BLAINE

His Agricultural Address at the Opening of the New England Fair. (By Cable to the Morning Star.)

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 4.—The fourth day of the New England Fair opened with fine weather. Shortly after 10 o'clock a barbecue containing Hon. Jas. G. Blaine, ex Gov. of Maine, was driven upon the grounds, and was followed by other invited guests in carriages. The arrival was greeted with cheers. When the party were seated the President of the New England Agricultural Society, Hon. George B. Loring, introduced Mr. Blaine, who spoke as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen.—It is pleasant to find ourselves in an assemblage where we all bear the name of higher honor than any party is designated; an assemblage in which we meet on the broad plane of American citizenship, and, rejoicing in that as in itself constituting civic distinction of priceless value. The agricultural fair is the farmer's parliament. On this day and on this occasion the merchant and the citizen speak to the world by word and deed, for that great fundamental principle on which the Republic rests for its security and its prosperity. It has become quite a saying that agriculture is the basis of our wealth. The full meaning of the statement which we are contemplating when we remember that in this year of grace 1890, the total value of products from farm and flock in the United States will exceed $3,000,000,000; an amount brought forth in a single year, vastly in excess of the national debt at its highest point. We are not in the habit of considering New England as especially distinguished for agriculture, and the annual product from her soil is greater in value than all the gold and silver that has ever been mined in California and Australia in the richest year of their fabulous yield. The farmer is a true and always successful miner, in the extraction of money from the earth—a fact most strikingly shown in the history of California, where only a fairly begun when the energies of her people were turned to the production of bread for the world instead of gold. The prodigious consumption of 66,000,000 people is brought strikingly before us when we realize how vast a proportion our aggregate product is used at home and how small a share is exported. The hundred and odd millions of New England farm products do not support her own people, and they are compelled to exchange the fruits of their mechanical industry to an enormous amount every year for the means of subsistence, so lavishly outpoured from the granaries of the more fertile West, and this fact is but one of many which show the independence of our people and the vast extent of our internal exchanges. The scene of today has an enhanced interest when we reflect that throughout the gorgeous autumn upon which we have just entered it will be reproduced in the coming winter from the northern lakes to the southern gulf, the richness of the harvest and contentment and happiness of the people will be shown on fields as fair, and by displays as brilliant as those which now we witness with our eyes and which we might our hearts. Nor will we exhaust the inspiring scenes which the clouds of winter on the northern border of the Union shall have made the southern sun seem genial and welcome, our brethren of the cotton region will continue the wondrous story. They invite us to witness in the commercial triumph of Southern Agriculture in the production of that single plant which has revolutionized manufactures. They have the finance of the world which has enriched the United States, and the result of our imagination, and has added incalculably to the comfort, health and luxury of the human race. I heartily congratulate the New England society on the brilliant success of this exhibition, and I beg to turn my sincere thanks to all for their personal interest and cordiality with which I have been honored.

At the conclusion of Mr. Blaine's remarks he was given three cheers by the crowd, to which he bowed his acknowledgments. After the conclusion of his address Mr. Blaine was escorted by his carriage and driven directly to the residence of ex Gov. Smythe.

Three Chinese Armies to Invade Tonquin—The Cholera Panic in Italy. (By Cable to the Morning Star.)

ROME, Sept. 4.—Evidences of a cholera panic throughout Italy continue to multiply. The population of Palermo attempted today to stop the railway service at Naples. The mob here in Rome drove a priest who had just arrived from Naples away from the city. At Ostia travellers are refused entrance into the city. In some places popular agitation has begun in favor of abolishing local quarantine and establishing houses of observation for travellers suspected of illness. In consequence of this plan being forbidden by the Government, the people of Civita Vecchia attempted to destroy the railway. Health reports of the disease throughout Italy for the past twenty-four hours show 154 new cases and 85 deaths.

OHIO.

Mining Troubles in the Hocking Valley District. (By Telegram to the Morning Star.)

COLUMBUS, Sept. 4.—Supt. G. R. Carr, of the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo Railroad, has sent a long telegram of a friendly nature to Chris Evans, Unionville, district President of the M. B. Union, informing him that unless the striking miners go to work within a day or two, at the rates offered by operators, all the mines at Strataville will be abandoned by the syndicate. Strataville is the only mining town in the Hocking Valley. The county, whose sheriff has refused to ask for aid or take steps toward the protection of property. Operators have concluded to concentrate the guards at the mines in Hocking and Athens counties, at two or three places, and hold the authorities of Perry county responsible for the damage to property in that county. This order has not been given by the syndicate, but it is looked for in a day or two. A large number of miners in Strataville own the property in which they live.

Sudden Death of Secretary Folger at his Home in Geneva—New Issue of Bonds of the L. & N. R. Co. (By Telegram to the Morning Star.)

GENEVA, Sept. 4.—Secretary Folger died at his home in Geneva at 4.45 o'clock this afternoon. It was so sudden that time was not offered to summon his children to his bedside, and neither of them was here.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS.

Trying to Get Rid of the Colored Representative on the State Electoral Ticket. (By Telegram to the Morning Star.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The Republican State Committee is holding an excited discussion this afternoon upon the question of a successor to Rev. W. D. Derrick, colored, on the State electoral ticket. Representatives of various Republican colored organizations called on the committee to-day and asked that Derrick's name be continued on the ticket. Derrick appeared in person and stated that he had not resigned. He claims to have written a letter to Police Commissioner VanCott saying that his duties as pastor of Bethel church would interfere with the proper performance of his duties as elector. He afterwards, he says, withdrew the letter. A proposition to substitute Wm. M. Everts or some other white man on the ticket was not accepted.
