Corwin than any living, speaker. The people need not to be urged to go out and hear Vance. Of course they will, and all will be there. We just here wish to say to him that it will not be "healthy" for his reputation if he gives Wilmington the go-by. We are counting on him and all we ask is that when he comes he should rival, he could not surpass, the great speech he made here in 1880. It was the greatest purely stump-speech we ever heard, and we have heard hundreds. The still-house prayer-meeting is the best thing that this manysided speaker ever got off.

HOW THE FARMERS SUFFER THE REMEDY.

There are scores of leading manufacturers all through the North and many of them Republicans, who are anxious for a change to be made in the present Tariff in so far as the raw materials and in manufacturing are concerned. They do not believe that it is possible for them to compete with foreign manufacturers as long as this injustice remains. The Republicans are solely responsible for this injustice being in the Tariff and they alone are responsible for its retention. The Democrats have sought in vain to have it removed. But the real and chief cause of the very great depression in prices is the restricted markets. The American manufacturer begins business handicapped with a tax on raw materials whilst other competing countries introduce them free of charge. He then finds a great Chinese Wall shutting out all foreign goods and at the same time shutting in American goods also. The small amount of goods exported by the United States compared with those exported by England will show how this Protective Tariff system excludes American goods from the markets of the world without being subjected to degrading competitions, (he is referring to European laborers) we will make ourselves independent of these markets by making mark its of our own."

There is one great, leading, issue in this campaign which the Radical papers and speakers are striving to evade and cover up. It is Reform in all the Departments of the Government and in the Tariff. It is to get rid of a party that has grown so des perately corrupt that it is falling to pieces in its own pertrescence. Of course the Blaines and Logans and their claquers will kick up a big dust have a tremendous beating of tomtoms and blowing of horns and all that in the hope of fooling the people and dodging reform, but it is all it vain. The people have been sadly abused and plundered and they know it and they mean to keep an eye fixed on Reform and Blaine's bad record. They know how very absurd and stupid it is to associate Blaine with honest and frugal government or the Republican party with reform in taxation and expenditures. 'The New York Times says;

"Our people have come to understand that a system of taxation which takes from their current earnings one hundred mil-lions a year beyond what is needed for the regular expenses of the Government cannot be permanently maintained. This fact has been made more obvious by the changed condition of trade and industry since the last Presidential election. Then every thing was "booming." Demand was act-ive, prices were well maintained, specula tion was hopeful, profits were large and rapid, and the burden of taxation was not felt. But with the reaction that neces sarily followed the over stimulation and over production of that period the burden is not only felt, but is felt heavily, and the points where it presses most sorely are easily perceived. It is seen that, whether the protection principle be sound or not, the present tariff is not protective; that its favors and its disadvantages are very unfairly distributed; that it clogs profitable manufactures doubly by its increase of the cost of raw material and by its limitation of the markets."

THE CAMPAIGN.

We publish to-day some addi tional appointments for Gen. Scales who is conducting the campaign with so much of satisfaction to the party and of credit to himself. He is proving himself a much better canvasser than he was credited with by some who were most kindly disposed toward him: He is a much better debater than we had been led to suppose by those who had heard him in other campaigns.

The candidate for Lieutenant Governor is not disappointing his friends, according to the testimony of persons who are in position to judge of him as of Gen. Scales and without personal partiality.

Capt. W. H. Kitchin, one of the Electors at Large, is making plain, blunt, slashing, vigorous speeches in the West and is making reputation for himself whilst serving his party. He has the precise qualities as a speaker that would enable him to give the great American mule-back performer a very lively and interesting time if he could tackle him for a few days.

On Sunday we published some eastern appointments of Col. John N. Staples, who is the other Electorat-Large. Col. Staples is a gentleman of talents and cultivation. He makes an entertaining, strong and even eloquent speech, and will be of service to the party wherever he may canvass. We hope when he speaks at Elizabethtown on the 10th of September, at Lumberton on the 11th and Smithville on the 12th, that a great crowd will be present to hear the vigorous and eloquent champion of the Democracy.

Gov. Jarvis and Gen. W. P. Roberts begin a canvass in the Albemarle country on the 28th inst. We do not know what sort of a speaker Gen. Roberts, the worthy candidate for State Auditor, is, but Gov. Jarvis is an exceptionally fine campaigner. No one will accuse us of overween-world. But the farmer is mjured also by the great Protective Chinese Wall If there is too much production of manufactured goods for consumption and prices fall, fall, fall, as a con sequence, until they shut up mills and drive out operatives and bank rupt the owners, so also there is too much production of cotton and food supplies. Let us look into this briefly. There are more commodities in the country of various kinds that can possibly be consumed. Only get that fact well imbedded in the mind and you will have a key to the prevailing distress. The farmer knows that in a glutted market all productions sell for less than their value and that this applies to eggs, fowls, fruit and so on, including cotton and turpentine. To relieve the pressure-to furnish a cure for the abounding evil there are but two courses open; first, to either greatly reduce the production hereafter, or, second, to find a wider market for the sale of the productions. Almost a fool can understand that proposition, so plain is it. The United States can always produce, if it is a fair year, more food and cotton than the markets now open to them can take at remunerative prices. Let us now consult Mr. Wells's excellent but brief discussion in the North American Review for some facts and figures. We are now dealing with the farming interests, upon which the real prosperity of all depends.

Between 1870 and 1880 the in crease of population was 30 per cent. in round numbers. During that decade the increase of agricultural exports was: Cereals 214 per cent.; hog 1,138; beef 433; live cattle 690; dairy products 182; cotton 96 per cent. Now this was the surplus product of the country. It is immense The tendency is still to increase the surplus. Mark that. The use of machinery and the tens of thousands of acres being devoted each year, in the way of addition, to the production of breadstuffs, &c, swell this surplus.

Now what is to become of this could rival that in stupidity. This Republican, who was running for Governor of Ohio, is not in the A. B C. of political economy. Rather than compete with England, France and Germany in the markets of the world we will build our Chinese Wall higher and be a nation unto ourselves just as China was for a thousand years. This is the tariff stuff he fed his hearers upon and this is the nonsense that passes current among a class of editors who devote their brains to a discussion of economic questions. The cure of an over-stocked market is to bring in more of the stock. The cure of low prices and economical distress is to increase production, pile up the taxes, twist in a few more strands into the barbed wire Protection fence "and we will make ourselves independent of these markets" (the European). Such is the sum of the Foraker-Republican solution of great commercial crisis. This is the final outcome of the great wisdom of the g. o. p. after a parturition extending through twenty-odd years; We will show some of the absurdities of this idea when worked out to its natural conclusion.

CURRENT COMMENT.

-- The central idea of Gov. Cleveland's political faith as enunciated and exemplified by himself is that the people by their own untrammeled action shall select those who are to be intrusted with the administration of public affairs, and that those whom they select shall be held to a faithful performance of their duties. In accepting the nomination for Mayor of Buffalo he declared that "public officials are the trustees of the people, and hold their places and exercise their powers for the benefit of the people," and this idea he has reiterated on every appropriate occasion since. He dwelt upon it with emphasis in responding to the committee which notified him of his nomination for the Presidency, and he returns to it in his formal letter of acceptance. It is, in fact, the fundamental idea of our system of government, but in practice we have departed very far from it -N. Y. Times Republican.

We were at Webster on Thursday, to hear the political discussion between Major C. M. Stedman and Judge W. T. Faircloth, candidates for Lieutenant Governor. And in regard to the speaking, we will say that both candidates spoke more than two hours each, Maj. Stedman leading off. He made one of the best political speeches we ever heard, and as many said, hacked his opponent, Judge Faircloth. Faircloth is a good man, but is on the wrong side, and therefore falls short of making any great impression on the people a speaker.

The Jewel of Consistency. New York World.

Referring yesterday to Gov. Cleveand's letter of acceptance the Sun said:

"Many persons have thought that Gov. Cleveland would express himself in his letter of acceptance with some distinctness upon the subject of the tariff. He does. He approves the principle which is embodied in the Chicago platform which prescribes free trade for the free traders and protection for the protectionists.

On July 12, the day following the adoption of this same platform by the National Democratic Convention, the Sun said, referring espe-cially to the disposition of the tariff question:

"The platform is judicious, wise and progressive. It is what the Sun has contended for during the last two years. We are content with it."
