OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

It is eminently right and proper for a man to strive to be independent, for in its strict sense it is an attribute of Deity. It is well to own one's property absolutely and unencumbered; it is enviable to have a sufficiency of this world's goods to live with-out the aid of others; it is good to be a freeman and it is right that every reasonable being should exercise his own judgment according to the measure of his understanding. In private affairs, in religion, and in politics, every one should have the courage and manliness to think for himself and to act and vote according to his honest convictions. Every man, we say, should, if he can, be independent. But an "independent candidate" for political office is a fowl of nother feather. There is nothing about him to admire, to imitate, or to encourage, He is in ninety and nine cases out of a hundred either a dishonest politician, who is not of the faith he professes, but is too cowardly to avow himself of the other; or he is of the sordid sort, who is ready to jeopardize the party and principles he avows for the chance of his own aggrandizement. - Pittsboro Home. We conclude, therefore, with the cheering assurance to our readers that our night of oppression is giving away, that the darkness is slipping down the silvery slopes, light of coming morn, that the birds of promise are about to sing their joyous matins, and that the bright golden sunlight of the day of peace will soon flood this long darkened land. Amen. But, fellow citizens, this promising picture must not lure us into fancied security or cause us to lessen one single effort we are now making. Obstacles are still in the way; difficulties are to be overcome; cliffs of sharp-jutting op-position are to be climbed; but let us strug-gle on, recollecting that "Beyond the Alps lies Italy," and to gain it we must climb from peak to peak, and not stop to rest because the ascent is steep. The Italy of our political dream can be reached - Wilson

PERSONAL.

- John Quincy Adams is a candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress in the Second Massachusetts dis-

- Neal Dow denies that he wrote the letter attributed to him in which the phrase "bigoted Germans" was used. He says it was a forgery, and no doubt it was.

- Mr. Blaine did not visit the grave of Garfield on Sunday, but stopped over on the West Side and had a big dinner at the residence of M. A. Hanna.—

- Washington Irving stands on the books of the United States Treasury a technical defaulter for 3 cents, and a distinguished army officer is a defaulter on an unadjusted account for 1 cent.

- The physical downfall of John McCullough involves a great loss to the American stage. He was the last of the English speaking actors of the heroic drama, and bore to our theatre the same relation that Salvini sustains to that of Italy. He has had no equal on our boards since Forrest's time.-N. Y. Sun.

- Senator Morrill, of Vermont, is now 74 years of age, says the Troy Times; the oldest member of the Senate, but a much younger looking man than Senator Edmunds, who is his junior by some eighteen years. The State of Vermont now furnishes the oldest Senator in years and the oldest in term of office, and is the only State that holds its united representation in the Senate of eighteen years ago.

POLITICAL POINTS.

- That inveterate old tar, J. G. Blaine, is bearing west sou'west, presumably to cast an anchor in Salt river .- Louisville Courier Journal, Dem.

- If the Board of Education can get coal delivered for $4.64 per ton, and the employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for $3.70, why must Tom, Dick and Harry pay $6.50?—Phil. Record, Ind.

- It is quite possible that Commissioner Dudley's experience is indispensable to the Republicans of Ohio, and they can afford to pay him: But he has no right to create a temporary vacancy in an important public office to enable him to enjoy its salary while attending to other business.

—Phil. Record, Ind.

-"The fiction of to-day abounds in the fools of various sorts," says the Boston Courier. This is true, but the fools of fiction can't hold a candle to the fools of politics.—N. Y. Sun. Considering the course of the Sun in this campaign, one might also take the above to autobiography .- Petersburg Index Appeal and affairs.

Democratic in politics, the Observe will isbor, first of all, to assure the prosperity of the Town of Fayetteville, to develop the vast agricultural resources of its own and the neighboring counties, and to promote all that concerns the welfare of the people of North Carolina.

Opposed to such innovations on the homely ways of our fathers as, in the guise of progress, harm society, the Observer will be found in full sympathy with the new things form of the changed condition of the South which sound judgment or enlightened experience find to be also good.

As to the rest; it will strive to deserve the reputation of the name it inherits.
