CANNOT "THRILL THE WORLD." The New York Tribune, the lowest down Republican paper in the North, that twelve years ago was extremely liberal and supported Horace Greeley, the Democratic nominee, and that under Whitelaw Reid has been a disgrace to journalism, can find no greater cause of complaint against Gov. Cleveland than that his messages "have not thrilled the world." No, but they made him the nominee of a party that has the majority and that will elect him President in November. Wise, judicious, calm, dignified State papers about local matters are not intended "to thrill the world," but to secure good government and reform in the various departments. The "Plumed Knight," with his intellectual vagaries, his potent "magnetism," his "aggressive" ideas about foreign governments, his methods of advancing private ends through the channels of diplomatic chicanery is the man "to thrill the world," break up friendly relations, precipitate conflicts, destroy commercial enterprises and activities and send dismay and sorrow and bereavements into tens of thousands of families.

Gov. Cleveland is not of that order of men. His is a well poised intellect that weighs all results and calmly surveys the entire field before acting. The ends he seeks are justice and purity and efficiency in the publie service. He aims to do right, and in the exercise of his office he looks not to his own personal ends, but to the advancement of virtue and economy and the welfare of the State. He is not the man to astonish the natives by intellectual fire-works or to set the nations by the ears by his unwise and hot-tempered manifestoes or plans. Mr. Blame is the man for that sort of work. He can "thrill the world" by a few dashes of his pen, and if a curse is to befal the country in his election he will be able to give the United States full employment in out the best and easiest they can.

No, no, the United States have no need at this time of any of the "thrilling" class of machine politicians. They have had more than enough of that sort of tricksters and shams. Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Arthur are as much as any country can stand in the same century. The country needs Cleveland and not Blaine. The issue is Reform. The man needed is a Reformer. Cleveland is the man. In hoc signo vinces.

HURRIED SKETCH OF SKETCHES. Judge Reade's theme at Asheville before the Bar Association of Western North Carolina, was "The Lepal Profession of North Carolina-What it is and What it Ought to Be." The Citizen compliments it for its humor, good sense and pleasant reminiscences. There was no eloquence and no display of learning.

"Many references were made to the luminaries of the bar of past generations, not so much in the form of anecdote as in incidental illustrations of characteristics which led to the illustrious fame of the gentlemen brought into review. It was a clorious galaxy of great names that Judge Reade pointed out in the legal firmament to the admiration and emulation of the young men of the fraternity. * * Such names as Badger and Mangum, Battle and Nash, Graham and Haywood recall not only an era remarkable for its professional lories, but also note the eternal existence of a series of fixed and guiding stars to which all after generations of the legal profession may look for example and for

In this connection we may mention that the admirable series of sketches of eminent lawyers that appeared in the Raleigh News-Observer from the pen of Hugh F. Murray, Esq., of Wilson, has ended. The last of the series was upon Col. D. M. Carter. We have been trying for two weeks to call special attention to this particular sketch. We hope to supplement what has been so finely said by the gifted Murray by some recollections of our own. Col. Carter was the classmate and personal friend of the writer and we desire to intertwine one leaf of our own in the garland so skilfully fashioned by the deft fingers of Mr. Murray. The lawyers of North Carolina will not be neglected. We hope Mr. Murray will undertake, at the suggestion we made some months since, the task of preparing sketches of the emment North Carolinians of the past. Davie, Judge Iredell, Caswell, Wiley Jones, Gen. Tom Person, John Ashe, Cornelius Harnett and some others of the Revolutionary period ought to be sketched. Then, coming down later, such noble representative men as Chief Justice Henderson, Judge John Haywood, Chief Justice Taylor, Archibald Henderson, Marphey, Gaston, C. J Ruffin, Badger, Bragg, Batt Moore Graham, Miller, Kerr, Venable, Saunders and others might each be treated with more or less elaboration as the material justified. Mr. Murray can do this work well. It would require much research, it may be, and certainly no little labor and time. It would make a very enjoyable vol-

Rev. M. A. Moore has recently published an excellent volume of sketches of the "Pioneer Methodist Preachers" in North Carolina. He ought to supplement his work with another volume that shall embrace preachers of a later time. He is doing this, we believe. In still another work he might not restrict himself to his own Church. Such preachers as H. G. Leigh, John Kerr, Thomas G. Lowe, Josiah Crudup, Bishops Ravenscroft, Ives and Atkinson, Dr. J. B. Buxton, Dr. N. H. Harding, Dr. Elisha Mitchell, Dr. Caldwell, Dr. James Phillips and many others deserve being faithfully sketched.

Then there is a volume of sketches of the military and naval men of the getting into scrapes and in getting State that ought to be written. Johnston Blakeley, Howe, Nash, The country needs purity in the Davidson, Davie, Sumner, and others sketches. The names of Pender,

Then there is still another volume that might be written. There ought to be a series of sketches of the forgreat men, and some times out of smirched records, of damaged moral very small and imperfect material, characters, of corrupt methods, of and it ought not to neglect its most machine bias. The country needs a lilustrious and useful members in the wise, cool head, a patriotic heart, a past. The elder Jo Gales, his great steady hand at the helm, and not a son, Jo of the National Intelligencer, Col. W. W. Seaton, his assoiate, Lumsden the founder of the and plans and hopes, and a hand that New Orleans Picayune, and others who went out and made fame, would have to be carefully comidered. Then there are such editors as Thomas Loring, Weston R. Gales, Seaton Gales, H. J. Husted, Edward J. Hale, Thomas J. Lemay and others among the dead who deserve to be sketched. They were prominent and useful men in their day and reflected honor upon the profession. There are many ex-editors living who can be sketched hereafter. Duncan Mc Rae, Holden, Jo Turner, Daniel R. Goodlee, Swaim, and so on.

A pleasant volume might be write ten by some clever pen upon the Men and Women of Letters in our State. In this array would be included Judge Indell, Judge Murphey, Dr. Hawks, Wheeler, Joseph Sewell Jones, Caruthers, C. H. Wiley, Miss Fisher, Theo. H. Hill, J. H. Boner, Mrs. M. B. Clarke, Mrs. C. P. Spencer, Hayward Guion, Gov. Graham, Gov. Swain, Griffith McRee, Gen. Clingman, and many others, some of whom have succeeded in making some very poor books—some very trashy books.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWER. A friend at Enfield writes :

"Can you tell me where I can find o who is the cuthor of the following quotations: "Oh, consistency, thou art a jewel." "Tho the mills of the gods grind slowly they grind exceedingly fine," and "He that tempers the winds to the short

1. The author of the first quotation is unknown. There is a fraudulent stanza purporting to come from Scotch poem published in 1752 that contains it. It runs thus: Tush, tush, my lasse, such thoughts

Comparisons are cruell,
Fine pletures suit in frames as fine,
Consistencie's a jewell."

This, like the poem that h ceived so many, and which contains the well known tone line, "Though lost to sight, to memory dear," was written to order to supply the demand for the authorship. The latter poem ostensibly was published in 1700 by Ruthven Jerhyns and published in the Greenwich Magazine for Mariners. But it is forgery as is the Scotch poem.

2. We have several times given the history of the second quotation in the STAR. The well known lines of Longfeilow read:

"Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceeding small; Though with patience He stands waiting, with exactness grinds he all."

This is a translation from the German of Friedrich Von Logau. It occurs in his poem-"Sinnege-dichte' -Retribution. In George Herbert's learned and quaint collection of odd sayings, entitled Jacula Prudentum, occurs this saying-"God's mill grinds slow but sure." He died in 1632. The original is in the Greek Oracles of not later than the third century, and probably earlier-Oranıla Sibyllina Lib. XIII. 14. Mr. H. Mills, of Thomasville, has a copy of the work. In the Greek it is God, not gods as usually loosely noted. The New York Journal of Commerce says the quotation is also found in another work-Corp. Parem. Grec. Vol. 1, page 444.

3. "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" is the correct quotation." It is in Lawrence Sterne's celebrated "Sentimental 'Journey" in the chapter entitled "Maria." In Herbert's work-Jacula Prudentum

"To a close shorne sheepe, God gives wind by measure."

John Kelly would not allow the four Tammany members of the New York Democratic State Committee to attend. This looks as if he still controlled the helm. John has not yet made his bargain. Puck represents him as selling Tammany to the highest bidder. The Times says:

"He is acting on precisely the principle that was to be expected and that he would have acted on whoever had been nominated for President. The national ticket is nothing to him but a thing to dicker with. He would sell it out if he could gain his end thereby, and he will support it only on condition that he gains his end, which is now and always to get his grasp as firmly as possible on municipal affairs for purposes of plunder."

Having thrown over Kelly at Chicago we hope the Democrats in New York will make no bargains with the treacherous fellow. It will be happy riddance if Kelly and Dana will leave for good.

The Richmond Whig of the 19th

"It is current gossip on the streets of the city of New York, that Cleveland got $1,000,000 from the street car companies for vetoing the Twelve-Hour bill and the Five-Cent Fare bill. Let us have all the acts and figures."

This is a big campaign slander. The respectable and trustworthy Independent Journal of Commerce in New York thus disposes of it: "There is no such atory current here. No found the man with any reputation would dare repeat ranged."

It will be impossible for the most venal press to defeat Cleveland by defamation. His character is too well known-is too pure to be as soiled by slander.

THE LEADER IN THE CHI-NESE REBELLION.

EDITOR MORNING STAR: - Can you or some of your readers give me some light on an item just noticed in Mr. Forbes's Life of Chinese Gordon? It is as follows: "A noteworthy man in his way, this Burgevine, in sketching whose strange life a page may not be thought wasted. A native of North Carolina, his father had been one of Napoleon's officers. He was a scholar and had been a gentleman, who made shipwreck of his life, because ambition unsupported by steadfast purpose, of restlessness and finally drink. Dr. Wilson says of him: 'A much wandering man, he seems to have turned up in California, Australia, the Sandwich Islands, India, where he studied Hindostanee-Jeddah, London and other places, being in fact one of those nautical gentlemen who combine a taste of literature with the power of navigating coasting vessels, and would fate allow, of founding great Empires."-Franklin Square Library Edition p. 14. Is not this "Burgevine" a Burwyne?" Can you with your historical insight divine the mystery Your many readers will be as in terested as much as . CHESTNUT STREET. (The name is correctly given by Mr. Forbes. His father lived at New Berne. He aftewards removed to Washington City. He was a furniture dealer, and he had a sister who married a man by the name of Backus. The man who became so conspicuous afterwards was a boy at than whole sections of the population. At the time of the removal. He got a page's place through Hon. Edward in France where the infection has so far ap-Stanly, then in the House of Representatives. Aftewards he was taken to China by some United States official, remained there, grew up to man's estate, and in due time became the leader in the great Rebellion that was finally stamped out by the genius of Gen. The Reported Case on a Mississippi Steamer-The Child's Disease Summer Complaint—The Family not from Toulon-No Indications What-ever of Asiatic Cholera.

THE CHOLERA SCARE.

St. Louis, July 26.—The steamer Annie P. Silver, referred to in the dispatches from Washington, arrived here Thursday morning, and her captain, A. W. Bryant, was greatly surprised on being informed of the contents of Surgeon General Hamil-ton's dispatches and instructions to the Sergeant of the Marine Hospital here. Captain Bryant states that just before leaving New Orleans, on the 16th inst., a leaving New Orleans, on the 16th inst., a family, consisting of a man, wife and four children, evidently in indigent circumstances, came on board and engaged deck passage to St. Louis. The youngest child, a baby six months old, was quite sick with the ordinary summer complaint, and when the boat was opposite Greenville, Miss., it died. The carpenter of the boat made a fine coffin, in which the remains were deposited, and at the next landing place, Fort Anderson, they were buried in the Fort Anderson, they were buried in the presence of most of the passengers and crew. No one for a moment suspected that the disease was anything but common summer complaint. The circumstance was soon forgotten, and cholera was not thought of. On the arrival of the steamer here the remainder of the family left the boat in good health, but where they went Capt. Bryant does not know. The man had stated, through an interpreter, that he sailed from the latter place to Vera Cruz, where he kept a saloon two months. He then went to New Orleans, and from there he concluded to come to St. Louis. He could not speak French, and Capt. Bryant loes not believe he at any time came from

He claims to be from Charlotte, North Carolina, and de-clares he has never in his life committed a erime, and appears to be very indignant on account of his confinement. Mr. Orr, while in Charlotte, was connected with the house of Messrs. Ludolf Hartsfield, acting in the capacity of clerk and collector. Inquiries as to the probable cause of his arrest elicited the fact that since his departure from Charlotte he has made several drafts on parties in this city, all of which were protested for non-payment, he having no claims on the parties drawn on.

FOR MALARIAL POISONING. USE OF IT IN A CASE OF YELLOW FEVER

DR. WM. T. HOWARD, OF BALTIMORE, Professor of Diseases of Women and Children in the University of Maryland. Dr. Howard attests the common adaptation this water in "a wide range of cases" with that of the far-famed White Sulphur Springs, in Green-brier county, West Virginia, and adds the follow-"Indeed, in a certain class of cases it is much superior to the latter. I allude to the abiding bility attendant upon the tardy convalescence definity attendant upon the tardy conversed to the grave acute diseases; and more especially to the Cachexia and Sequels incident to Malarious Fevers, in all their grades and varieties, to pertain forms of Atonic Dyspepsia, and all the Affections Peculiar to Women that are remediable at all by mineral waters. In short, were I called upon to state from what mineral waters I have seen the great est and most unmistakable amount of good accrue in the largest number of cases in a general way I would unhesitatingly say the Buffalo Springs in Mecklenburg county, Va."

DR. O. F. MANSON, OF RICHMOND, VA., Late Professor of General Pathology and Physical logy in the Medical College of Virginia: "I have observed marked sanative effects from "I have observed marked sanative elects from the Buffalo Water in Malarial Cacheria, Antinic Dyspepsia, some of the Peculiar Affections of Homen, Anomia, Hypochondriasis, Cardiac Palpitations, &c. It has been especially efficacious in Chronic Intermittent Fever, numerous cuese of this character, which had obstinately withstood the usual remedies, having been restored to perfect halth in a brief space of time by a sojourn at the Springs."

DR. JOHN W. WILLIAMSON, JACKSON, TENN. Extracts from Communication on the Therapeuti Action of the Buffalo Lithia Water in the "Virginia Medical Monthly" for February, 1877.

"Their great value in Malarial Diseases and Sequelos has been most abundantly and satisfactorily tested; and I have no question that it would have been a valuable auxiliary in the treatment of the epidemic of Yellow Fever which so terribly afflicted the Mississippi Valley during the past summer. I prescribed it myself, and it gave prompt relief in a case of Suppression of Urine, in Yellow Fever, and decidedly mitigated other divinessing and dangerous summers. The nation recovered, but how far the water may have contri-buted to that result (having prescribed it libut a single case) I, of course, cannot undertake to its administration was attended by the most beach
