Opinions vary in Washington very much as to what the President will do with the present Cabinet. The most probable solution seems to be that he will retain such as may suit him, if there should be such, and appoint others to the vacant places. In a word, he will make changes, but how sweeping is not known. Arthur is credited with some modesty. It is said he does not regard himself as a great man. This may be in his favor or it may not be. Suppose, mistrusting his own powers, he should lean on Conkling and Grant? But we do not like to contemplate such a possi

There is a tremendous demand for black muslin in New York. Prices have advanced very rapidly. One firm sold 500 cases. The dry goods market otherwise is quiet. Cotton goods firm.

It is estimated by the Agricultural Department that the corn crop will be short 511,000,000 bushels. It is ascertained that the cotton crop of 1880 was 6,589,329 bales, or 151 per cent, increase, or 891,023 bales of average weight.

The Raleigh News-Observer of vesterday states that Secretary Blaine had invited Gov. Jarvis to attend the funeral of the President, and that he had accepted. This is as it should be, it strikes us. North Carolina most sincerely mourns the death of the Chief Magistrate of the Nation, and it is highly becoming that the Governor should represent the State on so melancholy and touching an occasion.

Mr. Tilden does not believe that the death of the President and the incoming of Arthur will affect the general prosperity of the country in the least. Here is his opinion of the new President:

"Mr. Arthur is a man of ability, of ex-perience and of tact, and it is not probable that he will, even if he could, commit any act that might disturb the present prosperity of the country. The change may affect individuals in the Republican party and their personal interests, but not the business of the country.

President Arthur's friends in New York city indorse very generally the position taken by the Commercial (Conkling's organ) with reference to the Cabinet, &c. We copied yesterday what the Commercial said. Here is another extract from an editorial in the subsequent issue:

"Mr. Owens is one of the leaders of the American stage, in the domain of humor, and his appearance here is an important theatrical event. Mr. Owens has played many parts, all of them well, some of them with humor and pathos of the finest order. His Caleb Plummer is a beautiful work. As John Unit, Solon Shingle, Joshua But-torby, Dr. Pangloss, Mark Meddle and Gülman-not to mention the Dickens parts, and the many old farce parts with which his name is associated—he has evinced a rich vein of fun, such as no other actor has the most successful protracted meetings ever held in the county, numbering one manifested since the days of Burton and Blake. Setchell, had he lived, would no doubt have ripened into an actor of this order-a rich, rosy, juicy, ludicrous kind of theatrical personality, which readers may trace back to Munden, Dowton, Shett and kindred humorists. On the English stage Mr. David James is almost the only actor of this class that now remains. On our own stage Mr. Jefferson and Mr. Clarke are, of course, representatives of an entirely different style of humorous individualityfully as high, but not marked by the same exuberance. Mr. Owens is a humorist. He has given great pleasure, in his time, and his return to us is not only the promise of enjoyment, but the incentive to delightful recollections."

Sylvanus Cobb thus writes the "Boston Christian Freeman": We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good-particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and its parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to per-fection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a but-ton." And during the process of teething its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething sleep, on any consideration whatever.
