and, therefore, was opposed to using public money for personal ends. But he had no more doubt of the right of the Government to spend money for the improvement of the navigation of the Mississippi than there was about its right to spend money in removing the rocks in Hell Gate. If, in doing this work, benefits followed in the way of public improvement, so much the better. This strikes us as sound. It is the way to put it. All along the Government has been using the public funds to improve Northern lakes and rivers, and for the public good. It is surely for the public good that the Mississippi navigation be improved and that millions of acres of land that enrich the country should be protected from overflow

Senator Pendleton, of Ohio, made a constitutional argument. He was opposed to the bill. He argued that the Congress had no right to fence in a man's land or to repair damages produced by natural causes. He would vote for a bill to repair the damages wherever necessary to improve the navigation of the river. He would not vote a dollar to benefit merely a private individual. This is sound also. But you cannot improve the navigation and repair the levees without reclaiming more or less of land, and in that event the private individuals will be benefited.

There is a difference in the positions taken by the Democratic Senators. If we understand the matter, one class favored a bill to reclaim all bottom lands along the great river. The other class were for standing by the constitution and favored only the application of the public funds to a repairing of the levees but with an eye solely to improving the navigation. If any good to private individuals follows, all right and good. The bill that passed without opposition appropriates $6,000,000. It was the bill reported by the Committee and as a thief on a big scale. He gave without modification. Senators Garland and Kellogg withdrew their amendments enlarging the scope of the bill. Of the sum appropriated $1,000,000 goes to the Missouri river. The bill expressiv forbids the use of the funds for building or repairing levees for the purpose of protecting lands from overflow. Altogether the bill is liberal and good will come of it. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, took the advanced ground of Senator Vest and favored large appropriations, and believed that the Congress had a right to reclaim lands, &c. He gave notice that hereafter it might be necessary for the whole people to be never seen a rebel. taxed to do work the people could not do on the rivers and that the were charged with conspiring to prevent the opening of certain polls in Colleton county at the election in 1880. Mr. Melton had made this announcement: 'I have selected only such cases as my assistants, after careful consideration, satisfied me were such as, after an examination of the witnesses, would probably result in conviction.' There was no reason to suppose, therefore, that there would be any difficulty in inducing the Republican grand jury to find a true bill. But they did not. The grand jury on Saturday threw out the indictment. There is no mistaking the meaning of this. After a careful 'examination of the witnesses' and reaching the conclusion that a conviction would probably be the result, Mr. Melton laid the indictment and the evidence for the prosecution before his grand jury. Not a word, of course, could be said in behalf of the accused. Yet the Republican grand jury found the charges more than they could swallow, and decided that there was not even proof enough to justify a trial."

There is a bill before the Senate that prohibits "any person who has served in the military or naval service of the Confederate States from being appointed to any position in the army of the United States."

It ought to be amended so as to prohibit any one who so served from ever being received into the army as a private or from being drafted in case of a foreign war. If the principle among the Northerners is that "Southern rebels" are never to be trusted again, then surely they will not be expected to fight for their country in time of war. That the South would do its full share, and more than its share in case of a foreign war we fully believe, for the South in all the wars did that. But such proscription is neither kind nor generous. If the rule is to be adopted then Mosby, Key, Longstreet, Mahone, Cameron and other Republican "rebels" cannot be appointed to positions in the army, though some of them now hold offices under Republican appointment, whilst Gov. Cameron was sustained by the Administration in his candidacy.

"Secor" Robeson is the leader of the Republicans in the House. He is regarded by Democrats generally and by many Northern Republicans never be good for anything, the argument against doing anything further with it-except selling it for fire-wood and old iron-is conclusive. -New York Times, Rep.

----- The Philadelphia Times de-clares that "the tariff discussion has attracted little attention, and does not serve any but a party purpose; each side has sought to make some capital out of it, but it is doubtful if either has been particularly benefit-ted." This is the kind of stuff that protection journals are continually printing. Anything they can say to belittle the whole controversy comes readily to hand and is eagerly used. But revenue reformers entertain no such opinion of the present discussion. They do not expect or hope for any relief from the present Congress, nor are they thinking about party capital. They do believe, however, that the sharp, earnest and complete speeches delivered upon their side, will so enlighten and convince the people that another Congress will be forced to grant relief from the intolerable burdens of the present tariff, without any reference to a commission or other outside body .--Wash. Post, Dem.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

The present system of county govern ment is the one under which our fathers and died; the other is the system lived which came in with the carpet-baggers and died with them-a system buried beneath the righteous indignation of an intelligent public. Have we forgotten the days when the negroes ruled and robbed? Do we want a return of those days? Does the West want it? We cannot believe it. If she does let her prepare to applaud when Halifax and Edgecombe and Warren and Craven and half a dozen other counties have elected negro superintendents whose duty it shall be to examine all applicants to teach in the public schools, to visit and inspect all such schools, to advise and discharge teachers, &c.-Kinston Free Press. Independentism and all that sort of thing, during a political struggle, means Radicalism, and, finally, Negroism. It tends that way just so surely as water runs down hill. The Democrat who, during the next few months, is heard talking about a new party-an independent party-a party outside and antagonistic to the Democratic party-that Democrat is surely getting ready to embrace Radicalism, Negroism and all. It is the natural result, as has been witnessed time and time again, and will be to the end of time, -Oxford Free Lance.

STATE GLEANINGS.

- From Raleign letter in Durham

WASHINGTON, April 27.-At the close of Mr. Belmont's cross examination of Mr. Blaine, a most exciting and unusual scene occurred in the Foreign Affairs committee room. Mr. Blaine said that, as Mr. Belmont, after being warned on Monday, had persisted in entirely misquoting his dispatches, and putting upon them a construction utterly foreign, he was compelled to change his opinion of him, which had heretofore been that he was a gentleman. An exciting colloquy ensued, which the committee were unable to interrupt. Belmont intimated that he would deal with Blaine in private, and followed it up with the words, "I believe that you are a bully and a coward." Blaine, addressing the committee and ignoring Belmont, replied, "Mr. Chairman, this young man has disgraced himself. He has been put forward by those who are behind him to insult me, but he is incapable of doing so.' The scene was a most remarkable one, and notwithstanding the efforts of the chairman to smooth the trouble waters and obviate the necessity for any misunderstanding, the impression prevailed at the adjournment of the meeting that the dis pute was no means ended. It is the subject of comment upon all sides this afternoon

ONE WORD MORE.

The STAR stands squarely by its statement that "THE PEOPLE of North Carolina appear to have preferred that their Governors should be men 'native and to the manner born.' " As far as we know or can ascertain the statement is absolutely and unqualifiedly true. Since 1792 Governor Turner is the only one who was born abroad.

THE PEOPLE of North Carolina have never elected a Governor who was not a native. Gov. Turner was chosen by the Legislature. If this is not true strictly we pledge ourselves to correct it. "Turn on the light." Let the anonymous correspondents bring out the proof-trot out the nag.

The Governors elected by the people were Edward B. Dudley, John M. Morehead, William A. Graham, Charles Manly, David S. Reid, Thos. Bragg, John W. Ellis, Zebulon B. Vance, Jonathan Worth, William W. Holden, Tod R. Caldwell, Zebulon B. Vance and Thomas J. Jarvis. If any of these was not a native we are not so informed. The Charlotte Home-Democrat says relatives of Gov. Morehead in that city say he was born certainly in North Carolina.

As to Capt. Coke the STAR has nothing personal against him. We do not know him, and what we have heard is favorable. He is a young man, born in another State, and has much merit according to his admirers. If he is the choice of the Convention for Representative at Large in 1882, or for Governor in 1884, this paper will support him. If in the judgment of the Convention he is abler, more available, more deserving, has more claims upon the people of North Carolina than George Davis, Judge Bennett, Joseph J. Davis, W. T. Dortch, Walter L. Steele, Judge Howard, W. M. Robbins, Col. Armfield, Robert Vance, A. M. Scales, Judge Fowle, Judge Merrimon, and many others, then the STAR will bow to the will of the people and render him faithful service. We prefer one of these gentlemen to | declaration that under no circum-Capt. Coke-that is all. We have | stances will we favor, defend or connone but feelings of respect for him, but we cannot be driven by clamor to assert the false, to stultify ourselves or to do violence to our convictions. Is it a crime in North Carolina to prefer for high office one of our own tried and long trusted sons? If so we are criminals. THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER DEBATE. The Mississippi River debate in the Senate was protracted. Long speeches were made in which the sound doctrine of State's Rights came to the front prominently. Senator Hampton read a written speech. He favored the bill. Mr. Bayard said he was a strict constructionist, sent to the grand jury was that in which fact that the fleet, no matter how the county canvassers of Colleton county much it might be repaired, would country would be indirectly benefited.

Thus far, after all the tooting of horns and issuing of pronunciamentos in the shape of letters from Stalwart Brewster, the fraud election cases in South Carolina have not panned out very satisfactorily to the persecutors. What may happen after this is written we are not prophet enough to foretell; but up to this hour the break-down of the prosecution is very satisfactory to all who love right and justice. Judge Bond, Brewster, Melton and the remainder of the persecutors have done all they could to rob the people of their rights and to make a Court of Justice a mere political shamble for the "slaughter of innocents." Bond decided that the Grand Jury should be set aside, and that the defendants should be forced to trial merely upon information lodged with the District Attorney. Melton was to make oath, and, without investigation by a Grand Jury, defendants were to be put on trial. This was regarded as eminently just, wise, Briber and Blabber." humane and safe by Bond and Melton-the Judge and the prosecutor. The Northern Republican press are very much in love with this new system of violating the rights of Southern white Democrats. We have no sort of sympathy with frauds of any kind. We are perfectly sincere and honest in the $728,000 to furnish the Pensacola done the violations of the ballot, which should be kept pure, free and sacred. But we have no sort of sympathy with oppression, with judicial outrages, with an abuse of those administering law in the courts. We rejoice, therefore, that the bad men persecuting men of proved character in South Carolina have broken down so completely in their infamous procedure. The Charleston News and Courier gives the following instructive example of palpable and ignominious failure on the part of the persecutor. It says: "One of the most important indictments the bloody shirt a flirt or two in the House the other day in the course of which he asked Mr. Cook, of Georgia, if he had been wounded in the Confederate army, he would have applied to the United States Government for a pension? Mr. Cook replied somewhat indignantly that he would not, and then proceeded to call attention to the fact that those members of Congress who had served in the Confederate army were never insulted by men who had fought against them. The insult always came from those whose want of courage had kept them in the rear, and who had very similar to that we ventured to advance in these columns a few Sunday's since. He writes :

"The question of the reunion of Method-ism, North and South, is not up. It will not be before us officially, nor is there any competent authority in the premises before the Northern General Conference. Irresponsible invitations, the published opinions and wishes of a few gushing brethren here and there, amount to nothing. We must respect ourselves and bide our time. In the meanwhile, I think I speak advisedly when I say the common sentiment of our people in that organic union is neither practicable nor desirable. Let us have peace by letting disturbing questions alone.

Shipherd charged that Secretary Blaine had been informed by him that he (Shipherd) had attempted to bribe Minister Hurlbut with an offer of $250,000, and that he had also made this known to several other persons. A correspondent tells us that the Court at Onslow last week was physically lame as follows: A lame Judge, Gilmer, wounded in the war; a lame solicitor, Galloway, who carries a civil war reminder: a lame Clerk. Higgins, with one leg; and two lame-legged jurymen. — We learn of an alliga-tor recently killed by Mr. G. W. Ward, at Ward's Mills, in Onslow county, that had a curious mass of food in his stomach. The animal was over twelve feet long, and had inside of him eight whole wild ducks and the heads of five more, and five lightwood knots about six inches long. Not choice in his diet! — We could hardly believe that so clever a conductor as Capt. John A. Richardson had an enemy in this city or anywhere. But we were informed yesterday that a package of powder had been discovered under the porch of his residence a few days ago.

with machinery, $764,000 to provide the Tennessee with engines, which ap 5 tf shortly afterward require repairs to the extent of $412,000, we can understand that the nation that spends money in this way upon its navy is on the high road to bankruptcy. It is unnecessary to ask why repairs to our men-of-war cost so much more than repairs to merchant vessels. We might as well ask why it is that a private citizen can buy a monkeywrench for $2 50, while the Navy Department, when it buys a precisely similar wrench, has to pay about $35,000 for it. The simple fact is that there is not money enough in the country to repair our present fleet, and when to this is added the Sole Agents.
