ADVERTISING RATES (DAILY).—One square one day, $1.00; two days, $1.75; three days, $2.50; four days, $3.25; one week, $7.00; two weeks, $12.00; three weeks, $16.00; one month, $25.00; two months, $45.00; three months, $65.00; six months, $110.00; twelve months, $200.00. Ten lines of solid Nonpareil type make one square.

Advertisements inserted in Local Column at 10 cents per line. Advertisements inserted in a week in Daily will be charged $1.00 per line for each insertion. Every other day, three fourths of daily rate. Twice a week, two thirds of daily rate.

Advertisements for Marriage or Death, Tribute of Respect, Resolutions of Thanks, &c., are charged for as ordinary advertisements, but only half rate when paid for strictly in advance. At this rate 100 words will pay for a simple announcement of Marriage or Death.

Advertisements to follow reading matter, or to occupy any special place, will be charged extra according to the position desired.

Advertisements on which no specified number of insertions is marked will be continued "until told" at the option of the publisher, and charged up to the date of discontinuance.

Advertisements discontinued before the time contracted for has expired, charged transient rates for time not otherwise advertised.

Advertisements kept under the head of "New Advertisements" will be charged fifty per cent. extra.

Amusement, Auction and Official advertisements one dollar per square for each insertion.

All announcements and recommendations of candidates for office, whether in the shape of communications or otherwise, will be charged at advertisement rates.

Payments for transient advertisements must be made in advance. Known parties, or strangers with proper references, may pay monthly or quarterly, according to contract.

Contract advertisers will not be allowed to exceed their space or advertise any thing foreign to their regular business without extra charge as transient rates.

Remittances must be made by Check, Draft, Postal Money Order, Express or Registered Letter. Only such remittances will be at the risk of the advertiser.

Communications, unless they contain important news, or discuss briefly and properly subjects of real interest, are not wanted; and, if acceptable in every other respect, will invariably be rejected if the real name of the author is withheld.

Advertisements should always specify the issue or issues they desire to appear in, and the advertiser's name in the Daily. Where an advertiser contracts for the paper to send to a party, the time the advertisement is in, the proprietor will only be responsible for the mailing of the paper to his address.

EVENING EDITION.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS—VICTORY

We surrender much of our space to-day to the reproducing of the opinions of Democratic, Independent Democratic, Independent Republican, Independent Republican, Tariff Reform and Protection papers on the nomination of Grover Cleveland, of New York, for President. The great Independent paper of New York, the Herald, not only warmly supports the Democratic ticket, but it has placed the ticket at the head of its editorial columns, a very unusual thing for that paper to do, we think. The leading Republican papers and Independent Republican papers, like the N. Y. Times and Philadelphia Times, are especially warm in behalf of the ticket. We copy from two leading Republican papers of Philadelphia that speak very cordial words for Cleveland. We shall give from day to day other opinions as our exchanges come in. The general voice of all of the papers that we have examined up to this present writing, with the exception of organs like the Philadelphia Press and Baltimore American, and such bilious sheets as the New York Sun and Star, is favorable to the ticket. Gov. Cleveland is especially commended for his high sense of duty, his willingness to do what is right, his purity and integrity of character. Some do not think him the strongest candidate possibly that could have been chosen, but all regard him as possessing excellent qualities for the highest public office and as possessing in an eminent degree the traits of character necessary in a genuine and decided Reformer—firmness, decision, devotion to duty.

We are gratified to read these testimonials. We rejoice that the selection of the candidate for the first place excites so much hearty commendation and sympathy among that class of journals that can do so much to secure the triumph of our ticket.

At the time we make up our press comments the nomination of ex-Gov. Hendricks has not been commented upon so generally. There can be no doubt of the great acceptableness of his nomination to all Democrats, especially to all who voted for Tilden and Hendricks in 1876, and who remember the great fraud. The Republican papers endorsing Cleveland are not so enamored of Hendricks. They cannot get over the fact that their party was guilty of a stupendous theft and they will never forgive him for it. It is a curious trait in fallen humanity that it never forgives the man it wrongs. Your worst enemy will be the man who has injured you. He is sure to bear eternal malice because at some time he wronged you.

Hendricks will give very decided help to the ticket, not only in Indiana, but in other Western States, and he will cause the Democrats in the South to rally with more zeal and heartiness to the ticket. There is not an ugly spot on Hendricks's character. He went uncaptured through the most heated campaign since the war, that of 1876, and no stain was found to rest upon his good name. No public man has a better political record—one less obnoxious to criticism. Of course liars and defamers can lie upon and defame the best and holiest men. But we have no reference to the jackals of party.

The ticket will draw to it the entire Democracy of the country except, it may be, that element that regards John Kelly as the Mohammed of politics and it will no doubt be supported by tens of thousands of Reform Republicans, not only in New York and New England and New Jersey, but throughout the Union. In all the States there are high-toned, honorable Republicans who will prefer honest men to bad men, and who will support Cleveland and Hendricks. The campaign will be a very exciting one. Blaine will stir up all of the worst elements in his party, and he will have the negroes greatly aroused before November. But the Democrats, as the elections of 1882 clearly showed, are largely in the ascendant in the country, and the best men in the Republican party in a half-dozen States will help, and, therefore, a strong, live, vigorous, pertinacious campaign will be conducted by them. We believe that with an united and earnest and continuous effort we can carry the country and place honest, just and reliable men once more in power. So be it. A suffering country demands it.

NOW FOR VICTORY.

North Carolina has a splendid State ticket. It never had a better ticket. We do not believe it has ever had as good a one. The Democrats have given us a Presidential ticket that every honest man in the land might be proud to support, for whatever else men may say or think of the ticket they are simply compelled to admit that Cleveland and Hendricks are men of high integrity. With these two tickets why may not North Carolina elect them by full 25,000 majority. Tilden and Hendricks carried the State by more than 17,000 majority in 1876. The population of the State has increased more than two hundred thousand since then. There are more reasons after the eight years of plunder and rascality for a change of Federal rulers in 1884 than there were in 1876. We have good reason for saying that at least 40,000 men who prefer the Democratic to the Republican party do not vote. Let us organize for victory and let us sweep the State by from 25,000 to 30,000 majority. Organization can do that. Now for victory.

"HONEST AND CAPABLE."

Gen. Rosecrans says that "Cleveland was not the choice of the people." This may be true, and yet the people will willingly acquiesce when they learn all about the Convention, the reasons that determined the selection of the New Yorker, and the high character of the man chosen. The old Democratic rule before the war was this, "Is he honest? Is he capable?" We assure our readers that after scrutinizing the short public life of Gov. Cleveland for weeks, as it has been discussed in the leading papers of the North of various types and grades in opinion, we are fully persuaded that that honesty of Grover Cleveland is above all suspicion. He has so borne himself in his high office as to win the good opinion of the best men in his State in the opposition. He has stood a fiery test most admirably and what ever weakness as a candidate he may possess at home grows out of his fidelity to duty, his independence and firmness of character, and his disregard of the clamor and advice of a certain clique in his party. His honesty and conscientiousness made him unacceptable to the Kelly wing in Tammany. He has honesty and he deserves the confidence of all men who esteem that quality in a Governor or a President.

As to "capacity," the other old Democratic test, it is not doubted that he has ability enough to discharge with zeal, fidelity and acceptableness the high duties of the great office. He has shown good administrative abilities as the Governor of a State numbering nearly four times the population of North Carolina. He is a man of solid understanding—a practical, working, intelligent official. He has no doubt as much ability as many of the Presidents had. He has probably as much real ability, if less experience, as James Monroe or Millard Fillmore had. He is surely equal in ability to Andrew Jackson, U. S. Grant, R. B. Hayes and Chester Arthur. He is an abler man than Harrison or Taylor. In fact, he will compare in ability with a majority of the men who have been President of the United States. He will no doubt select a strong Cabinet to advise him. He will put one of the ablest Democrats at the head of the Secretary of State, and he will be sure to have none but honest, sober, trustworthy, able men around him. His Cabinet will in morale, in ability, in integrity, in fidelity be in striking contrast to the creatures Grant drew about him, and some of those that Hayes, Garfield and Arthur took to their bosoms. So we conclude that Grover Cleveland can well bear the two ancient Democratic tests—honest and capable.

In 1876 the platform throughout was Reform. That was the watchword. By reading the platform of that year you will see that Reform permeated the entire document. Tilden and Hendricks stood upon it, and were elected by a quarter of a million of the popular vote. In 1884, the key-note to the long platform is Reform. That is the rallying principle. That is the foundation principle. That is the capstone. Reform runs all through it. Cleveland and a part of the "old ticket," Hendricks, stand upon it. Let us give them one million popular majority. What say you?

THE CANDIDATES.

THE VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Philadelphia North American, Rep. It remains to be said that the Democrats have nominated their best and most available man. Whatever the outcome may be, the party has no cause to be ashamed of its candidate. Though not the greatest among Democratic public men, Gov. Cleveland must be regarded the strongest candidate that could have been selected. He has no ugly record to deter the masses from his support. His public services have been neither extensive nor brilliant, but he has so fairly administered the trusts reposed in his keeping as to disarm severely hostile criticism. Of course he has been criticised, and has not particularly strengthened his party in New York. But on looking over the field, we fail to discover any other prominent Democrat who has so clean a record, or so few jealousies and prejudices to encounter and overcome.

Norfolk Landmark, Dem.

Grover Cleveland has elements of strength possessed by none of his distinguished competitors before the Nominating Convention, and we regard his nomination as the strongest that, in the united wisdom of that great assemblage, could have been made at this juncture of affairs. He will unite the entire Democratic vote; he is popular with the independent mind of the country, and men not Democrats by party affiliations will support him; the business classes have faith in his honesty, and believe that his administration will be one of wise economy, and as the canvass progresses and the masses of the people learn to know him, they will find in him a man who embodies all the characteristics of a safe and popular leader.

New York Sun, Ind. Dem.

Meanwhile the course for those who cannot be zealous for a candidate like Cleveland, yet do not want Blaine for President, is something to be determined by the judgment and conscience of the citizen. It is true this is not a consideration that leads to much enthusiasm, and no one can be very efficacious in an election where he is actuated by a conscientious sense of duty alone. But it will influence the votes of many, no doubt, while there will be others who will reason that Mr. Cleveland has himself set the example of entire independence of his party; and besides, this is a great year for bolting. What prophet can now foretell what will happen?

Richmond State, Dem.

The nomination of Grover Cleveland will be greeted with enthusiasm throughout the country. No man was ever placed on a platform with fuller promises of ardent and earnest support. The opposing candidate of such a man as James G. Blaine will consolidate the Democratic forces throughout the country, and the reform Governor of New York will command the immense Independent Republican vote of his State together with the thousands of Independent Republicans everywhere.

Augusta Chronicle, Dem.

The Convention has spoken. Grover Cleveland, now Governor of the Empire State of the North, has been nominated for the Presidency in opposition to James G. Blaine. In the presence of the party nominee all factions should be silent. We are all Cleveland men and good true Democrats. Some preferred one man, some another. The united wisdom of the party has chosen the champion and he is our choice.

Norfolk Virginian, Dem.

The National Democracy on yesterday, in Convention at Chicago, by nominating Stephen Grover Cleveland for President, and Thomas Andrew Hendricks for Vice President, did glorious work for the success of the great party, and the redemption of the country from the despoilers who have so long controlled it. It is a splendid domination that will secure victory.

Chicago News & Courier, Dem.

It was a good day's work that was done at Chicago yesterday. The vast council which represents just now not only the views and interests of a great political party, but as well the hopes and aspirations of all who desire that our government, shall be in the hands of honest and able men, has been equal to its high duty. Grover Cleveland for President! The name is platform enough for any honest party—a pledge adequate to the requirements of every honest voter. It means reform—reform in administration, reform in taxation. It means justice—justice to friends and to foes alike. It means honesty.

N. Y. Journal of Commerce, Ind.

The announcement that Governor Cleveland had been nominated at the close of the second ballot, took a great many by surprise, as they had looked for a longer struggle. If the intelligence did not create any great enthusiasm, it certainly gave very great satisfaction to the better class of the Democrats, and also to that large body of independent Republicans who have repudiated Senator Blaine, and were faithful that the other side would present some candidate whose success they could not regard with any degree of complacency. It is no part of our purpose to predict the result of the election, Mr. Blaine is able, his friends are earnest, and the following who are faithful to his fortunes includes some of the best political organizers and managers in the country. The campaign will be aggressive and will be supported by full coffers.

Petersburg Index-Appeal, Dem.

The Chicago convention presents to the country a platform and a presidential ticket which challenges and ought to command the hearty support of all men who favor honest government by honest and incorruptible officials. The name of Cleveland stands for the best and purest in the political thought and actions of the times, and will be antagonized only by the worst elements of ring.

New York Herald, Ind.

We congratulate the Democratic party upon the work of its Convention at Chicago and the opportunity it offers to the American people, through a Union of patriotic voters, by whatever name they call themselves—Democrats, Independents, labor reformers or whatsoever else—to redeem the country from the disgrace and peril to which the Republican party has plotted to expose it by the thoroughly bad nomination of Blaine and Logan. Cleveland's easy nomination on the second ballot yesterday justifies all that we have thought and said of the sound judgment and good sense of this Convention.

N. Y. Times, Rep.

With Grover Cleveland as its candidate the Democratic party appeals with unmistakable directness to the moral sense of the people of the United States. Shall the next President be a man who has weakly yielded to temptation, or a man who has unwaveringly adhered to the right against powerful enticements to do wrong? A man who begs pecuniary rewards of those his official action has enriched, or one who defies corrupt dictation and seeks only by just courses to deserve the approval of right-thinking men? A candidate attacked, impeached, tainted, and besmirched all over, or a candidate beyond reproach? A Grover Cleveland whom honest men respect, or a James G. Blaine whom rogues love?

Baltimore Sun, Dem.

Gov. Cleveland's known sympathy with the cause of civil service reform and his active exertions in its behalf in New York, have, in addition to other points in his favor, led the Independents of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and other progressive States to pronounce him the man best suited to fill the role of President. Being identified with the general issue of reform he is not subject to the disadvantage to which a candidate representing a narrower issue would be exposed. Aside from the Butler contingent and Tammany Hall, the extent and importance of whose opposition are evidently exaggerated, Gov. Cleveland will undoubtedly command the united support of his party, and no inconsiderable number of votes from the independent element of the Republicans.

Philadelphia Times, Ind. Rep.

Cleveland will lose many Democratic votes for the single offense of typifying practical, honest administration. The blatant demagogues who hang on the edges of every hopeful party by turns will decry him and the leoprous jobbers of all parties will make common and exhaustive battle against him. But more than one hundred thousand men of sincere Republican faith in the debatable States will openly espouse his cause and press the result to successful revolution. New York will be desperately contested, but the more desperately it shall be fought the more signal will be the Cleveland victory.

Philadelphia Record, Ind. Dem.

Grover Cleveland is not a great man, and fortunately there is nothing in the condition of the country that demands the appearance of the great man on the political stage. It may be admitted that the outstart that he has none of the brilliancy and versatility of his competitor. But his career shows him to be possessed of a clear understanding, of great decision of character, of cool judgment, of high courage, and a strong sense of public duty. These are qualities that in the wear and tear of life often compensate for the want of more shining attributes. The nomination of Hendricks for the Vice Presidency will strengthen the ticket. He will be more popular in Indiana than would any other man who could have been named, and the fifteen electoral votes of that State may now safely be set down in the Democratic column.

Washington Post, Dem.

It is enough to say of Gov. Cleveland's nomination that it was the best that could have been made. It is idle to seek for the reasons of this preference on the part of Independents, dissatisfied Republicans or business men. It is the duty merely of sagacious party men to recognize and act upon it. We have no doubt that Mr. Cleveland can be elected; neither have we any doubt that Mr. Cleveland will be elected.

Phil. Ledger, Rep.

The delegates thus made a wise determination for their party, and a good one for the country, if their candidate should be elected. Governor Cleveland has shown through the whole of his life, private and public, from boyhood to his present position, that he has the sterling qualities befitting the exalted office of Chief Executive of the United States. It is the highest function of this office to administer the laws with an eye single to the public welfare. Our Government has been fairly described as "of the people, by the people, and for the people." No eminent public man has exhibited a better understanding of that definition of the American Government than Grover Cleveland; none has exemplified it better, than he has in his performance of public duty, and but few, very few indeed, have exemplified it so well. His guiding characteristics have been loyalty to duty, courage in the discharge of it, and the best and most faithful performance of it within his power. These are strong words; strong because they are true.

Norfolk Ledger, Dem.

This is a triumph of the true Democracy over Kelly, Butler and all other factionists, and renders the success of the Democratic party an assured fact. Now, brother Democrats, off with your coats, roll up your sleeves, and let us have an old-fashioned canvass and a glorious victory.

GOV. CLEVELAND'S MANLY SPEECH LAST NIGHT.

ALBANY, July 11.—This evening at 9 o'clock a serenade was given to the Governor at the executive mansion by the Young Men's Democratic Club, who were joined by their invited guests, the Jacksonians. The number of citizens who congregated in and about the executive mansion was several thousand. The Tenth Regiment band played several selections, after which the Governor appeared at the main portico. He was received with much enthusiasm. He spoke as follows:

FELLOW CITIZENS:—I cannot be gratified with this kindly greeting. I find that I am fast reaching the point where I shall count the people of Albany not merely as fellow citizens, but as townsmen and neighbors. On this occasion I am, of course, aware that you pay me no compliment to a citizen and present no personal tribute, but that you have come to demonstrate your loyalty and devotion to a cause in which you are heartily enlisted. The American people are about to exercise in its highest sense their power and right of sovereignty. They are to call in review before them their public servants and the representation of political parties, and demand of them an account of their stewardship. Parties may be so long in power, and may become so arrogant and careless of the interest of the people, as to grow heedless of their responsibility to their masters. But the time comes as certainly as death when the people weigh them in the balance. The issues to be adjudicated by the nation's great asize are made up, and are about to be submitted. We believe that the people are not receiving at the hands of the party which for nearly twenty-four years has directed the affairs of the nation the full benefits to which they are entitled—pure, just and economical rule—and we believe that the ascendancy of genuine Democratic principles will insure a better government and greater happiness and prosperity to all the people. To reach the sober thought of the nation and to dislodge an enemy entrenched behind spoils patronage involves a struggle which, if we underestimate, we invite defeat. I am profoundly impressed with the responsibility of the part assigned to me in the contest. My heart, I know, is in the cause, and I pledge you that no effort of mine shall be wanting to secure the victory which I believe to be within the achievement of the Democratic hosts. Let us, then, enter upon the campaign now fairly opened, each one appreciating well the part he has to perform, ready with solid front to do battle for government, confidently, courageously, always honorably, and with a firm reliance upon the intelligence and patriotism of the American people.

THE LATEST NEWS.

FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD

FOREIGN.

Riots in Ireland Between Orangemen and Catholics—The London Times on the Party Platforms in the United States—The Cholera at Marseilles and London.

By Cable to the Morning Star. BIRMINGHAM, July 13.—During an Orange demonstration yesterday, near Carick Hill, an Orangeman shot a Catholic. The police arrested the Orangeman, but he was rescued by his friends. Fighting ensued, and at last accounts, although the mayor had interposed, the fighting still continued.

WHITBY, July 13.—An Orange procession was returning yesterday to Chesterton, near here, when it was attacked by Nationalists. Serious fighting at once took place, during which a telegraph boy was killed, and several persons injured. Revolvers and arrows were used, stones thrown, windows smashed. The police, armed with swords, finally dispersed the rioters.

LONDON, July 14.—A meeting of Congress will be held to-day to confer on Lord Wemyss motion for the House of Lords to consider and pass the franchise bill. The motion will be pressed.

The Times of this morning, in an article upon the Republican and Democratic nominees for the Presidency, says: "The platform proffered by the Republican and Democratic Conventions are both equally unworthy of respect. They are distinguished by the absence of clear convictions, by evasions and trimmings; by servile flattery in flattering the masses and in pandering to popular prejudices, thus encouraging some of the most pernicious doctrines of modern demagogues and social quacks."

MARSEILLES, July 14, Noon.—There were 32 deaths from cholera here last night, and four since 9 o'clock this morning.

TOULON, July 14.—The number of deaths in this city from cholera, last night was 11. The heat is intense. The cholera patients who were in the city and hospital have been removed to the suburbs.

EX-SENATOR THURMAN.

His Arrival at Home from Chicago—Grand and Enthusiastic Reception. (By Telegram to the Morning Star.)

COLUMBUS, July 13.—No demonstrations over the Democratic nominations at Chicago were made here until Judge Thurman arrived home last night, when he was met at the depot by several thousand persons, with a band and a liberal display of banners. There was at the same time a grand display of fireworks all over the city. Carriages were in waiting for himself and party decorated with flags. Behind them the people fell in line with what torches could be gathered, and the most of the torch-bearing red handkerchiefs. The line of march was a scene of continuous roar, enthusiastic demonstrations and brilliant displays of fireworks. Upon the arrival of the procession at ex-Senator Thurman's residence he made an eloquent speech.

TENNESSEE.

Destructive Fire in Chattanooga—Loss $50,000. (By Telegram to the Morning Star.)

CHATTANOOGA, July 13.—There was an extensive fire on Market street, between 8th and 9th streets last night, the Tower Block being entirely destroyed. The flames started in a laundry next to the building occupied by the Western Union office, to which the flames communicated, destroying all its contents except the battery room. The loss will probably reach $50,000; insurance unknown. The principal losers are W. R. Hydock, T. L. Tull, S. C. Shelden & Howard, Henry Strutz, W. U. Telegraph Co., and Mrs. Weaver.

PHILADELPHIA.

Movement for Representation at New Orleans Industrial Exhibition. (By Telegram to the Morning Star.)

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—Mayor Smith issued a call this morning for a public meeting, to be held in his office on Monday afternoon, for the purpose of making arrangements for a proper representation of our industrial interests at the exhibition to be held in New Orleans next December.

FINANCIAL.

New York Stock Market—Strong and Higher. (By Telegram to the Morning Star.)

New York, Wall Street, July 14, 11 A. M.—Stocks opened irregular, and soon became strong under the leadership of Pacific Mail, which rose 1 1/2 to 4 1/2. Later on the market weakened, and there was a decline of 1 to 1 1/2 per cent.; but before midday a firmer tone prevailed.
