The water could be plainly seen and has probably been locked up for centuries. From him we learn that two more cotton factories are in process of erection in that county One is projected by Messrs. It was the militia who declared independence in 1775 The theme is a magnificent one and would take." The receipts of cotton last week were 429 bales; for the season 55,866 bales. -The revenue collections in this district in the month of March were $71,663.69. —Whether Dr. Canedo will come to time is doubtful. He has written a letter to Gov. Jarvis to the effect that while he may make the promised payment on the day specified, Monday, we believe, yet, because of the matters stated by him, there may be a delay. And he therefore asks for an extension of thirty days. This extension in terms has not been granted, but it is understood that if Dr. Canedo should tender the money and perform his part of the agreement at an early day, the failure to meet his obligation on time will be overlooked. Dr. Canedo encloses the Governor a letter from one of the capitalists interested in the matter, in which he says that in case the Carolina for a summer resort are well known: but for the benefit of outsiders we may mention its elevated and commanding situation, the magnificent bay it overlooks, the unsurpassed surf in easy reach, the fine roads for driving leading out of the town; the bountiful supply of fish, oysters and other products of the sea, always to be had: the constant motion and agreeable aspect of its harbor as the entrepot of Wilmington, with vessels and steamships constantly coming in and going out; and, not to particularize farther, its nearness to Wilmington, the chief city of the State, and whose people will be daily, in large numbers, guests at the hotel. Sharpies are already being built to accommodate parties desiring to sail round the harbor and visit the numerous points of interest adjacent and even other inducements are mentioned to render the resort attractive and pleasing to all visitors. The excellent and well deserved reputation the Purcell House is making for itself under Capt. Perry's management is a sufficient guarantee as to what kind of a house the new hotel will be and the proprietor has in additionprevious experience at Beaufort to serve him in the present venture. To give an idea as to the we may mention that though pre opinion of the enterprise held here, viously nothing but rumors have been current in regard to the matter, the affair having only yesterday been definitely de termined, still several applications have been received for board for the entire season. The success of the undertaking is already assured, and we hope our up-country friends will take advantage of the opportunity offered them and give Smith ville a trial, assured that they will be delighted, and want to come again.

The Awful Fate of a Jury-man.

One of our Water street business men had received a summons as juryman in the Criminal Court, and as the hour drew near for that tribunal to convene, yesterday morning, he hurried through with the most pressing business claiming his attention in order to be on time; and in hastily remo ving a keg of lard, which was resting its lazy chimes against the protuding sides of a molasses hogshead, he happened to give the latter considerable of a jar, when out popped the bung, and the imprisoned molasses, which had been fretting, fuming and fermenting in consequence of its long and close confinement, burst out in quantities as large and with speed as fast as Ever-ett could, deluging our friend until he felt like anything else than becoming a grand juryman! In fact, he considered himself a fit subject for a candy stew and ready to be pulled and made into taffy by the first pretty girl that came along.
