contribution, the 12th page, he is few lines from an made to assert that during the first sixty years of the Colonial history the population was chiefly confined to the territory north of Albemark sound, and west of the Chowan river. Of course every intelligent citizen of the State will see that it should be east. Three lines below the senseless statement is made that the settlements between the two sounds were still public, instead of feeble. But the most annoying error ocours on the 22d page, at the end of the second paragraph, in which, after referring to the "whole Colonial history from 1663 to 1776," he is made to add: "I suggest to April, 1775." This was the ingenious work no doubt of that imp of the office who beguiles so many unwary typos to the perpetration of the veriest nonsense. Mr. Goodloe never writes nonsense. There ought to be quotation marks on page 28, at paragraph second, beginning, "The Church, &c."

We noticed in the sketch of men in New Hanover that on page 299 mention is made of Cornelius Harnett and reference given to page 63. You will find nothing of him on that page, as we learn from the N. C. Medical Journal. We have not Brunswick in the sheets sent. By turning to page 46 and under Brunswick county you will find what you are in search of. The book 18, we judge from the specimen pages, badly arranged and with very imperfect information as to many persons treated of. We have seen much more elaboration of facts given as to some of the persons discussed than you will find in this last production of Mr. Wheeler. We can name a dozen pamphlets or editorials that are much more replete with information as to certain men than the book is and still it has merit of a cer-

The Democratic papers have conhis miblic life, his official acts. His own admissions, the evidence of letters, the testimony of Republicans, the criticisms of the Republican oress constitute the basis of the charges and sustain them. The ablest and best Republican and Independent papers in the country are daily examining Blaine's ficial life and with very damaging rusults. Blaine is indeed the "tatpoed man," and tens af thousands of the best men of his party so regard him and will not vote for him. We have given what the New York Tribune said, of Blaine and Logan years ago. It is now susthining them. The papers called Tribunes are unfortunate. There is another able Tribune published in Chicago that is in the same predicament the New York Tribune is. It has told some truths about Blaine in the past, and although it is now supporting Blaine heart and soul there stand the files to show what it has said. Both of these unscrupulous papers are edited by the same men now that edited them when the truth was told about Blaine. Here is one of the Chicago Tribune's editorials:

CONCERNING NORTH CAROLINA AND NORTH CAROLINIANS.

Some one has sent us a broken volume of Mr. John H. Wheeler's posthumous work entitled "Reminiscences and Memoirs of North Carolina and Eminent North Carolinians." We shall not undertake an opinion of the merits of the whole work from the two hundred pages, more or less, that we have at hand. We will say this: Some of the counties are treated very fully, whilst others ' are almost neglected and others are very imperfectly written up. There are many men mentioned who cannot be said to be in any sense "eminent." We noted in the reading of some forty pages many errors. There is some valuable material gathered. Incomparably the best part of the sheets sent us is the excellent discussion of the "Colonial Period," by Daniel R. Goodloe, Esq., and the graceful tribute to the late Bishop Atkinson by our gifted townsman, Col. James G. Burr.

Mr. Goodloc's work is thorough. Like all of his contributions to North Carolina history he shows painstaking, a clear intelligence, a proper conception of historical composition and of the importance of being accurate and lucid. He is an old journalist and a good one, and he writes with perspicacity and vigor. We would like to see him undertake a history of North Carolina in one octavo volume to contain the amount of matter in John Richard Green's most masterly work of genius, the "Short History of the English People." With that extraordinary model Mr. Goodloe would be able to produce a work of rare interest, and if not pictorial and splendid like its prototype, at least full and reliable and written in scholarly English.

Mr. Goodloe's chapter is devoted to a refutation of certain slanders that Prof. John Fiske, of Harvard. University, made current against North Carolina Colonial history through Harper's widely circulated kind and is an addition to the tan North Carolina library. We are glad the venerable author devoted his last years to the gathering of new facts and thus adding to the sketches contained in his first historical and biographical publication. The book can be had for $4, unbound, of Joseph Shillington, 41 street, Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C. Dr. Wood, in the last number of the North Carolina Medical Jour. nal, in his notice of this work, gives the following interesting information concerning a man of parts. We copy what he says:

"A reference to Hardy B. Croom, the dis-tinguished botanist of North Carolina, in whose honor a very rare genus of plants is named, and who wrote a local flora of New Berne, and who made extensive botanical exploration in Florida, is noted in this sketch merely for having raised a novel question of law by his sad death. Mr. Meehan says of him: 'He was one of the most enthusiastic botanists during the second quarter of the present century. He was a contributor of numerous articles to Silli-man's Journal during 1832, 1834 and 1835, which made us acquainted for the first time with many valuable facts concerning Southern plants. He studied the curious pitcher ants, or Sarracenias, particularly, and his monograph of them is regarded as one of the most valuable legacies to science. He was born in Lenoir county in 1799. He was educated for the law, but gave up all for the study of natural history.

THE CONTRAST BETWEEN THE ASSAULTS UPON CLEVELAND AND BLAINE.

It is known that the material is very ample for establishing some very grave charges against Blaine involving his private life and moral character. Several Democratic papers-the Boston Post, Augusta (Maine) New Age, edited by ex-Gov. Plaisted, Louisville Courier-Journal and others, have the evidence of reliable witnesses but at present withhold hoping that the Republican papers will cease to assault the private life of Gov. Cleveland. Many of the Republican papers are publishing the filth against the Presilential candidate. The Boston Journal, Kennebec (Maine) Journal, Buffalo Telegraph and so on are engaged in this very dirty and disgraceful work. They do this because the public record of Cleveland is as white and pure as snow. It cannot be truthfully and successfully assailed. Hence, the jackals and scavingers of party manufacture lies and try to daub the Democratic can-finally, when pecuniarily involved, getting the Pacific Railroad Company, as it seems almost certain, to give him $64,000 cash for what was not worth 64,000 cents. Is this the record of a reformer? Of a man to purify the administration, and to raise the standard of political and official morality?"

Let the record stand. All of the 'multitudinous seas incarnadine" cannot wash out that record, nor can any "sweet oblivious antidote" ever do for Blaine that which he so much to a stand that it is for desires-

'Cleanse the stuff'd bosom of that perillous stuff Which weighs upon the heart."

"The damned spot" will not out at his bidding. The evil he has done as a politician is returning now "to plague the inventor," and in the year 1884. the bachast of any

A TEST OF THE PEOPLE.

N. Y. Times, Bep.

It is not so much the character of Mr. Blaine that is on trial in this residential canvass as the character of the people of this country. Mr. Flaine's character is established. The success which he has thus far on in life has been attained by mehods that are pernicious to the welfare of a land governed by its people. He began his public career by making money out of the calamity of the Nation. The beginning of his wealth was a fee of $5,000 for colecting a claim from the War Deartment by political influence for a Maine railroad which had transported troops on its own offer "free of charge.?. This was followed by a fee of $10,000 for a similar service to a railroad running from Portland to, Boston. Mr. Blaine was then Speak-er of the lower branch of the Maine Legislature and, a rising politician, with influence at Washington through his Pennsylvania connection with Secretary Cameron. He followed this up by using his influence to obtain profitable contracts with the War and Navy Departments, and when the war ended he was rich. Before this time he was in Congress, and had increased his sources of revenue by speculating through friends in Boston in articles

This is entirely a new charge in this controversy, as heretofore Mr. Blaine has only been charged with distributing the circular.

Bissell returned to the city last night from the Grand Army celebration held at Minneapolis. Senator Plunkett, upon be-ing interviewed to-day, said that, al-though politics was a "tabooed" subject at the reunion, no one could help seeing at Minneapolis and vicinity that Cleveland was developing extraordinary strength all through Minnesota and Wisconsin. The gentlemen were entertained by a business club at Chicago, and they found that the feeling for Cleveland was on the increase, and that the outlook was decidedly bright and encouraging for the Democrats. At several other places on their journey home Cleveland stock was reported very high. BREWSTER.
