has nearly quadrupled in 20 years with a duty of 40 per cent, and which only three years since declared itself entirely satisfied with the duties it then enjoyed. It is incredible that such wild propositions as these are made in good faith, or that they are intended to do anything but create confusion, prevent action, and secure for the protected industries the continuance of the favors committee's bill is examined the more unavoidable this inference becomes. It is a trick which ought not to succeed in the House.

The Republican party is not only a high protective party, but it is opposed to a fair and equitable and sound reduction of a tariff that was adopted twenty-one years ago at a time of war, and for war purposes, and that its author said himself was for temporary purposes.

THE TAX ON NEWSPAPERS.

When the papers of the country forced the Congress some years ago to abolish the franking privilege which the members were abusing so grossly, the said members took a mean and unwarranted revenge. They changed the postal laws so as to compel newspaper publishers to prepay the postage on their papers. This compelled an individual to pay the postage of a thousand or ten thousand people. Before this each man was compelled to pay his own postage as ought to be the case now. No good reason can be offered why every man should not pay the postage on his own papers just as he would on his books or letters, or on his pork or his groceries sent by express. The tax now as levied on publishers is a heavy one and is an attempt to muzzle a free press as well as to place an embargo on intelligence. It affects thousands of publishers most injuriously. The rich and widely circulated papers can stand it without being seriously felt. Papers like the New York Herald can afford to pay, because its income is enormous. It is frequently the case that the Sunday morning edition of that paper is worth $20,000 to the proprietor. There are hundreds of papers that do not have that much income in fifteen years.

The newspaper postage should be distributed, and all subscribers should pay for their papers just as was the case before a Radical Congress sought a mean revenge because of the press exposures of the manner in which the franking privilege was being abused. It is to be hoped that a Democratic House will endeavor to rectify this indefensible wrong. It is not asked to have papers sent free. But it is asked that the law be changed and subscribers be compelled to pay for their papers at their respective offices in advance by the quarter.

A NORTHERN HOWL.

We said the other day that there was no good reason for discriminating against the veterans in the Mexican and Indian wars; that the same principle of pensioning should be applied to them that is applied to the Northern soldiers of the war of the States. We did not say that we favored the principle but that it should be equal and just and should, therefore, be extended to all. But this is not the view of your Northern Radical, he be editor or politician. One virtuous paper, that favors subscribers for Northern shipping and protection for Northern manufacturers, cannot approve of any pensions for the Mexican soldiers because the said soldiers "served in the shameful war of spoliation" and Jefferson Davis was one of them. This is a fine specimen of journalistic discrimination and fairness. One of the most reputable Northern papers—one too of very decided ability—the Philadelphia American, is guilty of this narrow and mean opinion. It thinks the North would howl if such a measure should pass. The North always howls if any are to be benefited but themselves. It howled because the South got a slice of the River and Harbor bill.

STATE GLEANINGS.

—Baltimore News: The trade in Raleigh, N. C. has shown a steady decline for the past twelve months. This is attributed to freight discriminations against the city on the part of the railroads, and the business men are very gloomy over the prospect.

—Toisnot Home: There was a murder committed in Phillips' X Roads, in Pitt county, on the 8th of January. The victim, Wiley Harris, was a hard working well behaved negro. He was shot by another negro by the name of Nelson Phillips a native of this county.

—Winston Leader: Bailey Bros., have one of the largest and best arranged five-story brick buildings in the State, in which they will manufacture tobacco.

—A lady of Charlotte, possessing rare literary attainments, and a great love for the same, has in press two very interesting and entertaining volumes. They will be out at an early day.

—Salisbury Watchman: Mr. T. J. Sumner has recovered from a slight stroke of paralysis. He has been confined for more than two weeks.

—Mr. J. J. Newman of the Dutch Creek mine has an enquiry for 100,000 acres of North Carolina mineral and forest lands. It is English capital seeking investment here. They all enquire for copper—they want a large district.

—New Berne Nat Snell: A telegram was received in this city Saturday, announcing the death of Mrs. Jane Ellis, at Brunswick, Ga., in the 68th year of her age.

—Mrs. Ellis was of this city and widow of the late James Ellis, Esq. The oysters brought to this market now are generally of a good quality, they being caught from planted beds. Having been on the streets at fifteen cents per quart.

—Pittsboro Record: The barn and stables of Mr. Andrew Brown, of this county, were burned on last Friday night. It is supposed to have been set on fire. It was quite a large barn, and there was no insurance. —We much regret to learn that the gin house of Messrs. Yarborough & Sheppard, at Osgood, in this county, was burned a few days ago. The fire originated from a spark from the steam engine that ran the gin. The loss was quite heavy—probably $1,000—and there was no insurance, the policy having expired last month.

—Goldboro Messenger: Raleigh is to have water works. An agent of the New York firm was in this city last week making surveys and estimates of the work.

—It pains us to announce the death of P. B. Scott, Esq., a leading and highly esteemed citizen of Great Swamp township. He died last Wednesday night.

During the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1882, the Southern States paid in internal taxes $34,117,287.30. Leaving out Illinois, Ohio, and New York, the other Northern States—nineteen—paid $46,000,000. So the average in those States is not so very much greater than in the sixteen Southern States. The great whiskey States pile up the revenue tax after this size: Illinois pays 28½ million dollars; Ohio 18½ millions, and New York 19½ millions—total, 66 millions. It is proposed by the North Carolina Legislature to wipe out all this tax, much of which is necessary to keep the Government running, and to rely entirely upon the high tariff that taxes blankets and wool hats, sugar and crockery, trace chains and jack-knives, quinine and common window glass, cheap dress goods and other articles used by every household in the land.

Gebhard has gone to New York after all. He was to have gone with the "Lilly" to Memphis, but he suddenly changed his purpose. The following from a St. Louis dispatch to the New York Times may explain the matter: —"The row with Cunningham, however, was undoubtedly the cause of the porting. Cunningham sent Gebhard a note to-night telling him that and wanted to speak with him. Upon the receipt of the note Gebhard placed himself in charge of the police and a few minutes later he was on board the Vandalla train, with official assistants, to protect himself from any danger that might appear. When word was brought to Cunningham that Gebhard would not meet him he bought tickets for himself and four friends intending to follow Gebhard to Memphis, where the hotel walls are not so thick as they are in St. Louis, but the New Yorker's flank movement caused a change of action, and Cunningham is now at home, but terribly angry at the way his opponent slipped away from him."

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

The State Constitution provides that all property shall be taxed equally at its money value. This is fair as an abstract proposition, but practically it is never done. Even real estate is not equally taxed, because it is assessed on a basis of inequality existing in the same city or township, and in a more marked degree between different portions of the State. Taking the State all through, we suppose that the tax value of real estate is not more than one half the money value. The tax laws must be revised. Here is important work for a tax commission. —Greensboro Patriot.

That everlasting trouble and puzzle of the negro race and what to do with them is now being discussed in the North Carolina and clings upon us with deadly incubus. The idea is gaining strength every day that the responsibility of negro education must not fall upon and be borne by the white race, and that the constitutional equation of the races in the benefits of taxation for education is an unjust political and race burden. It practically works to the injury of one race and one party. The taxes for education are borne, largely, by the white race and by the Democratic party. It is an unjust burden. It is unjust to the white race to divide the taxes for education with the negro race, when in addition to the fund for their education which they derive from the burdensome taxation of the white race at home they have also the important addition to their educational advantages from the sympathy and voluntary contributions of their Northern friends, upon whom indeed they have a just claim. —Raleigh City Economist.

The Old Bored on the Rampage.

The high wind whistled around the chimney and blew the snow and blew bricks down into the street, scaring the people who walked below. Snow, sleet and hail drove into the faces of those who dared expose themselves, and made them button their coats tight against their throats. Of course there were sore throats and colds and coughs and rheumatisms the next day. But what were these to men and women who could step into any drug store and buy a bottle of PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER?

The Distinguishing Killar.

A delightful fragrance of freshly gathered flowers and spices is the distinguishing charm of Florence Cologne.

Gen Jo Wheeler is a lively fellow in a deliberative body. He was sworn in as a member of the House at 12 o'clock. In less than three hours he had introduced five bills, made two motions, and delivered a speech on the justice of giving a pension to every soldier of the Mexican war, including Jeff Davis.

The Union Club, of New York City, of which Gebhard is a member, indorse him for not fighting a duel, and say he is "a plucky young man."

CURRENT COMMENT.

"If there is a Democratic party north of us now, in any State except Kentucky, where they raise fine horses and good whiskey, which favors 'tariff for revenue only,' it hasn't been heard from lately." —Nashville American. You do not seem to have heard from anything lately. "A tariff for revenue only," adopted at St. Louis in 1876, and reaffirmed at Cincinnati in 1880, is Democratic law. North and South, until it is formally rescinded. You have evidently not heard of that. Nor have you heard from the great Northwest, where the tariff-for-revenue issue has revolutionized three Republican States, Iowa, Michigan and Nebraska. —Louisville Courier-Journal, Dem.

—Signs enough are in the air that the Republican party has reached a stage where it must either be regenerated and reunited, and must go on to the Government into a positive policy, or must go to defeat. A party of principle can stand up under defeat, and can grow more resolute thereby. But a party composed of such exactly critical elements as many Republicans are, who know of no reason for being in a party save to carry principles into action, if it should be defeated because the representative principle was trampled upon in its nomination of President, would probably be defeated beyond recovery. —Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, Rep.
