In 1871 the taxable values of Texas amounted to $122,504,073. In 1882, eleven years after, they amounted to $419,925,476. Surely this is very remarkable. What Northern State can show such progress within the same time?

In our reference on the second page to the loss of gifted men that Elizabeth City had sustained within a few years, we unintentionally omitted the name of the late Judge Brooks, a gentleman of pure and honorable life, whose services to the people of North Carolina should never be forgotten.

The Summer School of Christian Philosophy, of which Dr. C. F. Deems is President, had a narrow escape on Thursday last. The moeting was held in the Presbyterian church at Richfield Springs, N. Y. A. dispatch says:

About noon a terrific thunderbolt struck the edge of the Universalist church, and, giancing off, struck a tree in Mr Knapp's yani. It was asserted that the school did not keep faith in their advertisement and ieft the Universalist church for the Presby-terian. The Rev. Dr. Deems said that the schools having met in the Presbyserian church was their salvation."

negroes. The Congress passed an act requiring the Districts to be composed of contiguous counties. The Georgians doubtless know what they are about. We confess the fairness is a surprise. It is a good example, but we fear the Republicans will never follow it.

The biographics on the Count de Chambord, the last of the Bourbons, have been aired at last. From one of them we collate a few passages

There was much that was pathetic and no means ignoble in the life and death that quiet, inactive, but honorable and ignified gentleman, who was recognized his partisans as Henri V. of France, but was known to the world generally as the Compte de Chambard, of Frohsdorff, in Austria. He was the bend of the house of Bourbon, the heir by direct descent of Louis XIV. The throne of France was his by "divine right," but he would not raise a hand to take it until his countrymen smanld freely call him, nor would be abase one jot of the traditions of the monatchy to win the popular favor. Henri, Due de Bordeaux, the title given to him at his baptiam, was the son of Prince Charles Ferdi nand d'Artois, Duc de Berri, son of Charles X and the Princess Caroline of the Two "No birth," says a recent writer, "ever caused more rejoicing to the Conser-vatives throughout Europe than that of Henri Charles Ferdinand Mari Dicuidonne, of France, on Sept 29, 1820, for the want of an heir to the two sons of Charles X. seemed to presage the revival of the Republican and Bonapartist factions, which had been effectually crushed in 1815, after afteen years of war.

Our Supreme Court Judges are evidently much overworked. Chief Justice Smith-clarum et venerabile momen-has been often under the weather physically, whilst Judge Raffin, with a delicate constitution, has been brought down to death's door. It is stated in one of our exchanges that both he and Judge Ashe are thinking of resigning. The able Judge Dillard had to retire because of his health. It is almost certain that the Bench will have to be reinforced. There will have to be five Justices, as the litigation of the State is incluse great that three men, however industrious and capable, cannot do the work. The Bench as organized now seems to be a trap to kill off able jurists.

Durham Recorder: We learn that Judge Thomas S. Ashe speaks of resigning his position as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court. Judge Ruffin, who has been dangerously sick for several weeks at his home in Hillsboro, will also resign on account of ill health. It is a matter of deep regret to every North Carolinian that the health of these two legal lights is so

- Raleigh Visitor: Dr. John G. B. Myers, of Beaufort county, about ten miles below Washington, N. C., lost by fire a few days ago a large barb, with conaiderable corn and forage and all his vehicles and farming implements; also his stables, with four horses and several mules. The fire occurred about 3 o'clock in the morning and is said to be undoubtedly the work of an incendiary.

Beveridge was born in Scotland, and emigrated to this country and to Beaufort in 1851. Mr. J. M. Cox, a brother of Mr. R. B. Cox, of this place, came near losing his life on Monday last. He carelessly scated himself on the gunwale of the boat and the sail suddenly gibing over, gruck him on the breast and shoulder, knocking him over-board and distocating his shoulder. Mr. C. is an expert swimmer and managed to keep himself above water with the arm which was uninjured, until the boat could be tacked and brought to him. He was, however, saved only by his own presence of mind, as he seized on a rope which was iragging in the water and held on until he could be drawn into the boat.

— We have just been shown a lot of jewel stones, by Dr. C. D. Smith, which he has collected in the counties west of the Blue Ridge. He has had them handsomely and tastefully cut by an experienced lapidary in Philadelphia. Amongst them are nine beautiful and richly colored garnets the largest of which weighs 48 grains. Love has just returned from a trip through the largest of which weighs 42 grains. There are two amethysts of rare richness in color, three green quartz found only in Macon. We have been particularly struck with the subdued beauty of two stones, of a honey-colored chalcedony. There is also a beryl of great purity and brilliancy. But that which is the most attractive in the whole lot is eleven sapphires of different shades of color and design in the form of genuine, oriental rubics, of light shade but great brilliancy. The Lapidary who cut the whole lot says in a letter to Dr. Smith:

Yesterday morning about 10 o'clock a dis-patch was received at the railroad headquarters in this city from Lowell, Gaston county, a station on the Air Line, about fifteen miles from Charlotte, requesting that a cot and w doctor be sent to that place forthwith. A severe accident had occurred and it was thought that engineer Daniels was seriously hurt, but as it turned out, the engineer was only bruised up considerably, no boucs having been broken. - Mr John Byrom, a citizen of Union county, had a miraculous escape from death in Mr George Wilson's mill, a short distance from Monroe, day before yesterday. He was standing by a revolving shaft, when it caught his ciothing, and instantly he was being whirled around as a fearful rate. The shaft was fortunately several feet from the ground, which allowed his body to go over and over without coming in contact with anything. So rapidly did he revolve that one of his shoes was thrown from his foot and went over the engine. When his clothing had been torn entirely off, he dropped to the ground in an insensible condition. A shirt sleeve band and one shoe was all the clothing that remained on his body. An examination proved that no bones were broken. Mr. Byrom is recovering. - The Charlotte bound passenger train on the Richmond & Danville road was wrecked at Thomasville night before last by running on the side track through an open switch and colliding with a material train that was standing on the siding. The train was not going at a very fast rate, or the results would have been disastrous. As it was the eagine was badly damaged, the trucks were knocked from under the postal car and the track was torn up for a short distance. The sc cident delayed the train seven hours.

- Charlotte Journal Observer: In the Inferior Court yesterday morning, the case of Ticket Agent Adams and Conductor Nosbit, who are charged with embezfling milroad funds, was continued by consent, and set for trial on Thursday of the next term of the Inferior Court. milrose official who has seen thirty-seven years of active service recently remarked to our reporter that it was more safe now to run passenger trains 50 miles per hour and freight trains 25 miles per hour than it was twenty years ago to run them at half that rate of speed. — The police commission composed of Mayor Maxwell and Aldermen Robertson, Waru and Rigler held a court of investigation yesterday, which resulted in the suspension of Chief of Police Harrison and policeman McManus until the next meeting of the board of aldermen. The charge brought against Capt. Harrison was that he failed to discharge his duty prompt-ly on two occasions, notably during the isturbance on the 21st. The charge against policeman McManus was that intoxication and neglect of duty. Ben jamin Hahn, a young jeweller, who will be remembered by our citizens as a former workman in Butler's jewelry store, but who left here last winter to open business for himself in Laurinburg, died in a wagon while being conveyed from the woods, where he was found yesterday morning, to his home in the town. Young Hahn had been drinking hard, we learn, and had strayed to the woods, where he last night a colored man named John Alexander was walking along Trade street, east end, in company with another negre man and a party of women, when they were confronted by a negro named Matt. Alexander, who drew a pistol and shot John Alexander in the head. The wounded man broke from the women and ran, He was found after a search by the police. The bullet struck his forehead and running around the skuli came out at the temple. Policemen Orr and Healy captured Matt. Clark, who did the shooting, at daybreak yesterday morning, and had him arraigned efore the Mayor trial. - Yesterday afernoon a spry young man, well dressed, and having the general air of a city plug about him, stepped out of the Western Union Telegraph Office and had walked a few steps when the tall form of Policeman Blackwelder overshadowed him, and look ing up he saw himself in the hands of a blue-cost. Charles B. Starke was his name and he was from Richmond. He had committed forgery and hence his arrest.

Yesterday morning Jack Bennett, known colored huckster, also known by the name of Jack Davis, who lived on Harnett, between Seventh and Eighth streets, got up and put on his clothing with the view of starting to the market. He came down stairs, but had barely reached the first floor when he complained of feeling bad, was seized with a choking sensation and returned to his room; laid himself down on the bed and in a few minutes afterwards was a corpse. from Rev. Dr. Taylor, late pastor of the First Baptist Church, dated London, Aug. 18th, an extract from which we append, nowing it will be deeply interesting to hi hosts of friends in this city: "I went on Saturday evening to the old cemetery at Bunhill Fields, and saw the graves of Bunvan. Isaac Watts, DeFoe and many other illustrious ones. Across the street is the church where Wesley preached, and in the rear of it is his grave and monument. I plucked some of the grass growing on it, for you. It is herewith enclosed. I have had a most delightful time. The ocean trip was all that could be desired. My stay in this wonderful city has been one of constant sight-seeing and enjoyment. I have been visiting places and spots of which I have heard and read and dreamed all my life. With what strange and thrilling feelings I realize the fact that I have been to Westminster Abbey. Saint Paul's, Hampton Court, Windsor Palace, Smithfield, Charing Cross, Whitehall, old Westminster Hall, the houses of Parliament, London Bridge, and ever so many other wonderful and historic places. Last Saturday I spent several hours at Mr. Spurgeon's home. O, what a privilege, to shake the hand and be in the company of this great and good man! Yesterday I heard him preach, morning and night, in Exeter Hall. And he did it grandly, though in feeble health. With what eloquence and power does he proclaim the grand truths of that Saviour whom he loves so much! I could write pages, but must stop."

Dr. Taylor says, in concluding his interesting letter: "I expect to go from here to Paris, and from there to Bagin di Lucca via Genoa and Pisa, and later to Naples, ry Association, realizing that it is an institution which, if properly conducted, will contribute to the culture of our community, are endeavoring to reorganize and place it upon a basis of permanent success. The books will be catalogued, and a careful system of loaning them instituted, and only books in library edition will be added hereafter to the present collection. The library rooms will be rearranged as soon as practicable, and made an agreeable place of resort for ladies and gentlemen for pur-poses of study and learning. The usual winter course of lectures, under the auspices of the Association, will be made as com plete as opportunity permits, and the literary clubs, which have heretofore added an interesting feature to the Library, will be encouraged and supported. The Directors are determined to conduct the Association upon library principles; to adopt and enforce rules necessary to its efficient management; and in their present effort to build up an institution creditable to Wilmington, they appeal to the public to be supported.

This support is needed in an increased membership. The present membership is nadequate to its purpose. It is necessary that it should be increased to at least two hundred. The Directors solicit the interest and membership of every respectable citipeople of the community, and upon the ground, outside of any individual advantage to be derived, that every citizen should contribute the amount of the annual dues

Fire Across the River.

Yesterday about noon the cry of fire was heard, and the flames were found to proceed from the roof of a rosin shed on the west side of the river, the property of Messrs. G. W. Williams & Co. It had gotten under pretty good headway when discovered, but the employes in the different yards hurried to the spot, some quickly mounted the roof by means of a small ladder, and others gathered what buckets they could, and then the battle between the roaring flames and the few resolute men commenced in earnest. The men who were supplying the water had to run a distance of about one hundred yards before they could get to a spot where they could fill their buckets, but they worked with such rapidity and displayed such activity that the men on the roof were kept pretty busy throwing water upon the fire, and what few moments they had to spare was given to the work of tearing off the burning shingles. When the fire was first seen from our wharves nearly every one predicted a big fire and the destruction of a great deal of property, but after a brief struggle for the mastery it began to be seen that victory was destined to perch upon the banner of the yardmen and othera, who proved themselves splendid firemen. In about ten minutes the fire was under control, and in another five minutes it was entirely out. The engines and hook and ladder truck were at the foot of Market street, ready to be transported across, but it was soon found that their services would not be needed. If the fire had gotten fully under way it would no doubt have resulted very disastrously to the naval stores men. As it was the loss was slight.

Child Abduction.

It has been ascertained that a little boy by the name of Jesse Franks was abducted from his parents at Prattville, Alabama, fourteen miles from Montgomery, by a man named Hurd. The little fellow was taken to Wilson, N. C., by his abductor, where, for some cause or other, he was deserted by Hurd, who probably stole the child with the view of extorting a ransom, but after- | which was not of the best. ards feared detection. This was some time in June, our informant states, and it was not until recently that it was ascertained, through some remark the boy made about his grandpa Gholston, that a correspondence was opened with the Franks family (Mrs. F. being a daughter of Judge Gholston, of Alabama), and it was found that their child had been stolen. The little fellow was put on the train at Wilson Sunday night, in care of Capt. Downing and passengers, and upon arrival here was transferred to the W., C. & A. Railroad, in charge of the conductor on that road, and is doubtless in the arms of the loved ones who had mourned him as a second 'Charlie Ross."

Robbing an Officer of the Law. Some thief entered the premises of Justice J. C. Millis, in the southern section of the city, about 9 o'clock ou Saturday night last, while people were passing the streets and lights burning in many of the neighboring houses, and robbed his chicken coop of three hens and a fine rooster. 'Squire Millis and his wife had retired a little earlier than usual that night, and, hearing a noise among the chickens the former hurried out and was just in time to hear the thief making his escape from the premises, while the door of the chicken coop was found wide open. The thief had prized the door open with an axe, actually drawing a staple, which had been driven through the post and clinched on the other side. The thief had to get away in such a hurry that he left a number of chickens in the coop. And now all the householders in the neighborhood are rubbing up their double barrel shot guns, seven-shooting revolvers and old army muskets, and expect to go to sleep nightly, for some time to come, with one eye shut and the other on their chicken coops.

False Pretense. Robert Costin, colored, was arrested on the charge of obtaining goods under false pretense. It seems that he went to the store of Messrs. Holmes & Watters, on the 24th of July last, as is alleged, and represented that he had been sent there by Messrs. R. G. Gause & Co., for five boxes of herring. It turned out subsequently that he was not authorized to get the herring, and a warrant was accordingly issued for his arrest. He was required to give bond in the sum of $50, for his appearance for preliminary examination before Justice Millis, in default of which he was committed to jail.

Sudden Death on Saturday. We alluded briefly in our last to the fact that a colored woman was reported to have fallen dead over the railroad. We since learn that her name was Lucy A. Laboo, and that she resided on the corner of Nixon and Seventh streets. She was found dead in her bed on Saturday morning last. Coroner Jacobs was notified and held an inuest over the body, the verdict of the jury being that deceased came to her death by causes to them unknown. She was about 48 years old and leaves five children.

Personal. Rev. Dr. E. A. Yates, formerly of the Front Street M. E. Church of this city, but now of Raleigh, who has been on a visit to his many friends here during the past week, will return home to morrow. His old congregation were delighted with his sermon Sunday morning.
