Wall. Senator, if Tilden should be tominated what are his chances to carry the rote of the people?" Why everybody knows that Tilden is t dend man. He is old and decrepted and painted, and cannot survive long. The people, too, are offended at his want of bluck and manhood in not standing by his rights when he was elected, and they are slow to overlook that mistake. The party, however, might put an able man on the sloket with Tilden and win success.

is the most important: The question of marriage with a de-ceased wife's sister was referred finally to the Presbyteries for their advice and consent. The mode of amending the Con-fessaion of Faith and Catechism was decided on. The question of powers of el-ders to act as Moderator of Church Courts referred to the next Assembly. A committee was appointed to prepare and send down to the churches a pastoral letter on the duty and neglect of family worship. The cause of education received much at tention, and in consideration of the in-creasing number of candidates for the minstry the churches were urged to increase their contributions so as to meet all the requirements for the expense of education.

At a late hour on Saturday night, after haposing of all the business on the docket and passing the customary vote of thanks, the Assembly was closed with devotional exercises. The Moderator, in accordance with the form prescribed, declared the General Assembly of 1884 dissolved, and or-dered that another Assembly be convened in the city of Houston, Texas, on the third Thursday of May, 1885.

Mr. Davis publishes a letter flatly contradicting the report set affoat by one John Spies concerning the boquet given him by Mrs. Davis. The venerable ex-President says :

"The story is another falsehood, and to this general, I add a specific, dealal. From none of our captors were such courteous attentions received as would have induced my wife to present him a bouquet in recognition, nor if it had been otherwise were the circumstances such as would have ensbled her to procure one. In a long life of extensive social intercoarse she has never required such defence as in suggested, but if she had ever found it neces sary, neither in the past nor in the present would she have called on any other than her husband to defend her."

The smallest specimens of humanity that ever entered upon the trials and decappointments of married life have just done so in London. A special of the 28th says:

They were perfectly self possessed and answered the casual questions and repeated the declarations distinctively, but in their piping

DECORATION DAY.

Pederal Memorial Day in Wilmington -The Procession-Ceremonies at the National Cometery, &c.

Yesterday (May 80th) being the day set tpart for observance as National Memorial Day, was celebrated in Wilmington with more than usual spirit. The procession was much larger than for several years past, and consisted of a post of the Grand Army of the Republic, the various colored fire organizations of the city, in uniform, the members of a drayman's association; the children of the various colored schools of the city, people in carriages and on foot, etc., while two brass bands discoursed music appropriate to the occasion. We noticed but very few white people in the pro ession. Conspicuous among them, how ever was Gen S. H. Manning, in full regimentals, the same worn by him in the closing scenes of the late war, twenty years ago. the skyr will Half-hour guns were fired during the day by the Revenue cutter Colfax, at her wharf opposite the Custom House, which shook the city up considerably.

The flags on the various public buildings were at half-mast, and some of them were decorated with flags. The residences of Gen. Manning and Col. Foster were also almost literally covered with bunting.

The exercises at the National Cemetery were of a very interesting character, consisting of vocal and instrumental music appropriate to the selemn occasion, prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. D. J. Sanders, of the Chesnut Street (colored) Presbyterian Church, an address by the Rev. D. D. Dodge, of the Congregationalist Church, and the decoration with flowers of the large number of Federal soldiers who lie buried in the beautiful grounds. A large number of those in the procession bore wreaths to be placed on the graves, and flowers were provided in profusion.

After the ceremonies at the Cemetery the sion, with the exception of the chil dren, etc., marched through some of the principal streets of the city.

Almost a Fire. Thursday night, about 11 o'clock, fire was discovered in a dwelling in Sampson's Alley, between Mulberry and Walnut streets occupied by J. B. Dudley, of the Peabody Graded School. Officer Latham, of the police force, with some of the neighbors, forced their way into the house, the entire family being absent, and found the wood work around the fireplace (which was boarded up) all in a light blaze. With the aid of buckets of water the fire was soon extinguished, and without the ne cessity of sounding an alarm. The dam age was not material. The first intimation of the fire was through showers of sparks coming from the chimney.
