a day or two when they reach New. portance, and whether it takes a York or New England. The contrast between the North and Florida in temperature is too great for in-valide. Then there is that larger classtourists in search of pleasure, adventure, quiet, change, and investments. They overflow Florida. The estimate is that 75,000 persons entered that State this last winter. They make it a beehive. They are going and coming all the time. They first "do" Florida thoroughly. This occupies a month or two. Then they are off for Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Western Carolina, Old Point, anywhere for a change. The invalid class would be delighted with Wilmington or with the famous Onslow Springs and the Sanitarium that must be built there. But a railroad is the first thing when we think of Onslow. The Northern invalids can only get there by rail.

The great oyster and fish industries in which Wilmington is so much interested really and will be more interested hereafter, demands a railroad also.

When we think of Wilmington and the great travel Southward the first and last consideration is a hotel. Almost every day new and convincing evidence comes to us in some way of the great need and advantage of a large hotel for Wilmington. In must come. If the money cannot be raised Aere, then the business community ought to open correspondence with capitalists elsewhere to try to induce them to invest at least $250,000 here in a hotel. They are doing this in a dozen or more towns south of us and why not here?

The sum then of the matter is this:

First, a new hotel. Second, the extension of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railroad to Wilmington.

Third, the extension of the same $1.50 per annum. Address, Richmond, Va. road to the Ohio River. It is only half million or a million. Senator Teller, after examining into the matter, once declared that he would go for an appropriation of a million if it was asked for. We learn that the sum actually required at this time is $300,000, and we suppose that enlightened and well informed legislators will not refuse to grant this sum that the Chief Engineer thinks to be requisite and necessary for the next fiscal year's operations. Our former paragraph was based upon imperfect information.

The critic of the Philadelphia American has cordial praise for Mr. Craddock's "In the Tennessee Mountains," the new Southern book to which we recently called attention. He concludes a well written notice as follows:

"In general, Mr. Craddock may be considered much to be congratulated on the richness and importance of the literary vein which he has struck, and on the skill with which he pursues it."

A RICH MINING COUNTRY.

The writer took four years ago in four days' run upon the plates from a common 10-stamp mill at the famous Rudisill mine at Charlotte, N. C., reopened since the war, and principally from sulphurets, raw, more gold than he has ever seen taken in Colorado under the same circumstances.

The writer has been familiar with Colorado since 1850, and has pitched his tent in most section in that country, but in the past five or six years has examined and paid especial attention to North Carolina, and would from choice mine in that State, where there is no rigorous winter to encounter. Living and labor are extremely cheap, water power is abundant for mining and milling purposes, and their king, cot-ton, should manufacture his own staples, so abundantly grown at hand. P. M. S.

CURRENT COMMENT.

- Laying aside the question of the constitutionality of the Educational bill, its very tendency is evil. It is a mixing up of State and National matters and laying upon us heavily the strong iron hand of the United States Government. The doings of its revenue officers are too fresh in our minds for us to wish or desire the touch of the Federal Government in any of our affairs. While we respect it and are faithful to it, yet we cannot look to it for any salve to heal our wounds-if we are to judge for the future by the past. We favor education. It is the ground

EVENING EDITION.

A SPLENDID FUTURE FOR WIL-MINGTON.

The most important enterprise that concerns Wilmington is the extenston of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railroad to this city and to the Ohio River. There is no project in which the future of Wilmington is so much involved as in this. It is a necessity that the link between Fayetteville and this place should be constructed and at an early day. The natural outlet of Western North Carolina is to the seaboardto Wilmington, West Tennessee merchants are drumming Western Carolina for its trade. Every dollar of this trade will come to Wilmington if the necessary highway of traffic is opened and the inducements are offered. First get the road built to Mt. Airy, and then let our business. men go out themselves.

We have seen a half dozen or more of the heads of Petersburg houses at the courts of one of the upper counties with memorandum books and pencils in hand, talking with the planters, telling them of the prospeets of the price of tobacco, wheat, As., the best time to ship to market, and in turn taking orders for groceries, farm supplies, &c. This personal canvass was necessary and it paid Richmond was twenty-one miles distant on one side, and Norfolk was on the other, with its great shipping advantages, and if the grass did not grow in the streets of Petersburg its business men must bestir themselves, strike out for the trade in that rich section stretching from Bertie county to Stokes and Rockingham, and for the trade all through that equally productive and very similar section that lies in Virginia between Petersburg and Danville and Lynchburg. In spite of "big Richmond" and Norfolk with its very great advantages, Petersburg has grown and flourished and more than held its own. Here is a lesson worth couning.

Wilmington has great natural advantages. She must learn to improve them. The first step is a large and elegant hotel. There will be no progress until this is done. Fill up our town all winter-from October to some 425 miles from Mt. Airy to Cincinnati.

Fourth, the building of a railroad to New River, Catherine Lake and the Alum Springs in Onslow. This means health for the Northern invalids, a tremendous development of the fish and oyster industries for Onslow, and a great canning centre for Wilmington.

Fifth, a free bridge over Brunswick river and a steam ferry for the Cape Fear at the foot of Market street. This means attracting the trade of that large county and the development of a large trucking business. It means more trade for Wilmington, and a big development of the vegetable canning industry. Sixth, the opening up of all available water ways of traffic. Then when the Cape Fear itself has been still farther improved in its depth of water so that Norfolk shall be its only rival in excellence; what shall prevent Wilmington from becoming rapidly a city of 50,000 people? Will, determination, unanimity will accomplish a great deal. A strong pull, a long pull and a pull altogether is what is needed.

After awhile there will be a rail road from Wilmington to the sea, on the other side of the river probably. The best possible bathing is to be found both at Bald Head, and, we believe, to the west of Smithville. The time is not distant, we must believe, when an elegant and commodi ous steamer will ply upon our river. This will come with the new hotel and the crowd of visitors. Wilmingtonians think on these thinks.

Senator George, of Mississippi, is not of that class of politicians in which a State like Mississippi should take much stock. He either belongs to that class of Southerners who were always opposed to the great doctrine of Jefferson, Madison, Calhoun, Alex. Stephene and Jefferson Davis, that the States had certain rights reserved to them under the Constitution, or he has deserted that doctrine altogether. In a speech in the Senate on the Paternal Pedagogy bill this native Southron talked after this advanced centralized style. Said he:

Its Mineral and Lumber Resources. Correspondence of the Boston Post.

MARION, N. C., April 29.-Heretofore the attention of the hardy and energetic sons of New England has been turned to locating in and building up the great West, extending even to the far-off Rocky mountains. * * It is an area largely covered with primeval forest, and abounding in rich minerals, North Carolina alone having 15,882,867 acres of unimproved lands, rich in minerals and good soil, as the forest growth indicates. It has been overlooked for this reason, that before the civil war, when slavery was extant, Northern people did not visit or frequent these States except the large cities and lines of travel, and North Carolina had only six and a half millions of acres under cultivation. * * When some level-headed, thinking Southern men and railroad corporations said, "We can, if we will, exhibit practical proof of the actual resources of the South, bring to our aid Northern and other capital, and cause our rich vacant lands to be occupied by energetic settlers," nobly they placed their shoulders to the wheel and rolled up and placed in the great exposition in Boston samples of their varied products-woods, minerals, gold and precious stones, cereals, fruits, cotton, etc.-such a display as would make any nation proud of such resources. * * * The following facts from official sources prove the capabilities of Western North Carolina: There are 126 varisties of trees, 176 varieties of shrubs and plants, many of them of great commercial and medicinal worth, 32 varieties of vines and work of prosperity, but for us to have the partisan eye of a powerful party bearing gifts to us we protest. - Camden (S. C.) Journal, Dem.

-But the nomination of Mr. Blaine would be the prelude to disaster quite as certain and quite as overwhelming as that which would result from the nomination of Arthur. His supporters may not be easily convinced of this, for in large part they will represent constituencies where there is a genuine popular belief in his strength. It will not be easy for them to understand how he is regarded in many Eastern States, but they may be convinced of the importance and the strength of the reform element, and of the fact that it is utterly and irreconcilably hostile to Blaine's candidacy .- N. THE TOBACCO TAX.

Charleston News and Courier.

We hope and trust that every Revenue Reformer in Congress will vote against any proposition to repeal or reduce the tax on tobacco. It is a scheme in the interest of Protectionists, who hope, in that way, to perpetuate high tariff taxes, and in the interest of tobacco growers and manufacturers who selfishly disregard the interests of the public.

It were a crime to give to tobacco rings millions of dollars at the expense of the people. Such an act would complete the condemnation of the Democratic party. The Democrats who were beaten by a combination of Democrats and Republicans owe it to themselves, and to the country, to join the Republicans, if need be, in defeating any bill for cheap tobacco as an attendant or consequence of dear clothing, dear agricultural implements, dear salt and timber.

> A Ritting Reply. Boston Post, Dem.

The real revenue refomers should now come to the front, says the New York Sun, and deal with the surplus by reforming the war taxes of the internal revenue. That is to say, the Sun might have added, the men who refused the people cheaper blankets, clothes, lumber, coal and sugar, must now come to their relief and give them cheaper rum and tobacco.
