By WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Tuesday Morning, Dec. 13, 1881

THE PRESIDENT AND THE CIVIL

SERVICE. President Arthur devotes much space in his message to the consideration of civil service reform. Every reflecting man admits there is great need of reform, and every observant man has but little confidence in the consummation of this much desired end. We have heard so much said by Republican politicians about reform in the public service, that the country is ready to get up a big disgust at the very mention of the subject. President Arthur may mean well, or he may, like Hayes, be only airing well sounding platitudes and phrases. As long as corrupt men are appointed to office no man of sense can have any confidence in promises of reform. President Arthur has not shown thus far that he is anxious to select none but a good and true man for office. As long as Federal officers are made to pay a part of their salaries to swell the corruption funds of the Radical party, no man of candor can say that he has any hope of any genuine reform under such an Administration.

Look at Virginia, and when you see Federal officials compelled to pay in order to elect a Republican Mongrel ticket, then say if you can regard with confidence the plausible reflections of the President, who favors such a prostitution of authority? Look again, and when you see a corrupt bargain made between Radical Senators and a man proclaiming himself at the very hour of perfecting the bargain a Democrat, elected by Democrats, and two Republican Administrations consenting to the bargain at that, and then say if you attach any importance to the discussions in State papers of abstract theories bearing upon reforms of any kind in the public service?

We have no patience with rhetorical palaver meant only to deceive. The President cannot be in earnest. His recent acts give the lie direct to anything he may write concerning civil service reform. He has used his patronage, great as it is, to debauch a great Southern State. Hear what the Governor of Virginia says in his last message concerning the outrageous interference of United States, officials in the local elections of that State and then say what you think of the Presidential gabble about reform among Federal officials. Says Governor Holliday:

"It has been charged—the facts will pass into history and will show—that this great Government has invaded the limits of our State, and by power, patronage and money has controlled its affairs. Virginia has been accused of attempting the mean crime of here, too, have gone into history and will show—that the Federal Government, or the party directing its destinies, has used its patronage, power and money to hurry her along that rugged and disreputable way. If this be true, then, if there be any stigma, it has been taken from our common wealth be with difficulty, if ever, erased. The transfer will not hide it." THE SOUTH'S RIVAL.

We had seen intimations in English publications that a stronger effort would be made to develop in Egypt the cultivation of cotton, which, unlike the cotton of India, is said to be equal to that grown in the Southern States. We learn now from our recent dispatches that English spinners are urging the Government to encourage the growing of cotton in India. The object is to have a supply in case of a failure of the crop at any time in the South. The South has but little to fear, we suppose, from India. If Egypt were to raise all the cotton possible it would prove a formidable rival by reason of its quality. English mills cannot afford to work India short-staple as long as it can get Southern or Egyptian cotton, because our own mills will work the long staple and the goods thus made will be superior to the Indian goods. But it is certain that Great Britain and Europe will not be content to rely in the future, almost exclusively on Southern cotton. The sound has gone forth that the production of cotton in India, Egypt and South America is to be stimulated as rapidly as possible.

Some few weeks ago we noticed a Northern writer deriving satisfaction from the prospect in the future that the South would not grow all the best cotton and would not dictate the price of the great staple. This was a crumb of comfort the writer was endeavoring to extract from foreign rumors and from the threatened rivalry of the South in cotton milling. If the South will diversify its crops, raise no more cotton than will fetch sixteen or eighteen ceuts, which will be the case if it will not grow more than 4,000,000 bales annually for the next five years, and manufacture at home two-thirds of its crop of cotton, then it may laugh at Suratt cotton, or Egyptian cotton, or New England or Old England mills, and be rich and prosperous in spite of al croaking and all ill-boding pro-

A Western editor, in a communication to the New York Times, concerning the unjust effects of the present tariff, refers to what a correspondent in New England writes him concerning a certain cotton mill owner, which is suggestive and perhaps characteristic of the others. He

"That mill owner had just bought an entire equipment of English machinery, made by the leading Rochdale company, for an entire new monster mill, which cost him, after paying 40 per cent. duty, $300 a set less than the same American machinery, and was given the preference by price mainly, and quality somewhat."

The Western editor, a Republican. thus comments:

'This is truly an amazing confession. The patriotism of that Massachusetts per son is all gone now. He is a wicked emissary of George III., whose ghost still haunts the Protectionists, and instead of buying protected American machinery, he rushes off to England and buys better machinery for less money."

There are three facts in connection with New England manufacturing: First, they buy machinery abroad because it is cheaper and better. Second, they employ all the cheap foreign labor possible to the exclusion of natives. Third, there is great complaint among New England operatives as to the wages paid.

It is the opinion of Mr. Edward Atkinson, of Boston, that there is a limit to railroad building, but that the limit will not be reached before the close of the century. He says there were 91,000 miles of railroad in 1881, and by 1900 he thinks there will be 209,000 miles. Then there will be enough. In the mean time, and within the next seven years, he expects a great commercial crisis and a big railroad panic. The following is instructive:

"He finds that the State of Massachusetts had on the 1st of January, 1881, one mile of road to each 4.12 square mile of surface, and the rest of the world followed in this order: Belgium, England and Wales, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Indiana, New Hampshire, Switzerland, ending with New York, which has one mile of road to each 9.8 square miles. He concludes that some sections of the country will never need more than one mile of road to 64 square miles, while others will have it for 32, 16 and 8, since the presence of navigable streams and wide mountain ranges will affect the need and adaptability of a country for railroads.'

The Repudiation element in Virginia politics has brought reproach upon that State in spite of facts and figures. In his recent message Gov. Holliday shows conclusively that Virginia can pay all her just debts without dodging responsibility of repudiation. It has been charged—the facts any kind or without even increasing taxation. Whenever a State compromises its debts, and its rate of taxation is low measurably, the credit and character of the people are and fastened upon the Republic, and will injured. This applies to any State ending this evening (December 9), that may elect to enter upon a discreditable and hazardous course. Honesty is always the best policy, even if the morality of a transaction

Signor Ernesto Rossi has satisfied the best American critics that he .is an actor of very great genius and versatility-able to play the grand creations of Shakespeare with wondrous power and originality and to turn at will and play the love-sick, amorous Romeo or the wonderful creation of Dumas called "Edmund Kean," after the greatest English actor. The Philadelphia Times says of this last brilliant success:

"The play was simply the occasion for the most brilliant, the most consummate piece of romantic acting that this generation has seen. The play was written for Lemaitre, and probably Lemaitre was greater than Rossi, because he came before him. But it is impossible to imagine a performance finer than this. It is picturesque, heroic, splendid in every way; yet so na-tural, so delicate, so tender, so full of the finest feeling that tears mingle with laughter and admiration with all. It is needless to speak of the plot, except to say that the action culminates in a scene where Kean is playing Hamlet at Drury Lane and seeing the woman he loves in a box with the Prince becomes distracted, gets out of his part and brings about an uproar, participated in by the people in the boxes and others in the auditorium, an unexpected complication that really became quite exciting, the genuine applause of the audience swelling the mock uproar.'

Gov. Crittenden, of Missouri, has received several threatening letters from the convicted train robbers and those suspected. He says the other train robbers will be brought to trial soon. The United States is becoming the most lawless country on earth, and if it keeps on it will be safer to travel among Arab tribes or Greek robbers than to venture in cars. In the Southwest a trip in a stage coach is more dangerous than to cross the Plains thirty years ago. But this way of threatening Judges and Governors for doing their duty is becoming rather common, and is one of the signs of evil times. This is a very corrupt and wicked age in which Henry Ward Beecher made a Free Trade speech in Brooklyn Thursday night under the auspices of the Revenue Reform Club. It will be published and distributed. Hon. David A. Wells, Simon Stern, Thomas G. Shearman, Prof. Sumner, of Yale College, Andrew McLane, and Prof. Robert Ellis Thompson, of the University of Pennsylvania, will follow at short intervals in the order named, and in this way it is expected to create a free trade literature which will be a positive political force in the next Presidential election.

The Critic pronounces "The Vicar's People," by George Manville Fenn, price 50 cents, Putnam & Sons, a novel of much merit. It says "the book is wonderfully interesting." It does not think much of "A Prince of Breffny," "The Cameronians" and "The Braes of Yarrow." It has a kind word for "Kith and Kin," and says it is "well worth reading."

CURRENT COMMENT.

- The refusal of the Tariff Convention to hear an "address of Welcome" from Mayor Grace, because he, the legal representative of a city which owes everything to the interchange of commodities with foreigners, wished to give his own views about the tariff, calls attention to what is the most unpleasant and dangerous side of the protectionist mind-its intolerance.- New York Evening Post, Rep.

-To Mr. Forney, more than to most men, was the Republican party indebted in 1858 and 1860 for the distractions and controversies which fatally divided the Democracy and made the inauguration of Lincoln possible. Mr. Forney lived to discover that he could neither repress the bigotry nor temper the zeal of the organization he aided in forming, but it can be said to his credit that he did not lack the courage to protest against the one or to antagonize the other. It will be impossible to write the history of the last twentyfive years without frequent mention of the acts as well as of the writings of John W. Forney .- Wash. Post,

- Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, proposed to have Congress appropriate 105 millions of dollars for the support of common schools in the United States. This trifling sum, together with the 125 millions of pension money demanded by Commissioner Dudley, amounts to only 230 millions of dollars for two items in one year. If, in addition to this, the government builds 50 million dollars' worth of new ships, hires 30 million dollars' worth of new soldiers, invests 100 millions in improving the Mississippi, and has to carry on the ordinary expenses of the government at the same time, we are afraid that the tax on matches will not be repealed .- New Haven Register,

COTTON.

New York Financial Chronicle. NEW YORK, December 9 .- The movement of the crop, as indicated by our telegrams from the South tonight, is given below. For the week the total receipts have reached 233,-344 bales, against 216,170 bales last week, 221, 876 bales the previous week, and 224,887 bales three weeks since; making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 1881, 2,503,027 bales, against 2,781,194 bales for the same period of 1880, showing a decrease since September 1, 1881, of 278,167

The exports for the week ending this evening reach a total of 129,853 bales, of which 69,874 were to Great Britain, 12,342 to France, and 47,637 to the rest of the Continent, while the stocks as made up this evening are now 1,020,497 bales.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

Point out the farmer who raises his own meat and bread, and you note a thrifty, prosperous person, as far as this world goes. He pays cash as he goes and would scorn the man who would offer him credit. We have many such men in Edgecombe. Now think about it and see if it isn't so. All in four syllables. Di-ver-sify .- Tarboro South-

Retribution, adjudicated and administered by a mob, though prompted by the most virtuous instincts, is too uncertain and unreasoning to be tolerated in a community where crime is denounced by law and punished through the channels of judicial procedure. We trust the day is far distant when North Carolina will lose her calm and law abiding character, and the passions of an enraged mob become the arbiter of justice. - Elizabeth City Economist.

STATE GLEANINGS.

- Pittsboro Record: On yesterday Deputy Sheriff Spence Taylor received from Governor Jarvis an official notification of the commutation of the sentence of death passed upon Sarah Swann at the last term of our Superior Court. She was convicted of infanticide and sentenced to be hanged on the 18th of November, but afterwards reprieved until December 23d.

- Charlotte Observer: Charlotte has no fears of losing ground as a cotton market, provided the staple is produced, as we have cotton buyers who can and will make it to the interest of our farmers to sell their crops in this market. —The party being formed to go to Atlanta next Tuesday promises to be the largest that has yet been made up in this section of the coun-

- Greensboro Patriot: Mrs. Delphina E. Mendenhall, relict of the late Geo. C. Mendenhall, died at her residence near Jamestown, on Sunday evening last, at the advanced age of 72 years. Five new members were received into the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning, making twenty that have joined since the progress of the revival. The protracted services closed on Sunday, after a continuance of three weeks.

- Wilson Advance: Died-At his residence in this county, five miles from Wilson, Tuesday morning, December 6th, Capt. J. B. Carrow, aged about 55 years. -We regret to learn that a little child of Mr. Bunion Stott, aged ten or twelve years, was fatally burned by his clothes accidentally catching fire. He lived only about an hour. -On last Friday 481 bales of cotton weretbought in this market, on Satur day 400, and on Tuesday 457. A prominent cotton buyer estimates the average number at 400 bales per day. ----We are indebted to Mr. James Murray, Superintendent of Public Schools of this county, for some interesting figures in regard to the public schools of the county. From these figures we learn that there have been during the past school year 36 schools for whites and 19 for colored, making a total of 55. The average length of school term was 10,49 1-11 weeks. The number of white pupils enrolled: males 805, females 630, making a total of 1,485. Average attendance 841. Number of colored children en rolled: males 588, females 548, total 1,106. Average attendance 883. - This morning at about 10.80 o'clock a fire broke out in the oyster saloon of W. L. Edwards, on East Centre street, Goldsboro. The brick store of John W. Edwards and two frame buildings belonging to Stephen W. Isler, Esq., were burned, and another frame building of Mr. Isler's torn down to prevent the fire from spreading. The Humphrey House was on fire several times but was saved. Mr. Jno. W. Edwards' loss was $1,800; fully insured. Mr. Isler's loss is estimated at $800; no insurance. The Humphrey House was damaged to the extent of $500, fully covered by insurance.

There is nothing more painful than these diseases; but the pain can be removed and the disease cured by use of Perry Davis' Pain Killer. This remedy is not a cheap Benzine

Pain Killer has been in constant use for forty years, and the universal testimony from all parts of the world is, it never fails. It not only effects a permanent cure. but it relieves pain almost instantaneously. Being a purely vegetable remedy, it is safe in the hands of the most inexperienced. The record of cures by the use of PAT KILLER would fill volumes. The following extracts from letters received show what those who have tried it think:
