It would restore to the merchant his market and give the farmer good prices again. In the language of the Secretary of the Treasury, "the question still presses—what legisla-tion is necessary to relieve the people of unnecessary taxes?" It is a question of revenue reform. Solve this question, my unnecessary taxes r it is a question of revenue reform. Solve this question, my countrymen, by reducing faxes, and thus leaving money not needed by the govern-ment in the pockets of people and the channels of trade and commerce. The arty in power will not give us this reform. If there is to be reduction of taxation it must come from the Democratic party. The Republican party has been in power for twenty-three years and waste, extravagance, abuse of power, defalcations, incompetency, corruption generally have marked every step of its progress. It is the Republican party that has burdened the people, despoiled them of their money, accumulated hundreds of millions of surplus wrung from the people in taxes, and it is nonsense to talk or think of any reduction coming from it. You must turn the rascals out and keep them out if you would have in the future strict economy in the administration of the Government and a needed and sharp reduction of the very high taxes. You need not look to any reform in the party that is thoroughly honeycombed with corruption and that has lived through the support of a class of men who have grown rich through Government bounty and partial legislation. Mr. Hendricks well savs of reform:

"It cannot come from the representation of favored classes, who ask inequality in egislation that there may be unjust un quality in the profits of the varied pursuits of the people.

Let Reform and Retrenchment be the watchword and key note of the campaign of 1884. With two such men upon our ticket as Cleveland and Hendricks-the one with an official record founded upon Reform the other with a political record fairly illustrative of broad and wise neglected.-Norfolk Ledger.

CURRENT COMMENT.

The great Powers in Europe are forming new combinations. It looks as if not an improbable thing that out of the Egyptian complications may yet come a war that will shake Europe. England may have a great war on her hands before the year ends. It would be a curious thing if Germany and France should join hands in a war upon England. Is would be a very unnatural as well as a very useless. war. But if it comes we have great faith in the fighting qualities of the British. They will do some splendid fighting on land and on sea. But it is to be hoped that wise counsels will prevail. It would be a crime against humanity to cause a war that would involve so many nations and visit so much suffering and destruction upon tens of thousands of families.

of the Cotton and Grain Crops. By Telegraph to the Morning Star.1

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.-The National Cotton Exchange's report of the cotton crop in August says: Georgia-Rains have been few in this State this month and the fruit on the cotton plant is not developed; at the top the crop is not as good as last year, but the bottom crop promises a good average. The crop is twenty days late.

Louisiana-Acreage about same, and prospective yield less than last year. Crop nerally late and suffering from drought. Mississippi-Crop generally from ten to fourteen days late; there has been some

In southern Mississippi the crop is shightly better than last year, and in the eastern portion of the State the acreage is about the same and the yield unchanged. Ball worms are reported in several counties, but there is not much fear of their doing any damage

North Carolina-The drought is decreasing the prospective yield; cotton is two weeks late and is much smaller than last year. No worms are reported. Picking will begin generally on the 15th of September. The wheat and corn crops are larger and generally better than last year.

South Carolina-The present condition of the crop is better than last year, but it is much injured from rust, which may cut short the yield.

Texas-The condition is generally un favorable. The drought of two months has injured the crop, particularly in the central portion of the State, and cut it short from one fifth to one fourth. Rain now would not materially improve its condition. In eastern Texas, around Jefferson, the crop is better and a larger yield is expected than last year. Rust is reported in several localities. The grain crops are not much injured by the drought, having generally matured before it came.

On the trip one of the excursionists attempted to steal a sandwich from the bar when the barkeeper struck him with a club. The crowd then pounced upon the barkeeper, beating him to death with glasses, plates, pitchers and whatever else they could lay hands on. The boat was brought to a stand still, and the captain sent a man ashore to notify the Staten Island police of the murder. The police, however, took no action, and the barge returned to New York. MONDAY EVENING, SEPT. 1, 1884. EVENING EDITION.

HENDRICKS'S CAPITAL SPRECH

The abstract of the speech of ex-Gov. Hendricks published in Sunday's STAR puts us in possession of an exceptionally striking effort. It really impresses us as in excellent taste and of peculiar felicity in treatment of subjects selected for discussion. He devoted much of his time to the discussion of Reform and his management of it seems to us as very admirable. We have not seen the subject so well handled in the campaign thus far. No man can read his remarks on this most important subject-tax reductionwithout being struck with their clearness and force. There is no answer to such a presentation. Ingenious minds might evade by sophism or deceive by cunning defence, but to the intelligent and informed voter there can be no fair and satisfactory reply to Gov. Hendricks's vigorous and lucid arraignment of Republican oppression and incapacity.

We invite all men who believe in equitable, honest, capable, economical Government to read carefully and then read again what the eminent and able Indiana statesman says. If a man be a man of sense and candor and judgment he will hardly take exceptions to anything Mr. Hendricks has said. Well does he formulate the thoughts of intelli gent and heavily burdened tax-payers when he says:

"Freely and cheerfully, we all answer, that there shall be no limitation or restraint upon the absolute and entire maintenance of public authority, with all of its faculties and functions unimpaired; whatever the government can lawfully do and of right should do, the tax payers will furnish it the means to accomplish. Beyond this is the pro-vince of private right, to invade which is an usurpation. The government economically administered shall be supported. Are your men from the farms, shops and stores will-ing that any other rule should be adopted? May they take your money for uses not au-thorized by the constitution or not for public welfare, or that it may be piled up in vaults to tempt the greed of the unscrupu-

He quotes from President Arthur's message in 1882, in which he called attention to the "importance of re-statesmanship, the Democratic party can well go before the country and say to all burden-bearers, to all bread-winners, to all honorable and just men, "Come join with us in the great patriotic work of bringing back the country to'the old paths of simplicity, purity, fidelity and economy in which the fathers walked."

A PEN PORTRAIT OF BLAINE. Ex-Representative Thaddeus C. Pound, of Wisconsin is considered the ablest man in his State. He is a Republican and has been for years the unfaltering leader of his party in his State. For twenty years he has been one of the most active and influential men in his party. He has served in the Legislature, was Lieutenant Governor, and has served three terms in the U.S. House, He declined re-election. He has no personal grievance to vindicate but like an honest man he repudiates the "tattooed man" and will oppose him vigorously. He has published a very strong letter in which Blaine is subjected to a terrible arraignment. It is a document that must have a decided influence in a State already in doubt. Mr. Pound in no sense abates his loyalty and devotion to his party, but he simply cannot as a conscientious patriot support a man who is tainted in his entire public life and is perhaps the most venal politician now living on the globe and one of the most dangerous.

We may copy hereafter more at length from Mr. Pound's vigorous document. At present we must content ourselves with the following truthful limning of the man who is now being sharply cauterized by the best men in his own party. Mr. Pound says:

"What, then, does the party owe the country and itself ? Manifestly, the con-tinuance of the faithful servant. Common honesty and a decent recognition of fidelity and wisdom demand it. Little short of hypocrisy would deny, it. But being denied, the alternate should be a man whose public life is a guarantee that the good work will go on. He should be the highest and best type of political integrity, states-manship, and Republican principles. "Mr. Blaine is not such a man, but, in my opinion, embodies most in American politics that is menacing to public morals and integrity in Government. With a long public career, mainly distinguished for a sort of declamatory and puglistic statecraft, he is not the inspiration of a single valuable lieving industry and enterprise of un- policy or the author of an important year. There is not a bar of "soap" nor hardly a red cent with which to save the country. He was asked how could the voters be brought out? Here is his pitiable answer:

"By having a perfect organization and good managers in every district and ward, You can't bring them out by mere enthusiasm. If the committee sits down and says t has no money and can't do anything, they might as well give up."

Engineer Melville wants to go on another exploration in the Frozen Ocean. If he is foolhardy enough to go he should be informed by those in authority that he must shift for himself as no expedition to search and recover him will be made. The game of absurdity and sacrifice has been played long enough. If adventurous men will continue to risk life in the Arctic waters let them do it without any hope of succor save by their own forecast and enterprise.

PALO ALTO, ONSLOW Co., N. C.,) August 26th, 1884.

MR. EDITOR:-I was surprised at Polloksville, Jones county, to find New Berne steamers passing up the Trent river to Trenton, with fair freights each way, and to find so many new and commodious stores, with a private telephone line, furnished by Mr. C. E. Foy & Co., from New Berne to Polloksville, a distance of thirteen miles, and it works well. There is a daily mail to Polloksville from New Berne and yet some letters are five days reaching there from Wilmington.

Crops in Jones and Onslow counties are good and not at all injured by the rains. The fodder harvest is in season and the corn crop is therefore out of all danger.

Palo Alto is the old (Onslow) home of Judge Russell, of your city. It is one of the largest and most productive farms in the county and is at present owned by David S. Aman, who is the most successful farmer in this county. He is a fair speciman of Onslow hospitality, and his crops are all good.

THE BLAINE STYLE.

New York Herald.

Apparently the Blaine game to capture the Irish vote is not prosperous. And now the Blaine organs. chagrined with disappointment, hold that in attempting to cajole the Irish they have tried the wrong way. Here is what is said by a Blaine organ that is even wilder than the Tribune: "It is our opinion that the only way to convince the kind of Irish men that we have heretofore taken so much pleasure in abusing is to argue with a shillalah and beat common sense into his thick skull with the persuasion of a blackhorn."

An Irishman who will not vote for Blaine must be persuaded with a shillalah. How do the Irish like the proposition?
