The Case of Alleged Perjury Against a Colored Baptist Preacher.

The case of Rev. A. M. Conway, pastor of the First (colored) Baptist Church, who had a preliminary examination before Justice McQuigg, on Thursday last, on the charge of false swearing in a statement he had made under oath before another tri bunal, in a case in which he was defendant, was again called, yesterday morning, when Justice McQuigg rendered a decision, requiring the defendant to give bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court. In doing so the magistrate remarked that it was not for him to say anything as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant-that was not his province. It was only for him to decide whether there was sufficient evidence tof establish a probable cause for binding him over to a higher tribunal. This, in his opinion, was furnished in the testimony of the four witnesses of established character who testified positively to seeing the defendant strike Currie, not withstanding a different state of facts had been sworn to by eight or nine other just as respectable witnesses on the other side: they having testified positively that Conway did not strike or touch Currie on the occasion referred to. In conclusion. Justice McQuigg strongly intimated that one side or the other would doubtless furnish material for more litigation of the same character.
