the STAR of lying about the effect of the tax under the tariff upon shoes.

The Boston Post of Wednesday devotes large space to a full account of the "magnificent exhibit" of North Carolina at the Institute Fair. The secount would fill three columns of the STAR. We may draw upon it hereafter. The following is new, and

"A freight car containing the goods con-tributed by the Seaboard Air Line arrived at the fair building on Tuesday, and will be placed in position to-day. The display will be made at the side of North Carolina. and will be under the direction of the commissioners of that State. A handsome flice, built entirely out of the wood of the State, has been erected, and a bureau of aformation has been established for the benefit of parties desiring to obtain knowledge of the State and the railroad rates. The garden, composed of pots of green ferns, palms, cotton plants, rhodedendrous, arbor vitte and other shrubbery present very handsome appearance. A small exhibit which will be passed by many unnoticed is the eight butts of water from group of mineral springs in the State. bese springs are located within a radius two hundred yards, and eighty-two steps in a straight line will bring a person from the outside spring on one side to the spring the most remote, and yet the chemical characteristics of the springs are very disssimilar. They are called the white sulphur, poison, aloe sulphur, red sulphur, iron and alum, and the iron

Miss Chamberlayne, the handsome American who creates a sensation in English society, is really not more beautiful than many hundreds of other American girls. She is thus described by a man of her own

"The Prince was quite attentive to her, owever, and that is quite sufficient to stablish her as a beauty over there. She had a rather captivating way about her-oddly combining a spirituelle, Marguerite air with the peculiar dash and confidence common in Yankee girls. It was evening, and the light was made clear by the giare. the ordeal well. Her face wrs painted, like wax work. The red of her cheeks stood out like dauba. Her features were small and regular, her figure tall and well-shaped, and her bearing free and unconstrained. She was dressed in good taste."

The Charleston News and Courier, in the course of a long editorial, says wisely, as we think, and timely of an important matter

"Apart from the evil due maladministration, we do not think that the Internal Re rethue system is specially unjust to the South, and we should be sorry to admit that the Southern people, in proportion to their number, dripk more whiskey and smoke more tobacco than the Northern people. It certainly is not to our credit, as regards the whiskey, if this is a fact. Nor can we see that the Internal Revenue taxes are a constant drain of money from the South. It is the consumer of tobacco and whiskey, and not the producer or manufacturer, who pays the tax."

At Dedham, Mass., one Jackson L. Evans, and two women named Mrs. Catherine B. Cobb and Miss Kate L. Whitney, have been arraigned for organizing a Mormon church at that place. - Evans has been sentenced to three years in the house of correction for having a plurality of wives. Rain in Torrents-Buildings Flooded -Streets Torn Up and Washed Out -Amount of Rainfall, &c.

Clouds overspread the sky yesterday morning, and about 9 o'clock there was a heavy shower of rain. About half past 10 o'clock there was another and still heavier shower, which flooded the streets and sidewalks in some localities to such an extent as to make them impassable. The clouds were very low down and they seem ed to be charged with oceans of water, which was poured down in torrents. The alley leading from Second street to Front, by Mesers. Hart, Bailey & Co.'s foundry, was a complete torrent, and the water rushed through it into Front street with the velocity of a cataract. The foundry shops were flooded to the depth of about all cease working. In the meantime Front street to the corner of Dock, and Dock street from Front to the wharf, was a complete sheet of water.

The cistern in the back part of Mr. C W. There were a large number of washouts in different sections of the city, the damthat caused by the recent storm. Among the worst is the sewer on Third street, between Market and Princess, one of the pipes leading to it having burst, causing a sort of whirlpool and finally an overflow and caving in of earth. The main sewer is intact. A sufficient guard has been erected to prevent any one from getting into the large hole left on the edge of the sidewalk; then there is a pretty bad washout at Third and Campbell streets: one at Fifth and Princess; one at Third and Princess; one at Second and Walnut; one at Third and Mulberry; one at Tenth and Market, and one at Second and Orange streets. The warehouse of Messrs. Hall & Pearsall was also partially flooded and some of their salt damaged. At the Signal office we were informed that the rainfall up to 8 P. M. amounted to 4.70 inches, and after 3 to 0.18 inches. The rain was almost entirely a local affair, very fittle being recorded elsewhere in the South Atlantic belt. The fall in Savannah was 28 inches; in Charleston, .02 inches; in Charlotte, .19 inches; in Augusta, .35 inches; in Jacksonville, 1.19 inches; in Atlanta, 31 inches, and in Key West, .25

Which is the Leading Naval Stores Port !- The Question Answered-Let Wilmington Come to the Front.

The New-York Commercial Bulletin, alluding to the annual review of the trade of the port of Savannah, as published in the Morning News of that city, says: "Cotton, as usual, continues to be the chief source of its commercial activity, but there is a marked growth in naval stores. Savannah. in fact, now occupies the first place in the world in this trade, which is usually at its height when the cotton season is over." To show what just claim our sister city has to the proud distinction accorded her by our disinterested contemporary in New York, usually so well posted in commercial metters, we applied at the Produce Exchange for correct figures. The careful and attentive Secretary had them down to a dot, and here they are:

For the year ending August 31st, 1883, Savannah received, in barrels and casks of naval stores, 536,976.

Wilmington, during the same period, received, in casks and barrels of naval stores.

Excess in favor of Wilmington only 110,

Well, as Wilmington has not been pushed quite out of the "world" yet by its very enterprising and goaheaditive neighbors. she may be allowed to still contest the palm with them in the matter of naval stores supremacy, and when the time comes-if it ever shall-when she can no longer lay claim to the distinction of surpassing them in this respect, then it will be time enough. for Wilmington to "sing low."

We are prepared to say, in addition to the facts already given, that up to the end of the naval stores year in April last, Sa vannah had not handled any single article in excess of Wilmington. Then, too, it should be borne in mind, that the article of pitch, in which there is a considerable business done by Wilmington, is not included | Monday, by which time it had reached the the statement given above.

We hope that our usually well-informed cotemporary of the Bulletin will correct the wrong impression its article will be likely to create to the disparagement and injury

Since writing the above we have been furnished the following by Col. J. L. Cantwell, Secretary of the Produce Exchange: Comparative Statement.

Col. Cantwell accompanied the above statement with the following forcible re marks, showing that he was warmed up on the subject of the injustice so often heaped upon our port: ...

"I send you the above hoping that our newspapers will take interest enough in this port to contradict the claim so persistently made by Savannah to be 'the leading naval stores market of the world, and which has no foundation or excuse save in the ignorance of those who make the claim. I think it becomes the situation to deny it in toto and plainly, and so that they will not forget it.

Littlefield reports that he left Baltimore at 6 P. M. on Saturday. and had pleasant' weather until after passing Hatterss on Sunday at 7 P. M., when a gale sprung up from the northeast and increased in severity until 1 A. M. on magnitude of a hurricane. On Monday about neon it was found that the vessel was nearing the Frying Pan Lightship, the barometer at the time being at 29.02. At this crisis it was determined if possible to run clear of the storm-centre, and the ship's bow was thereupon directed to the northeast, on which course she continued to run until about 8 P. M., when a heavy sea started her boiler and brokesher blow and feed-pipe connection, and carried away a portion of her smoke stack. The loss of the pipes made it necessary to put out the fires, which caused the vessel to lose her speed and put her for the time being at the mercy of the elements. At 12.30 A. M. on Tuesday the barometer began to rise, and at 4 o'clock the wind shifted to the southwest, the weather moderated, and the vessel was headed under sail towards the land. By Thursday morning she was ready for steam again, at which time she was off Cape Lookout, when she was headed southward and crossed the bar at 6 P. M. on Friday. The rain fell in torrents during the entire gale.

- Shelby Aurora: The cotton crop has proved beneficial in many respects to Cleveland county, yet cotton has done some harm. Cotton several years ago learned us to quit drying fruit in large quantities, to diminish the corn crop, to lesen the number of hogs raised, and taught us to buy flour from Catawba and Lincolnton. Our farmers are learning from sad experience to raise more home supplies and to be more self-sustaining.
