WILMINGTON, N. C., TUESDAY, APRIL 3, 1883.

During the first three months of 1883 there were 3,189 failures. It will be interesting to have them by the week. Bradstreet's says: failures; week ending January 5, 237 failures; week ending January 12, 342; week ending January 19, 817; week ending January 26, 289; week ending February 2, 276; week ending February 16, 221; week ending February 18, 221; week ending February 18 ing February 28, 204; week ending March 2, 260; week ending March 9, 208; week ending March 17, 233; week ending March 24, 196; and for the week ending March 30, 170 failures."

Forty belonged to the last week of 1882, and are deducted given the grand total as above. During the last week there were 170 failures. Of these Georgia furnished 5; Kentucky, 4; Louisians, 3; Maryland, 3; Mississippi, 2; Tennesse, 2; Texas, 5; Virginia, 3, and West Virginia, 3. North Carolina, we regret to say, showed 3, three times as much as the week before, but less than some other Southern States.

Here are some of the crimes of the North reported in one day: Mrs. Hannah Sunderland, a widow of 81, murdered at Waterbury, Conn. A hammer was used, and her hands were tied. At Wilkesbarre, Pa., S. S. Loson was bailed on a charge of outraging his own daughter, aged 15. W. W. Gillis, a forging banker, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., fled. He forged $30,000. The next day among others the following crimes were reported by telegraph: George J. Rice, former Railroad President, tried in New York for embezzlement; at Newburgh, Indiana, Remus R. Harrington shot and killed his sonin-law; at Rochester safe burglars

Milton Nobles and Company. The large audience that greeted Milton Nobles at the Opera House last night attested the popularity of this excellent actor, since it had assembled to witness the performance of a new and comparatively unknown play. The piece was entitled "Interview," in which Mr. Nobles has a capital part that he portrays to its full advantage. Unfortunately without this characterization there is little else in the drama. and hence it cannot be written up as a successful production. Without Nobles it has little besides to commend it to popular favor, and one part plays are becoming tiresome. "Quil Driverton," the hero, was always interesting and entertaining in his numerous adventures, and was continually applauded, though whether fhe praise legitimately redounded to the character or to the actor who interpreted it was always an intricate question. The company supporting did all they could to complete the suscess of the play, and from this we can promise a first-rate performance to-night. Mr. Nobles won his fame and fortune in "The Phonix," and we can only regret that his efforts to obtain a fit companion piece to this popular meledrama are so unavailing. As "Jim Bludsoe" he presents a unique and novel stage picture in a well constructed, intensely interesting and original play, and well deserves the success he has obtained through its numerous presentation. All appearances point to there being a large audience to witness the perform ance this evening, and assuredly never to have seen "The Phonix" is to have missed a treat indeed. If you have seen it once you will go again; if you have never witnessed its production take advantage of

Annual Sermon Before the Baptist

Rev. Dr. Taylor, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, preached the annual sernon before the Woman's Missionary Society of that church on Sunday morning last, taking for his text the 9th verse of the 86th chapter of Acts-"This woman was full of good works and alms deeds which she did." The discourse was a deeply interesting one, giving a full and graphic exposition of the duties pertaining to a thorough and consistent Christian womanhood. and reciting in touching terms the many acts of Christian benevolence and beneficence performed by women in all ages of the world; adverting somewhat particularly to their labors in heathen lands, in upholding the armor of the cross, to the many religious works emanating from their pens, and the beautiful and touching songs and hymns composed by them and which form so important a part of public worship

Bidn't Embezzle. It seems that Dave Mallett, accused the embezzlement of a bunch of fish, the property of Detective Mayer, alluded to in the STAR a few days ago, is likely to come out of the difficulty with his reputation for honesty unscathed. It now turns out, we understand, that he started to the detective's residence with the fish, and had nearly reached there, when, having been indulging in his favorite "shorts," his great and oft-prevailing passion for sleep overcame him and he sat down and dozed off. When he awoke he went off and left the fish, and the fact that he had promised to deliver them at the residence of Detective Mayer seems to have faded entirely from his mind. The fish were afterwards picked up by a servant empleyed at the residence in front of which he iropped asleep, and have been accounted for. This much in justice to David Mallett, the "City Hall pet."

Rev. Dr. Mayo's Address. Despite the unfavorable weather and the attractions elsewhere in our city, quite an audience assembled at the Tileston Upper Room to hear Rev. Dr. Mayo's address on "American Brains in American Hands." In a pleasant and entertaining way the speaker argued for universal education and claimed that our greatness as a nation was due to the brain working in the hand. What our country needs is more of educated brains to work in the hand. He spoke in very complimentary terms of what the South was doing in the matter of education. We are sorry that more of our people did not hear this able advocate of universal education.

- During the storm on Saturday night, the German barque Atlantic, which had but recently come off the dry dock, and was having her repairs completed lying in the stream, near the wharf, was blown on her beam ends, and as her ports were open and a number of auger holes in her sides, she speedily filled with water. She now lies in fourteen feet of water, with her spars resting on the wharf, which prevented her from going entirely over. The cause of the accident was the fact that, as she was undergoing repairs, there was no ballast in her hold. It is thought she will be raised without much difficulty or expense.

It seems impossible that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Buchu, Hops, Mandrake, Dandelion, etc., should make so many and such great cures as Hop Bitters do: but when old and young rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawver and editor, all testify to having been cured by them, you must believe and try them yourself, and doubt no longer.
