

BY W. H. BERNARD. PUBLISHED DAILY EXCEPT MONDAYS.

MORNING EDITION. OUTLINES.

The delegates to the Democratic National Convention from Arkansas were not instructed.

Business failures for the past year have been throughout the country number 171.

The Independents at New Haven were organized for effective work.

Edward Atkinson, the eminent economist so well known as a writer on manufacturing, &c., is a Republican and repudiates Blaine.

South Carolina is for Cleveland. Parties hands in your pockets and don't count one hundred before you make up your mind.

Mr. Ker, in his testimony before the Springer committee, said that he knew of the truth of his charge against W. W. Ker.

The thermometer on the 22d inst., stood at 103 in the shade in Philadelphia. The highest in Wilmington was far in excess, by our office thermometer, which has been tested by the Signal Office instruments.

The Boston Post finds the following and comments: An advertisement in a North Carolina newspaper: Do you want a good milk cow? Call at the Weekly office and Mr. Ker will supply your wants.

A sign posted by Mrs. John K. Polk, which was presented by the ladies of Tennessee, hangs in the Green Room of the White House as a companion piece to the portrait of Mrs. R. A. Hayes.

Zane K. Polk was the eleventh President, and the lady referred to is his honored widow.

The Mexican bill that passed the Senate was worthless and made so by Northern Republican votes. No Mexican veteran who voluntarily went into the Confederate army, or who suffered physical disabilities incurred by the fourteenth amendment, will get a pension under this bill.

The Chamber is the first paper in the South to give out our next Governor.

Yes, and Gen. Scales ought to bring an action for damages for making a bad word out of him such a man and disappointed look. He has a pleasant, frank face. His nature makes him look as if his time was York and it was the day of the election.

There are some "very bad niggers" who quote the Boston Post, at Springfield, Mass. A number of them shot and dangerously wounded Leslie H. Brown, aged 18, white. After this they set fire to James Dawling's barn, after being foiled in an attempt to break into his dwelling, causing a loss of $2,000. Other negroes were shown during the fire.

There is a pension bill before the Congress known as the Callum bill. It becomes a law it will take at least a million additional from the Treasury every year. It gives a pension to every Union veteran who served three months in the war, who was honorably discharged, who is or shall become "disabled from any cause not the result of his own gross carelessness, indisputable conduct, or vicious habits," and who is dependent on "his own labor" for support.

Judge Bennett has "the ear" of the House. He amazed the members very much by his speech on Tuesday against the seating of Chairman.

He spoke for an hour and a half. The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Times, Ind. Rep., says the speech "was characteristic." But let us quote:

"Judge Bennett created astonishment as good as being in the House as he did in the earlier part of the session, when he made his name

THE MORNING STAR

VOL. XXXIV.—NO. 84. WILMINGTON, N. C., SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1884. WHOLE NO. 5249

den speech. His mannerism and style were the height of refinement. He made side remarks to members near him or legal reports addressed to the other side of the hall he held the attention of the House where everybody else failed.

The anti-Blaine Republicans of Massachusetts, are organizing for the campaign. There will be active work. In New York city the opposition to Blaine is spreading.

A duel is on foot between two students in the University of Virginia. A dispatch from Charlottesville, Va., says:

"Swearing struck Underwood with a cane in Keller's drug store this morning. Underwood challenged him, and the challenge was accepted. The Proctor of the University swore out warrants, and officers attempted to arrest the parties. So far they have eluded arrest. The two seconds have been arrested."

Behold, what the bad example of older men produces. Make duelling disgraceful and gentlemen will abandon it.

Another attempt to censure Mr. Gladstone is to be made by the Tories. The words of the censure read:

"That the agreement between England and France would not establish good government and tranquillity in Egypt, and that England in assuming a loan to Egypt or in guaranteeing the Egyptian debt."

Mr. Arnold, Liberal, will offer the following amendment:

"That Parliament withhold the expression of an opinion regarding the negotiations with France until it knows what proposals on Egyptian finance are to be submitted to the conference."

The Portsmouth Enterprise says that the trains several years ago ran from Portsmouth to Weldon, 80 miles, in 90 minutes. The fastest time on the W. & W. Railroad is 3 hours and 36 minutes, distance, 162 miles.

Asheboro Courier: Mr. Enoch Brookshire is responsible for the statement that Maj. Noah Rush had to carry his wheat from his Uwharrie bottoms to find room from France, recently arrived. A bag of anything this side of the Rocky mountains.

Raleigh News-Observer: Mr. E. T. Boykin, of Sampson, was seized with sudden and severe illness at the Convention last evening. He was taken into the Mayor's office and carefully attended. His condition soon improved. A telegram from Anson had a fit, but soon became better.

Richmond Rocket: Union county has, we presume, the best poor houses in the State, a handsome brick building recently completed, at a cost of some $5,000.

Two hundred thousand merrily trees, direct from France, were received a few days ago by the French colony recently settled at Keyser, Moore county.

Weldon News: Col. J. J. Bell, of this place, died in Petersburg on the 18th inst., and was buried at his old home near Garysburg on the next day.

These degrees are not deserved, but in this instance no man in the State is more worthy of the honor than Rev. Dr. Burton.

Rev. Dr. Deems says of Rev. M. H. Moore's "Pioneers of Methodism in North Carolina and Virginia," "I am now prepared to say that I consider the most valuable contribution to the annals of history. Unborn historians will thank you for the pains and skill with which you have gathered precious material which if not secured now would probably be lost forever."

Durham Plant: We learn that the University Normal School is largely attended and that every train brings fresh pupils. We learn that the Person County News has suspended for want of sufficient patronage.

Mr. Deane's Battle who has been advocating the killing of dogs, has not been un-rewarded for his labor. The Southern says: Last week a prolific canine took up her abode under Mr. Battle's house, and a day or two presented him with fourteen pretty puppies. They are all living, and at the time of going to press, both mother and offsprings are doing well. Mr. Battle is happy.

Clinton Caucasian: The crops in this section are looking remarkably fine. The railroad meeting last Friday night was well attended. It grew out of a proposition made in the meeting of the telegraph company by certain parties to the effect that if Clinton would subscribe ten thousand dollars in stock a railroad would be constructed from Clinton to this point.

Warrenton: A committee was appointed to confer with the promoters of the scheme—understood to be the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad authorities, and to take measures to secure its success.

Charlotte Observer: The amount of bridge building now going up on the Shelby Division of the Carolina Central Railroad is surprisingly large. About eight trains are at work at points between Charlotte and Shelby, and the spans are going up rapidly. A drummer just in from a trip down the Ais-Lane, reports that at Martin Station, day before yesterday, Jim Burgess, a colored man, was murdered with an axe in the hands of his daughter, his wife holding him while the deadly blow was being dealt. Burgess had undertaken to whip his daughter for some offense, but his wife interfered, and throwing her arms around him, held him securely, while the girl broke from his grasp and ran into the yard. She returned while her mother was still holding Burgess, and stepping up behind him, dealt him a terrible blow on the back of his head with an axe. The blow laid his skull open from neck to forehead and his death was instantaneous. The inhuman daughter and her inhuman mother have been put under arrest.

On Mr. Underwood's farm, at River Bend, in Gaston county, there are two colored tenants, Mills Lucky and his wife Mary. At 3 o'clock last Saturday morning Mary was found on the floor of her house speechless. There was a great pool of blood around her head and an examination showed that the back of her head was lacerated by a gun shot wound. At first it was supposed that she had shot herself, but when the nature of her injuries became known this idea was exploded, and suspicion pointed to her husband as the perpetrator of the bloody deed. Her head was filled with large shot that were fired from a gun in the hands of some person standing a considerable distance to the rear of her. The woman was conscious when found, but could not speak, and has remained so ever since.

Goldboro Messenger: Mr. R. B. Bassett sold his tract of land, about one mile from this city, 58 acres, to Mr. Rufus Ham for $6,000. Mr. John Barefoot, a worthy young man, lives in Meadow township, Johnston county, last week. The "dreams of the fathers" are realized. Last week two car loads of corn were received and went down over the Atlantic & N. C. R. R. via the way through the Louisville, Ky., without change of cars, via Warm Springs and the North Carolina Road.

We are pained to hear of the sudden death of Mr. John L. Carlton, who resided about four miles from Warsaw. Mrs. W. H. Freeman, recently at home for many years a resident of this city, whose health and circumstances in late years were such that she had to seek a home in the hospital of the "Sisters of Charity" in Philadelphia, died under their care in that city last Sunday morning. One can hardly realize the vast amount of fruit trees sold annually to North Carolina farmers by North Carolina nurserymen.

We heard it upon good authority that one nursery of $20,000 last year. The local directors of the State Fruit Fair, to be held in this city the 30th and 31st of July, met on Monday. The large and spacious cotton seed warehouse of the Goldsboro Oil Mills was kindly tendered the Association, and it was determined that the Fair be held there. The building will be fitted up with the necessary tables and every effort is being made to make the Fair a grand success.

Mr. Oliver, of Rev. Dr. Pritchard, of Wilmington, N. C., preached two most excellent sermons in the Baptist church last Sunday. Our young friend, W. B. Liver, was also ordained to the ministry that day. Rev. Dr. Pritchard, Rev. W. M. Kennedy and Rev. R. C. Sandling officiating. The crops in this section are very good. Farmers all seem to be in good spirits over the prospect of a fine crop.

We are disappointed in their expectations. Our citizens have gone right to work concerning the Mt. Olive College building. They mean business. They say they can put up a very good building for $2,000 or $2,500.

The Portsmouth Enterprise says that the trains several years ago ran from Portsmouth to Weldon, 80 miles, in 90 minutes. The fastest time on the W. & W. Railroad is 3 hours and 36 minutes, distance, 162 miles.

Asheboro Courier: Mr. Enoch Brookshire is responsible for the statement that Maj. Noah Rush had to carry his wheat from his Uwharrie bottoms to find room from France, recently arrived. A bag of anything this side of the Rocky mountains.

Raleigh News-Observer: Mr. E. T. Boykin, of Sampson, was seized with sudden and severe illness at the Convention last evening. He was taken into the Mayor's office and carefully attended. His condition soon improved. A telegram from Anson had a fit, but soon became better.

Richmond Rocket: Union county has, we presume, the best poor houses in the State, a handsome brick building recently completed, at a cost of some $5,000.

Two hundred thousand merrily trees, direct from France, were received a few days ago by the French colony recently settled at Keyser, Moore county.

Weldon News: Col. J. J. Bell, of this place, died in Petersburg on the 18th inst., and was buried at his old home near Garysburg on the next day.

These degrees are not deserved, but in this instance no man in the State is more worthy of the honor than Rev. Dr. Burton.

Rev. Dr. Deems says of Rev. M. H. Moore's "Pioneers of Methodism in North Carolina and Virginia," "I am now prepared to say that I consider the most valuable contribution to the annals of history. Unborn historians will thank you for the pains and skill with which you have gathered precious material which if not secured now would probably be lost forever."

Durham Plant: We learn that the University Normal School is largely attended and that every train brings fresh pupils. We learn that the Person County News has suspended for want of sufficient patronage.

Mr. Deane's Battle who has been advocating the killing of dogs, has not been un-rewarded for his labor. The Southern says: Last week a prolific canine took up her abode under Mr. Battle's house, and a day or two presented him with fourteen pretty puppies. They are all living, and at the time of going to press, both mother and offsprings are doing well. Mr. Battle is happy.

Clinton Caucasian: The crops in this section are looking remarkably fine. The railroad meeting last Friday night was well attended. It grew out of a proposition made in the meeting of the telegraph company by certain parties to the effect that if Clinton would subscribe ten thousand dollars in stock a railroad would be constructed from Clinton to this point.

Warrenton: A committee was appointed to confer with the promoters of the scheme—understood to be the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad authorities, and to take measures to secure its success.

Charlotte Observer: The amount of bridge building now going up on the Shelby Division of the Carolina Central Railroad is surprisingly large. About eight

Not a single case for the Mayor's Court yesterday morning.

Preparations are in progress for a big time at Wrightsville on the 4th of July.

Our next Lieutenant Governor received many and hearty congratulations from his numerous friends yesterday.

Dr. McNatt, of Shoe Heel, Robeson county, who was in the city yesterday, reports the crops as looking fine.

The delegates have all returned from Raleigh, except Maj. Dunham, who had not arrived when these lines were penciled.

Some of our Wilmington friends who were down at the rocks during the storm of Thursday night say it was very heavy there as well as here.

The tax listers from the various outside townships will be at the commissioners' room, at the court house, to-day, for the purpose of receiving taxes.

Another cool wave struck us yesterday morning, after the heavy rain of the night previous, and thick coats were once again called into requisition.

The Norwegian barque Allegra, Capt. Johnsen, was cleared from this port for London, by Messrs. Paterson, Downing & Co., with 1,319 casks of spirits turpentine, valued at $18,099.

Preparations are being made by stucco St. Mark's (colored) Episcopal church, corner of Sixth and Mulberry streets. It will improve the appearance of the building very much.

The handsome silver trumpet won at New Berne by the W. S. F. E. Co. No. 1, during their recent visit to that classic burg, is attracting no little attention. It is on exhibition at Honnet's.

A gentleman counted eleven car loads of vegetables and three of water-melons at the depot yesterday morning. They were from Georgia and Florida and bound north. Car loads are passing through here every day.

The Charleston News and Courier, of Thursday, reports the murder of Mr. John L. Shipman, at Bonneau's Station, on the N. E. R. R., by a negro named John Scott, formerly from Wilmington. Scott made his escape, and is supposed to have taken a train for this place.

That Lightning Pole. It was a mistake that a telegraph pole was demolished by lightning on Princess, between Front and Second streets, during the storm of Thursday night. Master Eddie Scarborough, who was passing near at the time, and was considerably shocked by the concussion, thought the pole had been stricken, but it was found yesterday morning that the electric fluid had instead come in contact with the top of the old building on the northeast corner of Princess and Second streets, and scattered bricks over the sidewalk on the Second street side, pretty promiscuously.

Personal. Mr. B. G. Worth has gone to New York to be at the bedside of Mrs. G. R. French, Jr., his oldest daughter, who at last accounts was reported to be dangerously sick. It is to be hoped that ere this a change for the better has taken place.

Mrs. E. Latimer, Mr. Wm. Latimer, Col. and Mrs. E. S. Latimer, Mr. H. R. Latimer, Mrs. A. M. Waddell and Miss Waddell sailed from New York for Liverpool on Wednesday last, on the steamer Oregon.

Brunswick Items. A correspondent at New Supply, Brunswick county, writes that Mrs. Mary Ann Galloway, the oldest lady in that community, died very suddenly on the 8th inst. She was 92 years of age. Her husband, Cornelius Galloway, died about twelve years ago at an advanced age also.

The crops in that section are very promising just now. Politics are not running very high yet.

Unmailable Matter. The following unmailable matter remains in the Postoffice in this city: Annie L. Hendricks, corner Muir and Second streets, care of Johnnie Smith; white government stamped envelope, no address.

RIVER AND MARINE. The steamer Ware has not been placed on the ways for repairs yet, but will be shortly.

The steamer Passport is undergoing some necessary repairs and will not be ready to resume her place on the river until Monday or Tuesday.

The pilot boat Uriah Timmons, Capt. C. C. Morse, is here and receiving a new coat of paint at the wharf near Messrs. P. Cumming & Co.'s mill.

A DOWN TOWN MERCHANT, having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widdow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and administering his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Widd