

At Fort Fisher, where there is a small fishing village, all the houses but one were swept away. The one standing was formerly occupied as officers' quarters, and it had its piazza carried away. One house, located near the water, belonging to a Mr. Mayo and occupied by a Mr. Thomas Smith, was washed entirely away, not a vestige of it being left, together with all of Mr. Smith's furniture and clothing; the family barely escaping with their lives. A party from this city who was there at the time, left about 2 o'clock that afternoon and walked home, all the boats, nets, etc., being washed away. Capt. Harper, of the steamer Passport, who gives us the above information, states that the new dredge, E. V. White, is all safe, but the scows are all high and dry at Price's Creek and will have to be launched off. The schooner Rose, loaded with lumber, sunk at her wharf at Smithville. The pilot boat J. A. Levensaler, the schooner Siam the pilot boat Swift and the schooner Plant are all high and dry on the "Rocks" between Smithville and Fort Caswell. The pilot boat Uriah Timmons collided with the barque Glacier and sunk in the channel, all hands on board saving themselves; and the Glacier afterwards went ashore on the "Rocks." The tug Alpha, the steamer Passport and the revenue cutter Colfax all pulled on her yesterday morning, but failed to move her. The pilot boat Mustery came inside Friday morning, when her sails were blown away and she drifted outside, and soon afterwards went ashore down the beach about four miles from Smithville. The captain and crew saved themselves by swimming ashore. The Mystery, which is a total wreck, belonged to Mrs. Smith and others, of Smithville, and the Uriah Timmons to Capt. C. C. Morse, (the latter, it will be remembered, being the boat that rode out the great storm in safety when the pilot boat Mary Sprunt went down outside the bar with all on hoard some years ago.) In Smithville very little damage was suffered, a few trees and fences being blown down. The wharves and bath houses were carried away by the previous storm. The revenue cutter Colfax came in from Georgetown and reported no gale in that direction. She took off two men that had been left on the ship La Louisiana, who would otherwise probably have perished. DEATH FROM THE STORM. Isauc Shaw, one or the victims of the disaster to the freight warehouse of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, during the storm, died yesterday morning, about 1 o'clock. He had one of his legs broken in two or three places, and was otherwise injured. There were four men in the house at the time, and they had caten their dinners and were sitting down, waiting for the bell to ring for them to recommence work when they saw their danger and attempted to escape, running in the direction where the most danger was to be expected instead of in the opposite one. The men were named Isaac Shaw, James Davis, Gilbert Halladay and Daniel Sanders. Davis is said to be in a somewhat critical condition, but may recover. Gilbert Halladay, whose ribs were fractured on the right side and who was bruised on the back and shoulder, is doing as well as could be expected. Sanders' injuries are not considered serious. Shaw, who lived on Hanover, between Second and Third streets, formerly resided in Goldsboro, and was about 24 or 25 years of age. He had no family, we understand.

The hurricane struck the steamer John Dawson while she was on her way to the city and about five miles from the mouth of Black river. Under good management the boat sustained no damage, but Capt. Sherman had a narrow escape. He was blown

The dwelling house on Front street, corner of Walnut, had a narrow escape The proprietor and his wife were absent, but fortunately Mr. Sanderlin, who boards in the house, was at dinner when the alarm was given, and managed to extinguish the fire, which had caught in the woodwork around one of the chimneys.

The loss, by the two storms in Wilming. ton is variously estimated, and will probably reach as high as $100,000, if not more. MYRTLE GROVE SOUND.

Jas. W. Green, (colored) writes to the STAR that the storm did considerable damage on the plantation of Mr. R. B. Freeman. It unroofed and wrecked a large pea-house, and blew down the stables, cart shed and standing. The main building went first, [Freeman's pea crops. Pine trees were blown down in all directions, and the main road for foureeen miles is slmost impassable on this account. John E. Mitchell's kitchen was blown down, but no one was

LITTLE GIANT GAS MACHINES

FROM A CRITICAL EXAMINATION OF these Machines, I can recommend them on the following grounds, viz:

They are SIMPLE, ECONOMICAL and SAFE.

Any one of ordinary intelligence can start and regulate the lights, the Machine being in full working order in one auxore after lighting.

One burner will give a light equal in illuminating power to two of City Gas.

The cost will be 75 cents per 1,000 feet, which approximates the cost of ordinary Kerosene Oil, while the trouble and danger with lamps is aboilshed.

The Gas is the purest that can be used—no odor being perceptible in the consumption.

AN EXPLOSION IS IMPOSSIBLE

Insurance Companies prefer risks where these Machines are used over Kerosene Oil lamps.

They are adapted to stores or residences—taking up about the reom occupied by Gas metres.
