Mr. Edward Atkinson is friendly to the South, but he misapprehended utterly the feelings of the Southern people. He has shown this often in his writings. Rev. Mr. Boggs, the Presbyterian minister at Memphis who won eternal honors by his devotedness during the yellow fever horror, has replied to him through the International Review. Whenever Northern men begin to write of the South they begin to show their ignorance, however well-meaning at

The Oriole grand mystic pageant and spectacular display did not pan out verywell we take it. The actors were not well up in their parts and did not understand the situation. The Baltimore Gazette

"For Pharaoh to put his thumb to his nose and twiddle his fingers at his acquaint-ances in the crowd, or for marble statues to giggle and kiss their hands at the balconies, was grossly out of character. But how could a theatrical supernumerary at low wages be expected to make an adequate Cyrus, or Zenobia or Mahomet?"

When the regular session of the Congress begins the Democrats in the Senate may become very important to the President. The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch says:

"Only a Republican Senator or two have to become rebellious to compel the Presi-dent to call on Democratic Senators for help. He gets on peacefully now because he has not formed his Cabinet or made any appointments calculated to excite the hos-tility of the Half-Breeds. This peaceful term will soon end. It does not look, therefore, as if he is prepared to take a very active part in the Virginia campaign.'

Gen. Jubal A Early made a speech a few nights since in Richmond, Va., when he gave Mahone a severe rasping. Brave old Jubal had made Billie Mahone take water before in the matter of that libellous and scandalous reference to him in the biographical sketch of the latter that was as full of falsehood as stupid puffery. Gen. Early said of him: "I know him to be a miserable coward and a base liar.

Eugene Bogardus' rifle shooting, with his gun in straight position, was wonderful, as was also his shooting at moving objects, such as 14 balls out of 15 thrown in the air. -Charlotte Observer: E. H. Dockery, one of the Caroline Thompson mur-derers, was committed to jail here upon affidavits from citizens of Alexander that there were such apprehensions of the lynching of Dockery that it was considered unsafe for him to remain in Alexander jail, or even in the jail of any of the adjoining counties.

- Durham Plant: Notwithstanding these adverse circumstances the frost came and played havor with the tobacco crop. The farmers of Granville, Person, Caswell, Alamance, Orange and Durham had cut comparatively none of the weed, and the loss falls heavy. The damage was not confined to any particular locality, but extends all over the tohacco-growing section of North Carolina and Virginia.

J. C. HAAS—Confederate bonds.

— Goldsboro Messenger: Such a scarcity of laborers and house servants in this section never was known as there is at present. The farmers, too, find the greatest difficulty in getting their cotton picked out.

There is much open cotton in the fields.

We learn that the gin house of Andrew

J. Barfield, near Mount Olive, was destroyed

- Statesville Landmark: It was manimously voted about the hottest September ever known. — One of the best farmers and most intelligent citizens of Sharpesburg township expresses the opinion that, not withstanding the panic about the failure of crops, corn will sell in the heap this fall at 65 cents per bushel. — Rev. J. H. Fesperman, of this place, has joined the army of blood drinkers. Up North there are many persons who drink warm blood regularly and, it is claimed, with excellent results, but it is a new idea down South, notwithstanding the belief of our Northern brethren that the woods of the South are infested with beastly Ku-Klux who subsist entirely upon the blood of their negro victims.

-Shelby Aurora: Cotton in this section is taking the second growth. New boles have begun to form.—Mr. Michael Beam, whose name should ever have a prominent place in North Carolina History, was born on the 1st day of June, 1782. At the age of twenty-two he went to Cincinnati, Ohio, where he visited a cotton factory, then in operation in that city, and made a rough drawing of the machinery on made a rough drawing of the machinery on a piece of common writing paper. He then returned home and went to work with his own hands and manufactured the machinery for what was called a "Mule Spinner" which he put up, and operated successfully, at the place where the widow Susan Beam's mill now stands. He made the spindles in a blacksmith shop and his brother, Mr. Peter Beam, now has some of the tools which he need for that purpose the tools which he used for that purpose. This was doubtless the first factory ever erected in North Carolina and it was first put in operation about the year 1804. A few years after this he put up a factory near Lincolnton, N. C., for Messrs. Warlick & Schenck and after that Mr. John Hoke and others built factories in that Hoke and others built factories in that

Reid, at the Edenton Street Methodist Sunday School room, this evening at 5 o'clock. After the service the remains will be carried via Hamlet, to Wadesboro, N. C., to be interred at that place. A com-mittee from the official board of the Edenton Street church will accompany the remains to Wadesboro. —Elsewhere is printed the reply of Col. Buford, Mr. Clyde and Gen. Logan to the letter of Gev. Jarvis, Senator Vance and Dr. Worth, asking whether the assignees of Mr. Best will reconvey the Western North Carolina Railroad to Mr. Best and his present associates. It will be seen that they reply in the negative, but that they declare their purpose to build the Ducktown branch, and that they offer to make connections with Mr. Best's new road when completed to

Moore, of Edenton, is at the North purchasing machinery for a rice mill to be located in the town of Edenton. — On Tuesday last while Wm. Lindsay and his wife, M. G. Lindsay, were riding in a buggy near the railroad track not far from Berkley, the railroad train, in passing, frightened Mr. Lindsay's horse, and becoming unmanage able Mrs. Lindsay was thrown from the buggy and her neck broken, resulting immediate death. — Hyde county dot: Since my last report we have had refreshing showers, which have improved the rice crop, which, notwithstanding its injury by the drought, will be a paying crop. —— Washington county items: The farmers are booming in their cotton fields, picking, ginning, packing and shipping. In the Pan-tego section a worm has made its appear-ance in the rice fields and they are doing great damage. They cut the stalk at the head and eat the little fibre that supports the grain. The farmers are troubled to know how to remedy it. - Plymouth is rising from its ashes. The burnt district will soon be rebuilt. The frame of the new court house is up. -Weldon News: We are pained to announce the death of Mrs. J. A. Whitehead, which sad event occurred at her husband's residence near here on Tuesday last. — We learn that the case of R. O. Rurton, Jr., administrator, against the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, for damages for killing Mr. Conigland, was compromised at Northampton Court last week for six thou-sand dollars. — The Baptists of the Tar River Association met at Antioch church, in this county, on Thursday, the 6th inst. The canal property has been in litigation for some time and the last step taken in the matter was the appointment of a receiver, T. N. Hill, Esq., and he has now the sole management of the property and business.

- We are requested by the railroad authorities to state that the rate from Goldsboro' to Yorktown and return, as published in Thursday's paper, should have been $6 05 instead of $5 99, as copied from General Orders No. 59, from the Adjutant General's office.

The Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty.

A gentleman informs us that he rode from Goldsbore to Raleigh on Thursday last in the same car with Miss Montague, the famous beauty of Forepaugh's circus, who received a $10,000 prize from that veteran showman on account of her superior attractions. It will be remembered that she was reported to have been sadly disfigured by a recent railroad accident, of which she was a victim, and that her boasted beauty was gone forever. Our friend says this is a mistake. She is a little lame, but has not a scratch on her face. He gives a very enthusiastic description of her charms, which include a somewhat tall figure, about five feet three or four inches in height, with a weight of about one hundred and twenty-five pounds, a pure alabaster complexion, dark eyes, rather dark hair, perfect teeth and the reddest of lips. She stated that she visited Wilmington a year or two ago with Madame Rentz'

Improvement of the Upper Cape Fear. Mr. A. H. It has now been definitely arranged with Mr. Thomas McWatters, who is here in the interest of the distinguished lecturer, that Mr. Archibald Forbes, the great war correspondent of the London dailies, will deliver his lecture on "The Inner Life of a War Correspondent" in this city, under the anspices of the Wilmington Library Association, on Friday, the 21st inst. The New York Express says of one of his efforts:

"Mr. Forbes' lecture was like his letters and dispatches, pithy, nervous, graphic and picturesque, and was rich in anecdotes and incidents of various kinds."

Fire at Lumberton. As the train passed Lumberton yesterday Mr. A. H. McLeod's saw mill and cotton gin were on fire. Our informant could not learn how the fire originated, but states that a large quantity of lumber was consumed in addition to the other property mentioned, which was the extent of the damage so far as he could learn. Unmailable Matter.

CITY ITEMS.

THE MORNING STAR can always be had at the following places in the city: The Purcell House, Harris' News Stand. and the STAR Office.

THE FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE OF THE NURSERY.—The following is an extract from a letter written to the German Reformed Messenger, at Chambersburgh, Penn.: A BENEFACTRESS. Just open the door for her, and Mrs. Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the Nursery. Of this we are so sure, that we will teach our "Susy" to say, "A blessing on Mrs. Winslow" for helping her to survive and escape the griping, colleking, and teething siege. Mrs. Winslow's Soormine Seeur relieves the child from pain, and cures dysentery and diarrhesa. It softens the gums, reduces inflammation, cures wind colic, and carries the infant safely through the teething period. It performs precisely what it professes to perform, every part of it—nothing less. We have never seen Mrs. Winslow—know her only through the preparation of her "Soothing Syrup for Children Teething." If we had the power we would make her, as she is, a physical saviour to the infant race. Sold by all druggists. 25 cents a bottle.
