Hampered illness of President Grey - Irish Murder Trials - Russia and Germany - Races in England - The Westphalia Steamboat Disaster.

LONDON, Nov. 15. - A dispatch from Paris declares that despite contradictions President Grey had appointed attacks on Monday and Tuesday. There have been similar reports previously, but they proved to have been circulated merely for the purpose of an official account admits that President Grey was slightly ill on Monday, but says he was able to preside at a meeting of the Cabinet Tuesday.

DUBLIN, Nov. 15. - Judge Barry's charge to the jury in the Joyce case was pointedly adverse to the prisoner. The jury only deliberated eight minutes before bringing in their verdict. Joyce heard the verdict calmly. When asked if he had anything to say against the passing of sentence upon him he exclaimed, "I am not guilty." He will be hanged in Galway jail. After Joyce had been sentenced the trial of Patrick Casey was commenced, a new jury being empanelled. Casey, who is a fierce-looking man, was indicted for murdering Bridget Joyce. The Attorney General stated the case for the prosecution, emphasizing the fact that the prisoner was one of the three men who broke into Joyce's home on Monday night with a shovel handle with an iron ring attached.

LONDON, Nov. 15. - A correspondent of the Standard at Paris says that he hears from an authentic source that the Russian Government has negotiations in Germany, with the exception of those at Berlin and Stuttgart.

LONDON, Nov. 15. - At the Shrewsbury meeting to-day the race for the Shrewsbury cup - handicap - was won by R. S. Evans four-year-old by colt Falkirk. Lord Ellis-more's five-year-old Wallenstein and Lord Rosensbury's three-year-old Vista ran a dead heat for the second place. The third offer of the Westphalia reports that after pulling out for nearly two hours he saw a vessel go down about 200 yards distant, but was unable to ascertain her name or nationality. He saw flames burst from the steamer before she sank. The Westphalia was surveyed in dock to-day. The damage on the starboard side extends from the stem to 40 feet aft, on the port side from 15 to 12 feet aft. The hole in the port side is nine feet across. A large piece of the steamer with which she collided, including some frames, is sticking in the hole. The Westphalia's stem appears to be broken. The vessel seems to have met stem to stem. After striking the Westphalia on the port side, it is probable that the other steamer swung round and scraped along the Westphalia's starboard side. The latter vessel, despite the extensive damage she sustained, according to the latest account, waited six hours before making for a port of refuge.
