MORNING EDITION. OUTLINES.

The Pope will hold a Consistory in April when several new cardinals will be created and vacant sees in America will be filled. A proposition is made to enroll the Orangemen in Ireland as a fighting force. The cotton crop, in eight months, amounts to 4,187,796 bales. The Bulgarian Ministry have resigned. Chicago reports the French loss at Sunday as 38 officers and nearly 1,000 men; the black flag lost 4,000 men; the French found 100,000 in Sunday. Men Behrman, German and Jew, Palmer, negro, were arrested at Chatham for the murder of Mr. Kirk; both confessed their guilt. Kirk was killed for his money. A partial suspension of work at the Washington Mills, Lawrence, Mass., throws 250 workmen out of employment. Gen. Hancock was welcomed at Los Angeles by a large crowd; a public reception will give him on New Year's Day. The postoffice at Henderson, High Point, Kinston and Raleigh, N. C., have been named to Presidential offices, with increase of salaries. Es King Koffie, formerly and hundreds of his adherents were massacred by the reigning chief of the tribe. N. Y. markets: Money 1 1/2 per cent, cotton dull at 10 1/2. Southern flour quiet and un- changed at $3 40 to $3 75; wheat, un- changed at $1 30; corn, unchanged 70c; corn meal spirits turpentine dull.

A COLORED FRAUD.

How a Large Number of Colored People Were "Taken In" by a Fraud or Crank-His Arrest, &c. There was considerable excitement among a large portion of the colored population, yesterday morning, produced by the development of what is alleged to be a first class fraud and impostor, in the person of a strange colored individual, who gives his name as W. H. Gibson, who describes himself as "a gentleman from Mobile, Ala.," where he has been engaged in the cotton business, and that he had just disposed of enough of the staple in New York to amount to about $2,000. The colored people of Wilmington had some experience of not the pleasant character with a certain so-called "cotton merchant from Liverpool"—known as Dr. Wilbours, or Wilbur—but still they let themselves be imposed upon to some extent by the new comer. The "gentleman from Mobile via New York" did not make as presentable an appearance as the "Doctor from Liverpool"; in fact, he was rather shabby, but then a plenty of greenbacks will cover up a multitude of other defects, and shabbiness is only regarded as a pleasing eccentricity when indulged in by men of means. When the "ex cotton dealer" called at the boarding house of Reuben McDonald, colored, and told Reuben's wife to put "that" away and keep it for him, and handed her a stocking apparently stuffed with greenbacks, she was sure her lucky star was in the ascendancy for awhile—that a man could be made to feel at home even in a boarding-house. When Reuben came, however, and "Mr. Gibson" began talking about his money matters, a slight suspicion was aroused in the mind of the proprietor, who had just a good deal at one time and another by strange guests, who are "here to-day and gone to-morrow," and even the liberality of the stranger in pressing upon his little girl the acceptance of a nickel, failed to entirely reassure him. This suspicion grew in intensity when the stocking, which had been left with Reuben's wife under the impression that it was stuffed with money, turned out to contain nothing more than a package of old newspapers. Application at the banks of the city, also, disclosed the deception practiced by the "ex-cotton dealer" in claiming that he had received from one of them the cash for a draft for $2,000. In the meantime Gibson had been employing men by the wholesale to go to work in the Dismal Swamp, cutting telegraph poles. He claimed to be acting as agent or contractor for a company, who wanted a vast number of poles, and the inducement of $25 per month, $35 in advance and all expenses of travel, etc., paid, had worked like a charm among the colored population, and he had very soon booked the names of 200, at least, who were anxious to precipitate themselves into the "Dismal" and swing the sturdy axe of independence. He was to meet them at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and soon after they were to board the train which was to take them to their new field of labor. About that time, however, Officer J. W. Bryant, armed with a warrant issued upon the complaint of Reuben McDonald, discovered Gibson making his way in the direction of the depot. He induced him to return, and upon finding that he was a prisoner, Gibson insisted that he had plenty of money in the bank. The officer accompanied him to one or more of these institutions, where he was told that the man had no money there. Finally, he was taken before Justice Hill, and here he was confronted by the "Dismal" two hundred, headed by the foreman, James A. Green, selected by Gibson himself to superintend the operations of the men. They were all considerably excited over the fact that they had been duped in such a manner, while such a crowd collecting on the streets was a source of small wonderment. Gibson was requested by the magistrate to give bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance at 3 P. M. He said he could furnish the bond or deposit $1,000 in collateral, but it was not necessary, and he was thereupon marched off to jail. The case came up at the time appointed and the defendant was required to enter into security in the sum of $300 for his appearance at the next term of the Criminal Court, to answer to the charge of false pretense.
