May he grow in righteousness! He has since returned to New at 15c. per pound. It is just as well York. Grant is supposed to have

There was many a sad face in Wilmington yesterday. Democrats and Republicans spoke most feelingly and sympathizingly of the great bereavement, and all hearts were turned softly and sympathetically to the mourning household where the dead President lay vanquished. You could not have told from speech or look or tone who were members of the late President's political family. The sky looks dark now, but there is a silver lining behind the clouds we must hope. God reigns and the country lives. May the Great Ruler so direct and control the affairs of this Union that concord and amity shall prevail henceforth from Aroostook to Florida Bay and from Bald Head to San Francisco, and may honor and uprightness, frugality and good will mark every step of our country's march on the great highway of prosperity and glory!

North Carolina makes the finest tobacco, grows the best rice, and can be made to equal any State in the production of cotton to the acre if our people will only so will it. The Special Agent of the Tenth Census,

"The cases of the two Carolinas. with respect to cotton production, are nearly alike, and may as well be considered together. HOW THE NEWS OF HIS DEATH WAS BECEIVED-EVIDENCES OF MOURN-ING-MEETING OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND PRODUCE EXCHANGE -RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY AND REGRET, &C.

The sad though not altogether unexpected news of the death of President Garfield, which was announced through the STAR yesterday morning, and which was flashed over the wires all over this country and across the broad Atlantic in a very short time after it occurred, was received here by all classes of our citizens with the profoundest sorrow, in which was mingled a degree of relief that the intense agony of mind and body that the distinguished sufferer had undergone for the last ten weeks had been brought to an end, and that he is now at rest. No one ever endured suffering with more heroic fortitude, and the nation's tears mingle with those of the noble wife, fond mother, and heart-broken children, who are mutually bereaved by the sad calamity that deprives the country of beloved ruler and his family of a devoted husband, son and father.

Early in the day the flags of the Custom

House, the Signal Office, the U.S. Marine Hospital, the Western Union Telegraph office, and those of Mesers. E. Peschau, German Imperial Consul; Alex. Sprunt, Bri tish Vice Consul; R. E. Heide, Norwegian, Swedish and Danish Vice Consul; Jacob Loeb, French Vice Consul; and George Harriss, Vice Consul for the Argentine Republic at this port, were at haif-mast, as were also those of the shipping in port, the STAR office, and Mr. Wm. Green, the druggist, and perhaps others. All the public buildings, including the City Hall, Custom House, Postoffice, Court House, &c., were draped in mourning, testifying the respect felt for the martyred President and the sorrow for his untimely death. The Custom House was draped both outside and in, and in the passage on the second floor we noticed a large framed portrait of the deceased, surrounded by the emblems of grief. The Purcell House, Theston Normal School House, and some of the stores were also draped in mourning, noticeably among the latter that of Messrs. Asron & Rheinstein, A. David and L J. Otterbourg, on Front

At about 1 P. M., in response to a call, a joint meeting of the members of the Chamber of Commerce and Produce Exchange assembled at the rooms of the latter body. which was called to order by Mr. A. H. VanBokkelen, President of the Chamber of Commerce, who explained the object of the meeting to be to take some action expressive of the sympathy felt by the two bodies and the community generally in the sad death of James A. Garfield, President of the United States.

On motion of R. E. Calder, Esq., President of the Produce Exchange, who was present in the body of the meeting, a committee of three was appointed by the chairman, consisting of Dr. A. J. DeRosset, and Mesers. D. G. Worth and Wm. Calder, to draft suitable resolutions for their action.

The committee retired, and soon afterwards returned and reported through their chairman, Dr. DeRosset, the following preamble and resolutions, which, after being read, were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, In the wisdom of a Divine Providence, it has been decreed that the skill of man, the devotion of friends, the prayers of a people, and the desire of all nations should not avail to save from an untimely and cruel death-the Chief Magistrate of the United States, we desire to put upon record, with profound emotion, the grief which fills our hearts, while humbly bowing in submission to the Will of that Ruler "who reigneth over the kings of the earth" and "doeth all things well." Resolved. That in the death of President Garfield we recognize one of the greatest calamities that has ever befallen our country, one calculated to test to the utmest our peculiar institutions, and requiring of all citizens, without regard to former affilia-tions, the exercise of great forbearance, and such a surrender of individual desires to the public good as may enable us to safely and quietly pass through the ordeal to which we are subjected. Resolved, That his long and painful struggle for life, endured with such manly fortitude and Christian resignation, has endeared him to our people as the most successful administration of public affairs could not have done, and, that in his martyr death, the name of James A. Garfield has been enrolled among those whose memory the South will ever hold most sacred.

Resolved, That in respect to his memory the rooms of this body be draped in mourning until the obsequies of the President are

On motion of Mr. R. E. Calder, it Was resolved that the rooms of the Produce Exchange be closed and business suspended as far as practicable during the day, as a mark of respect to the deceased President. On motion of Mr. Donald McRas, it was resolved that this meeting recommend a general suspension of business throughout the city during the hours appointed for the funeral services of our late President.

Mr. Wm. Calder made a few very touching and appropriate remarks in reference to the matter which had brought them together; alluded in deprecatory terms to the greed for office which is obtaining such a wide-spread footing in the country, cited it as one of the main causes which led to the awful crime, the result of which we now so universally deplore, and intimated that some effective means should be employed, if possible, to bring about a different state of affairs in this free republic of ours, and thus save it from the perils which now en-

Opera House. Mr. John E. Owens, the eminent comedian, supported by a first class company, under the management of Mr. John T. Ford, will appear here, for the first time in several years, on Monday night next, September 26th. To these of our citizens who have seen him no introduction is necessary, and to show others the position he holds we insert from the editorial columns of the Baltimore Gazette the following:

"Mr. John E. Owens is a man by himself. There is nobody like him in all the dramatic world. In his delineations of the humorous side of life he differs from all other artists who have sought to amuse mankind by appealing to the sense of the udicrous. He burlesques comedy itself. His best characters are his own creations. and those which he has taken from the standard drama are vastly more amusing when colored and exaggerated by his overflowing humor than when presented in the conventional way. In the art of managing a and when the culmination comes his own look of amazement is the best part of the scene. His presence on the stage is magnetic, and every actor in the cast catches something of the spirit which he infuses into his own part, and it is impossible for any one to be dull when he is touching the hidden springs of mirth, and furnishing the cue for separate and witty dialogue, and all the other incidents of uproarious comedy. Mr. Owens is now in the ful maturity of his powers, and is as thoroughly in love with his art as when he won his first triumphs as a comedian. Age and experience have given him a deeper insight into what may be called the philosophy of humor, but he still portrays the amiable weaknesses of human nature with the enthusiasm, the freahness and the delightful traconsciousness of a big-hearted school-

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.-Rev. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.—Rev. Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the "Boston Christian Freeman":—We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and its parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection and Mere is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." And during the process of teething its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething siege, on any consideration whatever. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle.
