Archbishop Croke's letter protesting against the Land League manifesto is much talked of in Ireland and is having a decided influence. enemy of landlordism. He says, however, that the doctrine of "no rent" will not do.

Here is the complimentary way the correspondent of the Philadelphia Press spoke of our North Carolina boys who trod the Yorktown dust :

"New York was the first regiment to appear with its flag wholly draped, while North Carolina, next in line, had no mourning badge whatever. The North Carolina men were mostly clad in butternut colored uniform, wore slouch hats and gave the impression that many of them were not unacquainted with the meaning of the word

Hampton were present. Here is what followed, according to a report in the Richmond Dispatch:

"Then Cameron arose and said that Major Ficklen wronged him in his last remark, for he would say to Hampton's face what he did say; and thereupon Col. W. E. Sims, who understood Cel. Cameron to say just what a great majority understood him to say-that he had given Hampton the lie flatly and unqualifiedly—leaped upon the stand, and, confronting Cameron, said excitedly, 'You may say that to him, but you shall not say it to me. I am a relative of Wade Hampton's.' The immediative ate sequel of Sims's appearance was a great rush upon the stand of the friends of both parties, which threatened a serious row, and during this period nothing that was said could be distinctly heard. After awhile quiet was restored, and Col. Cameron then, in explanation, put his 'ifs' so close to his conclusion that his assertion that Hampton had been proved guilty of falsehood was made dependent upon an 'if,' and an 'if,' and so meant nothing."

Haverly's.

The New York Herald says : "It would be hard to find a more side-splitting entertainment than that given at Haverly's Fourteenth Street Theatre, to wit, 'The Widow Bedott,' with Mr. C. B. Bishop in the role of the obstreperous, husband-hunting 'relict.' His droll sayings, his malapropoisms, his wonderful facial play and his irresistible bounce swept the audience away in a tide of laughter that never ebbed until the curtain fell upon the wily widow and her prey in the last tableau. Everybody knows the episodes of this story, and it need only be remarked that every funny point was made the most of by the company, which is much better than that presented by the generality of 'star' per-mail on that line.

Mail Matters. Postmaster Brink informs us that, commencing on Monday, the 24th inst., a pouch of mail will be made up at the Wilmington office and dispatched by the Carolina Central Railroad, on their night train, containing mail for Fayetteville and all offices between Hamlet and Raleigh. This mail is extra and additional to the regular morning HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

What has been Done-Visit of Our Merchants-A Thorough Inspection of the Work.

By special invitation of Mr. Henry Bacon Assistant Engineer in charge of our harbor improvements, Mr. A. H. VanBokkelen, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and a number of our representative merchants at 9:30 A. M. yesterday repaired on board the tug James T. Easton, Capt. E. D. Williams, for the purpose of ascertaining what progress had been made in deepening our river and bar channel.

After steaming down the river we landed at New Inlet and examined the sea wall, and found the cap-stones laid before the great gale of September 9th intact, the oysters and barnacles having formed a cement more impregnable than any work of man.

After viewing the New Inlet breakwater.

we steamed out by the Bald Head channel to sea, our object being to take actual soundings and ascertain the practical depth of water on our bar for vessels. We found from our own soundings the minimum depth of water on the bar to be fourteen and quarter feet, and this taken at the very lowest stage of the tide, the gain being, since 1876, five feet on the bar and an average of eight feet from the inside to the outside buoy. Here was demonstrated the fact that a loaded vessel averaging from 1,500 to 2,000 tons could safely enter the port of Wilmington and find good anchorage. On our return we passed through the new channel, drawing ten feet of water, being cut by Mr. Bacon to facilitate the passage to and from the bar and Wilmington. This new channel obviates the necessity of vessels beating round the Horse Shoe, a sand shoal which runs out a mile into the river, and is a serious obstacle to sailing vessels bound to our port. Looking at the work that has been done on the limited appropriation, it may safely be affirmed that every dollar has done its work, and been faithfully accounted for.

A solid stone curb of 180,000 cubic yards has been constructed, 4,800 feet long, costing but $475,000; whilst the great sea wall of Plymouth, England, not one-half the length or one-third as much exposed to the sea, has cost eight times that amount, and is not to-day finished, and will require $2,500,000 to complete it. The swashes which were created by the storm of last September, whilst not more formidable than those caused by recent washings, will require some additional work to effectually close them against the inroads of the sea in the future. The Assistant Engineer in Charge, Mr. Henry Bacon, has devoted his entire energies to this work, and by careful and unintermitted attention has produced results which, had they een developed in a more commercially important centre, would have undoubtedly won for him not only reputation, but wealth. The commercial community of our city owe Mr. Bacon a debt of gratitude for his devotion to their inter-

A Narrow Escape The wife and child of a gentleman of this city were somewhat indisposed a few days since, and a physician was called in who prescribed for each. The same evening the husband attempted to give the child a dose of the medicine prescribed for it, but instead gave it a decoction which was designed for his wife, which it seems contained an ingredient that could result in no harm to an adult-especially to one in the habit of taking the medicine-but could not be administered to a child with safety. The father and mother soon commenced to discover indications of something wrong in the condition of the child, and the former upon examining into the matter a little, discovered his mistake; whereupon he hurried after the physician, to whom he explained the state of the case in as few words as possible, when the man of medicine remarked: "The child will be dead before I can get there!" He made what haste he could, however, and by dint of extra exertion and the application of proper remedies, succeeded in saving the

This is only another warning as to the great importance of exceeding carefulness in administering medicine, especially to

from Yorktown. The South Carolina Yorktown Regiment, composed of ten companies and numbering 360 men, passed through this city yesterday en route from Yorktown to their homes. They came down town while waiting for their train, and our streets for awhile pre sented quite an animated appearance. Quite a number got left and will take the next train. There were four cars loaded with military and two with civic visitors, the latter including Gov. Hagood and other State officials and dignitaries. The followwere the companies represented: Washington Light Infantry and German Fusilliers, of Charleston; Sumter Light Infantry, of Sumter; Governor's Guards and Richland Volunteers, of Columbia; Butler Guards and Greenville Guards, of Greenville; Abbeville Rifles, of Abbeville; Palmetto Rifles, of Aiken; Gordon Light Infantry, of Winnsboro.

As a general thing they were a fine looking body of men.

Magistrate's Court. Violet Henry, colored, was arraigned before one of the magistrates yesterday, charged with assaulting and unmercifully beating her own child. After hearing the evidence the magistrate dismissed the case at the cost of the prosecutor.
