Here is the way the pistol is now. used in the North. It has become an instrument of amusement. The following is a special in the Philadel-

Sixes, July 4. - Mary Steiner, a young buty of fifteen years, was shot dead this sformoon by a buillet fired from a street car window by Albert Kuhn. The parties were unknown to each other. Kuhn was intoxicated, and amused himself by discharging his revolver as the car drove along. He was arrested.

Referring to the proposed Mahoneizing of North Carolina the Petersburg Mail expresses its opinion of the difficulty of the job and the trustworthiness of the whites of our State, It says:

As for North Carolina, having spent the most of our life in that good old State, wo can safely say that Mr. James Madison Leach is recknning without his host when he offers to sell out the State to the Republicans. The good people of that State have not yet forgotten the days of carpet bag rule, when the best men of the State were setually disfranchised, and when the State's treasury was well nigh bankrupted by Swepson, Littlefield & Co., supported by their ignorant negro allies."

Mr. Dibble, of South Carolina, has been claimed for Randall. He and the Pennsylvania protectionist are warm friends. In his letter to the Columbia Register he says his vote in canous will be governed at that time by what he considers "will redound to the benefit of the Democratic party." The Charleston News and Cou-FIST SATE:

We are confident that Mr. Dibble, in spite of his personal friendship for Mr. Nandall, will, in the end, disappoint the expretations of the New York Pribuse, and be found ranged with the great body of the Southern and Western Democratic Representatives, demanding for the people immediate relief from the outrageous tariff laxa-tion which is every day robbing every poor man's family throughout the land.

A member of the House from the South has been to West Porst. Returning to New York Mr. Tilden got on at Yonkers. Here is what he says:

Mr. Tilden looks to me like a man in the last stages of decay. He had to be helped into the car and carefully put into his seat by his servent, who never left him. He seemed to be utterly unable to help himself. He spoke with a sort of sputter, which made it almost lurpossible for any one to understand what he was trying to say. He was constantly falling into ent-naps and alipping down in his chair, and that to be helped up and put straight again. He wanted water about every five minutes, and altogether he seemed like a very old man who is unable to perform the ordinary offices for himself. One eye seemed entirely closed, and the other was drooping and without brilliancy or strength."

If this is a correct picture let us hear no more of Mr. Tilden for Pre-

Mr. Carlisle has been recently interviewed as to the tariff. His views are precisely those he expressed again and again in several speeches during the last Congress. Now the protection papers parade his last utterances as something new. We have before copied what he said in the Congress. In the interview he

"He said that if they simply meant to charge that he was in favor of such a reform in the tariff as would equalize and reduce the present high rates of duty, without injuri-ously affecting any of the industrial interests of the country, he would cheerfully admit the truth of the accusation,

"He said that he was now, and always had been, opposed to the imposition of duties for the sole purpose of fostering certain industries and localities at the expense of others, and he thought that this vice in our present system ought to be repudiated at the earliest possible moment. But a thorough reform in the whole system could not, in the nature of things, by accomplished at once, even if it was desirable to do so. It must be a work of time."

All of this may be found in his speeches of 1882.

All Europe is much alarmed over that awful scourge, Asiatic cholera. It is already at the port of Marseilles. Its chance for rushing over Europe is good, and it may cross the Atlantic to our shores. The New Orleans Times Democrat says of its

"It infects the water, it infects the ships, it is borne on the very breezes. Europe has fought it for years, but it cannot boast that it has ever kept back this disease, which comes with certain but irregular tread. There is one favorable feature about the propagation of this desease-the slowness with which it moves. While much is vague and uncertain about this disease, its igin and course of travel never varies. The cholera is always born in India, on the banks of the Ganges. Its route to Europe is always the same, westward to Egypt and Persia, and thence into Russia. It nearly always lingers in that Empire a year or more, and suddenly makes its appearance in the north of England. From England it travels to France, from which it springs suddenly to Canada and New York, to make its way rapidly through the United States into Mexico and South America.

Hon, Frank H. Hurd, the ablest man from Ohio, in the lower House of the Congress, is confident Randall will be beaten. He says: .

"Mr. Randall cannot be elected to the Speakership of the next House, except by bargain with the free-traders that he will so constitute the committee on Ways and Means that it will formulate and present to the House a bill providing for a tariff for revenue only. I have carefully polled the next House and find that fully three-fourths of the Democratic members elected to it are free-traders, or, if you prefer the term, tariff for revenue only men. Never before have we had so decisive a representation in Congress, determined to force the

He says Hoadly will be elected, and that there are no divisions among Democrats. Good. He says: "I do not think there is a Republican in Ohio who knows anything of the political situation will say that Foraker has a chance of success."

- Lumberton Robesonian: When the Rolesonian was established in 1870 there were less than half a dozen postoffices in the county, and even our own town had only a semi or tri-weekly mail. Now we have between thirty and forty, and of this number no less than fifteen have a daily mail, while perhaps a greater number are semi or tri-weekly.

We don't know whether there is foundation for the rumor or not, but there is one man who does know, and that man is Judge Fowle, and it becomes him to speak.

The bequest is supposed to be worth about $10,000, and by the recent death of Mrs. McNair the hands of the trustees for the purpose designated.

There will be an excursion to Waccamaw Lake on Wednesday next, the 11th inst., under the auspices of the Sunday School of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, of which Mr. W. H. Strauss is the Superintendent. Special care will be taken to provide for plenty of room on the cars, plenty of refreshments, and a good dinner at the Lake for 50 cents. Places of business to the number of 13 were found open by the police after night. Applicants for lodgings during the month were furnished-3 white males and colored males.

Fines collected during the month, $10.38. Cottom Bloom-The Crops, &c.

From Mr. Jabesh Frink, of Shallotte Township, Brunswick county, we have a cotton bloom plucked from a ten-acre field on the 30th ult., at which time there were plenty of others. Having announced the first bloom of the season received in Wilmington, we now give the second which has come to us, which will wind up the cotton bloom business for the season. Mr. Frink represents the crops as good considering the amount of rain and grass with which the farmers have had to contend. A gentleman from Columbus county represents the crops there as very fine, but says the grass and lack of labor are very material drawbacks. The scarcity of labor in some localities is getting to be a very serious question.

Festive Bugs.

A good story is told by an aged friend about a family residing near the sea-coast, that were not noted for cleanliness, who, beim overrun on one occasion by those pestiferous insects commonly known as 'chinches," finally took down their bedsteads and anchored them in the stream. This friend of ours, who is credited with being an eye-witness of the occurrence, says she went into the house, when her attention was attracted by strains of weird music wafted through the open casements. She hurried to the door, whence she observed myriads of the troublesome bugs lining the tops of the floating bedsteads and singing "Life on the Ocean Wave."

Brunswick's Champion Rattlesnake. S. A. Swain; Esq., writes us from Smithville that the champion snake of Brunswick was killed by one of his "dippers" in his turpentine woods, near Davis' Creek on Wednesday of last week. When the man saw the snake he was so impressed with its size and appearance that he shouted for assistance, when two more men came and between the three the reptile was despatched: Upon being measured he was found to be between six and seven feet long and had twenty-seven rattles. This was undoubtedly a large snake, but considerably behind the Pender champion rattlesnake, a portion of the skin of which, without being split, was kept on exhibition in our office for a year or more. It measured sixteen inches in circum-

A DOWN TOWN MERCHANT, having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming conand cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still suffering; and while contemplaying another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and said nothing. That night all hands slept well, and the little fellow awoke in the morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the wonderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering crying babies and restless nights have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrap naver yet failed to relieve the baby, and overcome the preindless of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. WHOLE NO. 4947
