If any one doubts as to Mr. J. H. Mills's ability to take care of himself and the orphans under his charge, let him read his reply to Mrs. Clarke's strictures, in the Oxford Educational Monthly for October.

Mr. Louis H. Havwood, son of Col. Ed. Graham Haywood, of Raleigh, is now playing at Ford's Opera House, Baltimore. He is with the Vokes, and the Gazette savs he "is progressing very successfully" in the profession he has chosen.

If I don't bust up the Democratic party in North Carolina by that address of congratulation just sent out to the sovereigns then I shall call a temperance prayer-meeting in my big still-house and brother Ike Young shall lead the meeting-Tom Cooper, Chairmas.

Adelini Patti spent her childhood in the United States and began her career as a singer here. She is known now the world over as a great prima donna, and after an absence of twenty-two years returns to sing in concert, the prices ranging from $4 to $10. She may well be called a success. Her first concert brings in $14,000.

General Joseph Davis, a nephew of ex-President Davis, says his uncle expressed the opinion before he went to Europe that there was no money belonging to the Confederate Government in the Bank of England; hence his visit had nothing to do with the funds. He says Jacob Thompson had $150,000 in Canada, and Governor. (Col. D. K.) McRae some in England; and this was all the Confederacy had at the surrender. The following is interesting. General D.

"Governor McRae sent a considerable sum to Hon. Charles O'Connor to defend Davis and the other Confederate leaders who were threatened with prosecution by the Federal Government. The old lawyer, however, refused to accept any compensation for de-fending Jefferson Davis."

- Rev. M. H. Heyle writes to the Raleigh Advocate: Please let me state to my friends, through the Advocate, that 'though cast down, I am not destroyed." Three or four of my ribs were fractured, and almost my entire body was bruised. My sufferings were of course intense.

- Goldsboro Record: At a negro church near Egypt, a negro man, named Mike Cook, was dangerously shot, one night last week. - Salisbury Watchman: An old farmer who has seen Mr. Wm. Murdock's crop of corn on the Macay mill pond lands says he thinks it is good for fifty bushels to the acre, and will not be surprised if it yields sixty. We saw it six weeks ago and estimated it at forty to the acre. There are about eighty-nine acres in the field.

The Bristol and North Carolina Narrow Gauge Bailroad-Wilmington to be the Terminus.

Under this head the Lenoir (Caldwell county) Topic speaks very encouragingly and enthusiastically of the prospect of the speedy construction of a road across the mountains along the proposed route, and copies extracts from the Bristol Courier of October 27th, which, after alluding to the opening of subscription books, the organization of the company, the election of a Board of Directors, and the election of Gen. Imboden as President for the ensuing year, closes as follows: "Full power was conferred upon the Board of Directors to take the necessary steps and adopt measures for the speedy construction of the company's railroad, and for its equipment and operation. The President is entirely confident that he can consummate negotiations, within 90 days, that will insure rapid work on the road during the coming year. He has lately returned from an extensive examination of the country, and finds that Carter and Johnson counties, Tenn., and Mitchell and Watauga counties, N. C., composed a region next to, if not equal, to the Lake Superior Iron and Copper District. The mineral wealth between Bristol, Tenn., and Lenoir, N, C., a distance of 113 miles by the railway survey, is so vast that capital is eager for its development. Wilmington is now certainly settled upon as the Atlantic seaport to which the road will be built."

The Remains of Federal Bead at Fort Fisher-Their Removal to this City. During the late storm the bones of large number of the Federal dead were washed up at Fort Fisher, between the fort and the beach, where they had been buried in pits. A. M. Harris of that vicinity reported the fact to the War Department Washington, which instructed Sergeant R. C. Taylor, Superintendent of the National Cemetery, just beyond the city limits, to see to the removal of the remains from the fort to the Cemetery grounds. This work has been partially accomplished, the bones of about fifty having been placed in boxes and brought to this city by steamer, leaving those of about two hundred more to follow as quickly as they can be conveniently removed. The bones are pretty badly broken up, some of them being so soft that they can be crushed to powder by being pressed between the thumb and finger, caused, it is supposed, by the action of the salt water.

- Br. bark Sueie, Kerr, from this port for Hamburg, was towed into Dover, E., Oct. 22, disabled.

RIVER AND MARINE.

- Barque Glacier sailed from New York for this port on the 3d inst. - Br. brig Stella, Smith, from Bantry,

Oct. 4, for Smithville, N. C., was passed October 24, dismasted and abandoned.

- The steamer North State arrived Friday night and the D. Murchison yesterday morning, the latter from Fayetteville. The North State exchanged with the A. P. Hurt at "The Cypress," and the latter returned to Favetteville. The steamer Gov. Worth left Fayetteville for this port yesterday morning. Capt. Roberts, of the D. Murchison, reports a rise altogether of about thirty inches above the lowest point reached during the low water. The steamers will have no difficulty now in making the run through.

OBITUARY.

The older citizens of Wilmington will with pride and pleasure review the life of MRS. ALICE H. DICKINSON. The development of her character from her early womanhood, at "Hilton," to its wonderful beauty, purity and power, is linked with all that was best in the history of those years. Where shall we find a nobler or more useful life, or a more perfect and lovable cha

Her nature was of the very highest type and to every talent she added the most refined culture. Endowed with a fine intellect and fine conversational ability, she was an ornament to society; but her personal goodness, tenderness, sympathy with all that was pure and true, gave her a higher influence, which was felt in every avenue of life. The holy charm of her noble, loving, tender heart impressed and comforted people—strength-ened the noble aims and shamed the meaner ones. No heavy heart ever left her without having its burden lightened. The good she did was a lasting one to society, for it planted elevated purposes and shaped fine characters, and thus will go on increasing, now she has gone. Even when efforts for the good of those she loved seemed to fail in efficacy, she never despaired, but from the depth of love and faith she persevered in fresh hope, saying: "Love does not die."
There are many of us who feel that she was a blessing to our lives, and we will cherish her memory to the last; but there is already garnered up much of her noblest work and she will meet her dearest ones to whom she was a ministering angel here, and many younger than herself whose characters she shaped for the early harvest. Under the simple guidance of "duty and love" she has lived a life of the purest ex-
