Sudden Death of a Physician—Completion of the Western North Carolina Railroad to Point Rock and the Nantahala.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 15.—Dr. Robert M. Williams died to-day from the effects of a dose of fluid extract of aconite, which he had taken to cause a reduction in his pulse-beat, in order to receive an insurance policy on his life.

The Western North Carolina Railway extension from Salisbury to Point Rock, and from Asheville to the mouth of the Nantahala river—nearly 200 miles in length—was chartered three years ago. The State owned, originally, three-fourths of the stock. Many of the private stockholders were ruined by the late war and the road could not pay the mortgage debt. It was therefore three years ago sold to the State for $350,000. Four years ago it was sold to W. J. Best, of New York, who was said to represent a company of New York capitalists, among them J. Nelson Tappan and Mr. Grace. These could not carry out the contract and subsequently assigned to the Richmond & West Point Terminal Company, which was aided by the Richmond & Danville Syndicate. Under contract the road was to be completed to that effect. The State for the purpose of completing the road to the State Treasury, and the news has just reached here that on September 13th the commissioners agreed that the contract had been completed with, and signed the certificate to that effect. The deed is held by the Trust Company, of New York, and will be delivered to the Richmond & West Point Terminal Company as soon as the legal formalities can be complied with.

No news had been received from him until this week when the Knights of Honor, of Monroe, received a letter from members of the same order in Pickens county, Ala.
