Thrilling Scenes at a Chicago Fire-Four Lives Lost and Several Factory Girls Injured.

(By Telegraph to the Morning Star.) CHICAGO, Oct. 29 .- A long brick building situated on the southeast corner of Lasalle and Michigan streets, the lower floors of which were occupied by hide dealers and the upper part by Fisher's cigar box factory, caught fire at about noon and is at this hour—12.45—completely gutted. One man was killed by jumping from a window and two others were smothered on the stairs. Factory girls on the upper floors escaped with the greatest difficulty. It is believed all of them are safe. The loss will reach $100,000. The building was owned by Mr. Culvers, of Culver Place Hayne, and was a five-story structure occupied by Schrabel & Co., barbed wire manufacturerers, the Campbell Printing Press Company, Danhezier Bros., chewing gum manufacturers, and W. E. Fisher's cigar box factory. The latter was on the top story and employed twenty-one men and eighteen girls. The foreman of the shop, James Carr, got all of the thirty-seven souls together in good order and coolly led them to the fireproof stairs and safely to the ground. Troubled with doubt as to whether any were left behind, Carr quickly returned to the fifth story but remained a few moments too late, as the flames had cut off every avenue of escape. He hurried to the roof, and amid the wild excitement of thousands of people, he was thrown a rope from a building on the opposite side of the street, and making the line fast he commenced his perilous descent, while firemen held a heavy tarpaulin beneath him as a precaution. Suddenly the rope snapped under the man's weight or was burned by a sudden burst of flame, and Carr's body shot downward, head foremost, and to the horror of the crowd of people, went directly through the tarpaulin and was picked up with his neck broken and mangled almost beyond recognition. Another thrilling scene was taking place at the fire-escape from the chewing gum factory. Eighteen young girls, panic-stricken, came down pell mell, and when within twenty-five feet of the ground the last eight leaped to the pavement, falling in a confused heap. Fortunately only three of them were seriously injured; they receiving painful cuts and bruises.

Severe Storms on the Coast-A Steamer With Fifty-Seven Persons Lost-A Number of Other Wrecks Reported. [By Telegraph to the Morning Star.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—The following further particulars of storms on the coast of Lower California are learned this morning. The news is brought here by the captain of the steamer Newbern, from Guavmas. He says the steamer Estado De Sauora left Mazatlan September 29th. The first storm broke out on the following day; it raged with such terrific fury that the Estado was unable to put back, and it was supposed she rolled over and went down. with fifty-seven souls on board. Nothing whatever was afterwards heard of pas sengers or crew. October 14th the Newbern passed a large quantity of wrecked near the entrance to the Gulf of California. It was a pilot house, a mast, with a board attached, and a lot of brass work, which had been picked up by natives of San Jose island. They had stripped off all the wood part and burned it, leaving only the brass work. There were no marks on any of these, but it is believed they were all from the wrecked steamer. Some of the brass work was sent to Guaymas for the purpose of identifying it. The Estado was commanded by Capt. Rode, nephew of Capt. Charles Wilson, formerly Danish consul in this city.

The second storm began October 7th, and lasted several days. It was even more violent than the first. The only particulars received are from Cape St. Lucas. There was a tremendous sea running. The Newbern was unable to touch. She passed through fields of loose candles, believed to have been part of a cargo. The schooner Dora, out of all the small coasters, is the only one heard of. A small sloop, name unknown, had five souls on board; two of them were saved. A young boy, son of Mr. Greet, manager at Cape St. Lucas and a sailor. The latter held the boy sixteen hours in his arms in the water. Of the nine schooners lost, four were the San Pablo, Pedro, Cesne and Antonio. The names of the other five are unknown.

Business Troubles in Augusta-The President of the Enterprise Cotton Factory a Defaulter.

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] Augusta, Oct. 29.—M. J. Verdery & Co., brokers, have failed. Their liabilities are not stated. They were rated at from $10,000 to $20,000.

For several days past there have been rumors afloat of a heavy defalcation on the part of George T. Jackson, President of the Enterprise cotton factory, and a committee was appointed to investigate the books of the company. Jackson confesses to a defalcation, but cannot give the amount. He claims all responsibility for the deficit. Enough is already known from the investigating committee, however, to state that the defalcation is over $60,000 and may reach $100,000. The money, it is stated, was lost in various operations. Notwithstanding the defalcation the company is reported to be solvent and the mill will continue to run until the stockholders' meeting, November 8th. The matter creates general surprise, as Jackson has been one of the most prominent and public spirited citizen. It will be several days before the full amount of the deficit is known. The loss in running the Enterprise mill and the defalcation will together amount to $180,000. These losses will make the mill stand the stockholders in round numbers one million dollars. It is capitalized at $500,000 in stock and first mortgage bonds to the amount of $250,000. The mill cost, when finished, over $800,000. The developments here have created a sensation.
