EVENING EDITION

TO EXPOSE CORRUPTION IS A

It is very disagreeable to an editor who would like to be respectful and courteous to all men to have to deal with a character like Blaine, or with men like Elkins, Kellogg and company who are his supporters. You cannot discuss the claims of Blaine to the Presidency without presenting his character as it stands revealed in the light of his own letters, and in the testimony of Bergner, Joy and others. You must do this or you are recreant to a sense of duty; for it is clearly the duty of a public journalist to warn the country against placing in power a corrupt and dangerous man. But if you do this, and give the evidence to show why you thus present his character and thus warn voters against him, you are charged with throwing dirt and with lowering your editorial standard.

We respectfully submit that it is a necessity, but a most disagreeable one, made so by the action of the Republican party. Passing over such men as Morrill, Hawley, Conkling, Folger, Edmunds, Harrison, Gresham, and scores of other public men of unstained honor, they selected the most venal and dangerous man in American politics as their candidate -a man whose true character has been painted in letters of living light by the ablest Republicans themselves-by Edmunds, by Beech er, by Ingersoll, by the New York Times, by the Tribune, by the foremost papers in that party. Not only this, but the nomination of this man has driven out the purest, most honorable, most cultivated and many of the wealthrest men of the old Republican party, and they are now supporting a Democrat simply because they will not vote for a man they are fully satisfied is a corrupt, debauched knave.

Let us just here copy from an edi torial that appeared in the New York Tribune when it was edited by Whitlaw Reid, the very man who has charge now. The Tribune is quoted now as authoritity for Blaine, as that paper has assayed to defend his badly suspected and badly damaged character, but why not quote the Tribune when it held Blaine up as a corrupt, wicked scoundrel? Here is what that sheet said of Blaine when Speaker:

"In the course of railway litigation, proofs of Mr. Blaine's operations in railway stocks have come out and are now in possession of lawyers in this city. We publish as much of this business as Mr. Blaine will find time to attend to at once. By these documents the Speaker is proved to have received 35,500 of assessable stock of the Union Pacific Hailway, E. D., and 2,000 unassessable shares of the same. Why was the Speaker of the House dab-bling in this business? Why receiving stock?

The entries that was assigned to him, among others, to secure the ratification of the Deleware and Pottawatomie treatles and ing men have sense as well as Blaine the passage of a bill in Congress. Mr. Blaine's record in railway matters grows darker as it is examined. * * * - It may darker as it is examined. * * * - It may be nobody's business how he has become a millionaire on a Congressman's pay; but it is the business of his constituents and of the country to know how the Speaker of the House of Representatives came into this rich railway speculation."

In yesterday's STAR we gave another sample of the Tribune's ar raignment of now candidate Blaine, but then Speaker Blaine, in which it is said that there was "proof of Blaine's fraud" and how a railway was actually bankrupted by blackmail, Blaine, the Speaker, being the chief actor. Said the Tribune then, and it either outrageously lied or told the truth:

"Speaker Blaine is proved to have received allotments of 32,500 shares of stock, subect to assessments, and valued at $1,625, 000; 5,900 shares not subject to assessment valued at $295,000, and 2,000 shares more allotment, but not assessed. The two latter lots, not subject to assessment, were secured by Blaine for himself."

Now with such testimony from leading Republican witnesses what can Democratic papers do but to aid in exposing, thoroughly exposing the base fellow? The Republican party is responsible for the necessity imposed upon us, and upon all Democratic editors, as well as upon a dozen or twenty able Republican editors in the North, to lay naked the terrible record of a politician who bartered away his honor and name for money, and has shown a character as base as any that you read of in English history at the most corrupt pe-

We say again, it is a disagreeable work the STAR 2/d other Democratic papers are forced to engage in when the duty is imposed of exposing in its true colors the life of a venal politi-

We have not written a severe line of the many men in the canvass except Blaine and York. The hardest thing we have said of the latter is to characterize him as a mouthing and ignorant demagogue. We take him to be this because of the abundant evidence furnished to justify such an opinion. We do not know Dr. York and only judge him by his utterances. That he is ignorant and unlettered his language and assertions show. That he is a demagogue is ap parent from his appeals to the poor to arouse them in antagonism to those with more means. We have treated all other candidates with courtesy, and some of them with kindness, when the temptation to be severe was pressing. We do not like a campaign like this. It is not to our taste. But the Republicans opened it by pouring a flood of filth upon Gov. Cleveland, and, as we believe, by the direct advice and countenance of Blaine himself. The evidence we recently published, we think, showed this, without relying upon Gov. Plaisted's statement in his paper. The necessities of the campaign are such by reason of the record of Blaine, that you must at least criticize and discuss him, or quit the field. As long as the Republican party continues to nominate for office such men as Garfield and Blaine a personal campaign is inevitable. It is the duty of the press to furnish light, tell the truth, and expose corruption. We would prefer a thousand times a campaign in which principles were the theme and not the glaring and foul record of machine politicians of the most malignant type. The duty of all honest voters is to turn the rascals out and keep them out. Defeat Blaine and thus compel the nomination of men of unblemished public

AN IGNORANT CANDIDATE.

No one doubts Blaine's brilliancy, dash, magnetism, if you please. But when he touches political economy he betrays an ignorance that is somewhat appalling. We might, perhaps with propriety and justice, say that it was something else than ignorance. But as he has been so long time in the Congress and is presumed to have acquired some information even as to the difficult questions that belong to political science we may con. tent ourselves with saying that he is a very ignorant man according to his | the Government should pass into Demoopportunities. We propose briefly to

First, he declared in his adroit and rather able speech on the Tariff, in West Virginia, that in a vessel costing $500,000 all was labor but $5,000. That is to say, that the material cost but $5,000, and the remainder was for labor. It is known to all men who know anything of this subject that the material costs not less than $75,000, and probably $100,000. Why Blaine should have made the statement he did can only be explained upon the hypothesis that he was either lamentably ignorant, or, talking to laboring men as he was, he has, and such statements only make the speaker ridiculous.

But again. Blaine said at Bellaire, that in a ton of pig-iron selling for $20, the cost of labor in producing to was $19.10. Is this true? Did Blame believe it? If so, he was stupendously ignorant as the following will show.

J. B. Morehead, of Philadelphia showed in his letter addressed to the Committee of Ways and Means that in one ton of pig-iron the cost of labor was $2.70. The Tariff duty on one ton is $6.72, or two and a half times as much as the labor costs. Mark that. But this was a calculation for Pennsylvania. The Southern furnaces show other results. The following is from the books of one of Red ore.....1.3297

Cost per ton..... 9.7660 It costs in labor (all included) about one-third of the tax under the Tariff. The Louisville Courier-Journal, well up in such matters,

"There is a special tariff on iron ore of 75 cents a ton, while it is mined in Alabams and deliverred at the furnaces at 65 cents a ton. So with coal, there is a tariff tax of 75 cents per ton, and on coke of 20 per cent. of value. According to the cen sus, the wages paid to men employed in making pig-iron, 41,875 hands, amounted to $12,680,703, or on an average $302.82 per annum, and yet Mr. Blaine asks intelligent men to believe pig iron is all labor."

Speaker Carlisle has shown that it requires two tons of ore to make one ton of pig iron, and that the total cost to produce it is $3.35. It cost $4.35 to make one ton of bar iron. In 1880 it cost $13 to make a ton of bar iron. This was the labor exclusive of all other cost. The Courser-Journal publishes a table prepared for that year:

Cost of labor on 2 tons iron ore..... $2 70 Cost of lebor on 11 tons pig iron Cost of labor on 1 ton bar iron..... 13 00 Total cost of labor..... Duty on 2 tons iron ore..... Duty on 11 tons pig iron..... 9 33 Duty on 1 ton merchant bar...... 33 60

Total duty......$44 03 Or $2 25 bonus to every dollar paid in wages. Mind you, this is not simply the difference in wages, it is the sum total of Now is not the statement of Blaine, as he talks to workingmen in West Virginia, discreditable. He tries to make them believe an absurdity, a falsehood. Instead of 90 cents being the cost, as he said of the material and labor being $19.10, labor is but $2.70, according to Mr. Morehead's figures in Pennsylvania; and in the South not over $2.27. Mark you Blaine was talking of pig iron. It only costs in labor $20.05 to make a ton of bar iron, whilst the actual tax on it is $44.03, or double the cost of labor.

Our Louisville contemporary exposes another deception of Blaine's. He said in his speech that the census placed Ohio's wealth at $3,200,000, 000. Now Spofford's American Almanac for 1884 gives the total wealth at $1,634,910,734, which is one-half what Blaine gave, and that too after four years of additional growth and development.

Blaine's memory is very treacher ous. He cannot remember his own personal dealings, as in the Hocking Valley operations, and how could he possibly recollect the immense figures in Ohio?

Pension Commissioner Dudley has his clerks scattered over Qhio, and they are making votes for Blaine by giving preference to pension claimants who will support him. A Washington special to the N. Y. Times

"Their claims in many instances have been on file for years, and in all cases for many months, for the business of the Pension Office is greatly in arrears. Having the names and residences of these applicants, it is the duty of the Special Examin ers, who are, of course, under Government pay, to hunt each one up and see that he is persuaded to vote the Republican ticket next week. The usual method is to inform the applicant that his case will be reached short time, and will undoubtedly be favorably acted upon. After this is impressed upon his mind it is pointed out to the veteran that if the executive offices of follow, and it would be a long time before his case could be taken up, if at all. The next duty of the Examiner is to make the applicant believe that with the Democrats in power a niggardly policy would be pur-sued in the matter of pensions, and the re-peal of the arrears of pensions act would follow."

The Sunday Union and Catholic Times has this to say of James G.

"Blaine was a Know-Nothing editor; he was Buckshot Foster's ally against Parnell; was the defamer of Archbishop Hughes; he was the defamer of Archbishop Hughes; he circulated the Madrigan circular to light a flame of bigotry against the Catholics but nine years ago; that same year, in 1875, he introduced in Congress a sectarian amendment to the Constitution of the United States; in 1871 he made an Orange speech in Saratoga on the subject of the twelfth of July riots. There is no escape for us; we must face the most repulsive character of modern politics; we must oppose him by of modern politics; we must oppose him by supporting his only opponent, Cleveland."

Logan has elevated views of statesmanship. He admires purity and nobility in men. He has a high apup a great and ingenuous and grand character. If you think otherwise just read the following from his speech in Philadelphia. Blaine is his theme and here is what Logan

"If you want the old Ship of State again called to peaceful waters and guided through them, freighted with the hopes of mankind, and safe into a harbor of refuge and safety, where she will rest in peace and quiet, you want to put at the helm man who guided that craft through stormy seas and in boisterous times. If you do that you will elect one of the grandest men any nation ever produced, and that man is James G. Blaine. [Loud and prolonged]

MR. BEECHER REPLIES.

He has no Intention of Apologizing to Anybody - "Two Continental Liars,"

N. Y. Herald. Mr. Beecher made a categorical statement in the form of a public letter to Gen. Alger, reciting Mr. Joy's statement made in his presence, in detail. Gen. Alger replied to this that Mr. Joy's cable message was a complete refutation of the charges made by Mr. Beecher, and recommended that Mr. Beecher should apologize "to the American people" for the wrong he had done Mr. Blaine and the Republican party. The reply to this suggestion on the part of Mr. Beecher is as follows: Gen. R. A. ALGER, Detroit, Mich.:

DEAR SIR-I have just read your letter of October 9, exhorting me "publicly to retract your [my] statements, as you have, in your zeal for the Democratic party and the Democratic nominee, spread them before the whole country." When the heat of this campaign has passed you will think that such language borders too near upon insult to be either just or wise. I beg you to understand that I have nothing to do with the truth, or otherwise, of Mr. Joy's statements to me respecting Mr. Blaine. The only question is. Did Mr. Joy make those statements? The transactions between him and Mr. Blaine, through an intermediary, may all be mythical, or the intermediary may have been an impostor. or Mr. Blaine's feelings may never have been hurt by any such requests, and Mr. Joy may never have been shocked at Blaine's imputed answer; and Mr. Joy's artless feelings being practised upon by this intermediary, he may have expressed himself too severely about Mr. Blaine. Let Mr. Joy and Mr. Blaine settle that between themselves; I have nothing to do with all that. Did Mr. Joy make the remarks in my presence which I have published? If he did not, I have lied; if he did, Joy has lied. There is no middle ground-there shall be none. Either I heard it or invented it.

Mr. Joy's second telegram to you makes a languid and foolish denial, which I attribute to his not having seen, or understood, my statement. But if Mr. Joy has seen my statement and denied it, or if when he lands in New York he shall declare that no such conversation was had in my presence, then I have only to say that whereas I did not imagine that there could be more than one continential liar, I am compelled to think that there are two.

Please accept this letter as the only retraction and apology that I am prepared to make to you, to Mr. Joy, to Mr. Blaine, and to the Republican party.

ARGUING FOR FOOLS.

New York World. Listen to the ravings of Mr.

Blaine's disgruntled Tribune: "The sacrifices of Ohio wood-growers, THE DARK FURNACES, THE SILENT MILLS, THE EMPTY MINES, show what it has already cost to elect a Democratic Congress two years ago." The Tribune pays a poor compliment to its readers when it makes it evident that it regards them all as

What sane man does not know that the Democratic House could do nothing and did do nothing to change the Republican tariff in existence before its election or to make the slightest change in the Republican policy with the Senate and President in opposition?

What sane man does not know that the sacrifices of the farmers, the dark furnaces, the silent mills, the empty mines, are all due to corrupt Republican legislation and unwise Republican policy, all-powerful for nearly a quarter of a century?

If the Tribune readers do not know this they must be lunatics or donkeys.

BETTING.

- New York, Oct. 2 .- Mr. Geo. Dickinson entered the stock exchange yesterday and announced that he was ready to bet $25,000 or any part of it that Cleveland would be elected. Mr. A. V. Goicouria, a Blaine man, heard him and said he would take a part of that, and a bet of $2,500 even was arranged.

- CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.-H. W. Derby, of this city, is backing down every-body with his offers to bet on the election. He says that he was through New York a short time ago and that he will bet $100 that Cleveland will carry New York, $100 that he will carry Indiana, $100 that he will carry Connecticut and $100 that he will carry New York,

CURRENT COMMENT.

Senator Edmunds has said when he and Senator Thurman made preciation of the qualities that make an attack on any railroad corporation they drove Mr. Blaine from cover. Now, as then, he is the creature and servant of monopoly; now, as then, he is in league with public robbers, and seeks to silence and mislead the laboring men. The greatest instrument of oppression and disaster is the tariff. Look at the deserted smoke-stacks. Listen in vain for the "hum of industry throughout the land." Hear the coal miners in Ohio and Pennsylvania clamoring for bread. Millions of dollars are invested in the idle mills of Pennsylvania and New England. Of the iron furnaces, one in three is out of blast. Idleness everwhere; want everywhere; dread, and uneasiness in all the cities, and despair covers the land like a pall. Behold this is the work of the tariff. To this complexion does it come at last. -Loursville Courier-Journal, Dem.

> - In his speeches in Ohio Mr. Blaine appeals to the voters not to allow their attention to be drawn from "the controlling question of the campaign," which, he says, is "Shall American labor be protected?" It is just possible that Mr. Blaine may carry this issue too far West, as the Republicans of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota are not shouting very lustily for tariff in this campaign. The miners of the Hocking Valley, who have been driven from their homes and supplanted with cheap imported labor, cannot see wherein they are "protected" by a duty of seventy-five cents a ton on coal when they cannot get more than fifty cents a ton for digging it. Nor can the farmers of Ohio be expected to grow enthusiastic over a system which has nearly closed the markets of the world for their surplus products. - Phil. Record, Ind.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

The present system of taxation by the government and the locking up in the raults of the Treasury at Washington of the surplus taxes, impoverishes the peoble. and enriches those who live in the money centres. It withdraws capital from the country towns like Fayetteville. It stimulates manufacturing until there are more manufacturers than the consumers can support. Then the market is glutted, and the laborer is thrown out of employment or works on part time. Next the flerce the wealthy capitalists there to seek out the profitable minor manufactures of the country towns. Their great wealth-accumulated during the period that protection enriched them and before the market was glutted-enables them to manufacture more cheaply than the country manufacturer. The country manufacturer in turn is unable to protect himself by enlarging his operations so as to produce as cheaply as his Northern competitor, because he cannot borrow money as cheaply, if he can borrow at all. Hence his industry languishes, his workman are put on half time, and suffering ensues .- Fayetteville Obser-

USR OF IT IN A CASE OF YELLOW FRVER

DR. WM. T. HOWARD, OF BALTIMORE. Professor of Diseases of Women and Children

the University of Maryland. Dr. Howard attests the common adapt this water in "a wide range of cases" with that if the far-famed White Sulphur Springs, in Green brier county, West Virginia, and adds the follow "Indeed, in a certain class of cases it is made superior to the latter. I allude to the abidit debility attendant upon the tardy convalescent Extracts from Communication on the Theraps Action of the Buffalo Lithia Water in the "Virginia Medical Monthly" for February, 1877.

"Their great value in Malarial Diseases and lequelos has been most abundantly and satisfactorily tested; and I have no question that it would torily tested; and I have no question that it would have been a valuable auxiliary in the treatment of the epidemic of Yellow Fever which so terming afflicted the Mississippi Valley during the passing summer. I prescribed it myself, and it gave prompt relief in a case of Suppression of Uring it Yellow Fever, and decidedly mitigated other in the property of the suppression resons and dangerous symptoms. The patient recovered, but how far the water may have considered to that result (having prescribed it in but a single case) I, of course, cannot undertake in say. There is no doubt, however, about the fact that its administration was altended by the most busk cial results."

[From Rev. CHAS. H. READ, D D., Paster Grace Street Presbyterian Church.l RICHMOND, VA. For several years I have used no other Hard Dressing than the Xanthine, which had been warmly recommended to me by a friend who had tested its value. It has, in my experience, accomplished all that is claimed for it as a wholesome preserver and restorer of the natural color of preserver and a thorough preventive of dandruff. CHAS. H. READ.
