Governor Long, of Massachusetts, issued a poetical proclamation appointing Thanksgiving Day, and it was very well done at that.

The Messrs. Appleton are the publishers of the North American Reries, but the editor owns it. They refuse to publish it after the year ends. Very creditable to them.

Rev. Dr. John A. Broadus, is one of the few great Biblical scholars and Greek critics of this country. This is his standing among the learned. In a recent paper, one of many he has written on the same subject, in which he discusses the Revision of the New Testament, he savs that "it is certainly more correct in ninetynine cases out of a hundred,"in which it differs from the James Revision.

The rise in household supplies since 1880 has been steady and considerable. Flour is some forty per cent. higher by the barrel and many other articles are in like proportion. Irish potatoes are nearly double, and sweet potatoes are much higher. Beans are double in price nearly. In Wilmington Northern hams, cured by chemicals and unfit really for any table, sell readily at 18 cents. The North is importing cabbages from Germany. The price of fuel is higher and the outlook is not encourag-

The Statesville Landmark takes a more comprehensive and just view of the question of internal revenue abolition than some of our other exchanges have taken, as it strikes us. It looks beyond the State and indulges the following reflections:

"We know too well how the revenue system is used as an engine to turn political machinery and how through it the people's money is used to corrupt them. But there s a more enlarged view of the question yet. We, of North Carolina, are not the only persons whose interests are to be guarded in the premises, and what would seem to be right would be a modification of customs duties and at the same time an abatement of internal revenue taxes—the striking of an average, as it were, and removing the most obnoxious features of both.'

The Philadelphia Telegraph says Judge Settle is afflicted with a "chronic ailment" -- an unconscionable hankering after office. Tom has been associating with Grant too much, and upon the principle of "evil communications corrupting, &c.," he is a victim. Tom does love office. The Telegraph says:

Ever since the Republican National Convention in 1872, in which Mr. Settle was unexpectedly struck by chairmanship lightning, he has been bobbing up with wearisome monotony as a 'representative Southern Republican,' and standing candidate for almost anything going, from a con-sulship to a Cabinet portfolio."

It advises him to stick to the bench.

Raleigh News-Observer: The Raleigh and Gaston Railroad tax case is, perhaps, the most important that has ever come before the commissioners of Wake county for decision, as it involves the legal liability of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company for an annual tax of from eight thousand to twelve thousand dollars. The board of commissioners representing Wake county not unnaturally took the view most favorable to the county and held the railroad company liable for about twelve thousand dollars of taxes. From this ruling the railroad company appealed to the Superior Court of Wake county, where the case will probably be heard in January next. It will doubtless go to the Supreme Court for final decision.

The Carolina Central.

The negotiations between Capt. D. R. Murchison and Col. Jno. M. Robinson were brought to a close yesterday, and the following, we are assured, is the result: The purchase by the Seaboard & Roanoke Railroad Co. of a large portion of the Carolina Central stock held by Capt. Murchison, which places the former corporation in the position of a large stockholder only. Capt. Murchison continues to hold the position of President, and there is to be no change in the management or policy of the road. Every assurance is given by the purchasers that this course will be pursued, and they express the opinion that the change will prove a benefit and not an injury to Wilmington.

Death of an Old Citizen of Wilming-

The sad announcement was received here Friday night, through a private telegram, of the death at the St. Nicholas Hotel, New York, on that afternoon, of Mr. Zebulon Latimer, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of Wilmington. Mr. Latimer came here from Edenton, in this State, about the year 1839, and as one of and very successful dry goods business for a number of years, He was also in the commission business on the wharf for a short time, as a member of the firm of Latimer & Anderson, after which he retired with a competency from the active pursuits of life. Deceased was a good citizen, a man of method in all the habits of life, and of the strictest integrity. He never sought or held office, holding only two positions of public trust during his life, and those were the comparatively humble ones of Director of the Commercial Bank and of the Bank of Cape Fear. He was aged about 70 years. The remains were to leave New York last night and are expected to arrive here this eve-

John August, a seaman, charged with acting disorderly on Nutt street, Friday night, was ordered to pay a fine of $1. Frank Burke, a white man and a stranger in the city, charged with acting disorderly on the streets, was released on the promise that he would leave the city instanter. Jno. McCarthy, a seaman, charged with

A Row Among Female Minstrels. A few nights since, we learn, as the Rentz-Santley female minstrels were boarding a train at the depot in Atlanta for the purpose of leaving for Columbus, Harry Woods and wife, members of the company, had a fight in the car. Other members interfered as peacemakers and were at once set upon by Woods and wife, who seemed to want a fracas all to themselves. The fight became general, and amid blows flying in every direction and promiscuous pulling of hair, the police were called in. Upon their arrival two of them were set upon by half a dozen members of the company. To carry their point the police were forced to use their clubs. Two of the members were pretty badly beaten about the head. Wm. Buckley, Jos. W. Roan, Harry Woods and W. H. Chase were arrested, and a police court judge imposed a fine of $33 upon each. The minstrels, it will be remembered, | The Circus Street Parade. showed here a few weeks ago.

Forepaugh's Circus.

The circus attracted a large number of strangers to the city yesterday, and the streets were thronged from early in the morning until past midnight. The circus parade was late in getting out, but was a very fine one in every respect and created a first rate impression of the show.

There were two performances given, in the afternoon and at night, both of which were attended by large crowds, notwithstanding the fact that this was the third circus we have had this season. Forepaugh's menagerie far excels anything of the kind ever here, and in the variety and rarity of the specimens exhibited would be hard to equal. The circus performance was excellent in every way and there were introduced several new exceedingly difficult acts. The leading features were the performing elephants, the trained horses, the bicycle riders, Madame Zuila, and the Herbert Brothers. The latter received at the night performance an enthusiastic encore, the first ever given a circus performance in Wilmington. Altogether Mr. Forepaugh gave the best show given here for sometime, and he leaves a splendid impression that will stand him in good stead when he comes again. The circus disbanded here and the novelty of the occurrence created much interest. Contrary to the general idea there were no rows or disturbances. and the only noticable result was the increased business done by our merchants, one clothing house alone having sold over fifteen hundred dollars worth during the day, and other merchants, we are told, had a proportionately good trade. The show will go from here Monday or Tuesday, direct to Philadelphia, where it will winter. Many of the performers left last night on the different trains, and the balance will scatter in the next day or two for their homes, to rest until the show season of 1882.

The streets were thronged with people yesterday to witness the street parade of Forepaugh's circus, and the only disappointment experienced by the eager crowds was in having to wait for the procession until about 11.30 a. m., when it was announced to appear at 10 o'clock; but the delay, we learn, could not be avoided. The parade was all that fancy could have painted it, the chariots and horses being especially very fine and handsome, while Miss Montague, the famous $10,000 beauty, was the observed of all observers and very handsome withal. The telephone and telegraph wires were too low for some of the chariots to pass under them and considerable inconvenience was experienced on that account. The steam-piano was an attraction.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society, which was to have been held on last Thursday, was postponed on account of the indisposition of the President, and it has since been decided to hold the meeting on Tuesday next, the 15th inst., at 11 o'clock, at Hook & Ladder Hall, when it is hoped there will be a large attendance of members and friends of the

THAT GOVERNS US IN CONDUCTING THE "Men's Wear Depot," and which has placed us in the front rank among first class Clothing Estab-lishments, we shall briefly refer to. In opening lishments, we shall briefly refer to. In opening business the beginner is too apt, in the outset, to be a mere copyist. He thinks it essential that he should find out how others do, and as nearly as he can do likewise. When we commenced the Clothing Business in Wilmington, we struck out for ourselves a new line of policy, and shunned as much as possible the worn out grooves. We knew that to have a more attractive stock than other houses exhibit, it must be larger, it must be more artistic in its cut, be distinguished for its unique style and excellent workmanship, the unique style and excellent workmanship, the price named adhered to and so reasenable that no one could question it. To turn over a new leaf in trade was our determination. We employed polite salesmen, and instructed them to serve all patrons alike, and to show the same courtesy to one wishing to examine the stock as the one intending to purchase on the spot; never to speak of goods beyond their real merits, and in no instance to misrepresent in the alightest degree.

To exchange goods if promptly returned in perfect condition, nor would we hesitate to return the amount paid for the garment, and shall turn the amount paid for the garment, and shall be pleased to do so whenever perfect satisfaction cannot be given by an exchange for other goods. In short we have spared nothing that in any way could conduce to the success of our enterprise, and the comforts and advantages we desire to offer our patrons. Otterbourg's fully warranted claims, Otterbourg's fully meant pledges to the public, which appear regularly in this paper, he earnestly calls your attention to, and for verification of either cordially requests the honor of a personal visit to his Mammoth Clothing Establishment.
