BLAINE. The Plumed Knave's Speech at Augusta. [By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] NEW YORK, November 19.-In further comment upon Blaine's speech at Augusta, Maine, last night, the Herald says:

"In the civil war one great crime was at-tempted which honorable belligerents on either side regarded with unanimous horror-we mean the attempt to inoculate the country with yellow fever; but it pales in wickedness beside Blaine's attempt to inoculate the country with sectional passions, to tear open the healed wounds of the rebellion; to permeate the North with a sense of humiliation from the election of Gov. Cleveland to the Presidency; to infect freedmen's with a fear of re-enslavement; to inspire white workmen with the dread of freedmen, competition in their fields of labor; and to impeach the sincerity of the allegiance of all Southern white men.

"No rebuke is too severe for this villainous speech. And the shame of it is aggravated by the fact that it was as deliberate as it is dastardly. Blaine's words are not the unpremeditated harangue of hot temper. They are the studied utterances of cold blooded malignity. Since he cannot rule, he would ruin. He would curse his country with jealousy and discord and misery because he himself is jealous, discordant and miserable.

"But we believe that there is small danger of harm from such words as his at this day. We have faith that the evil he would wreak upon his country will be visited on his own head. If the Republican party does not unload itself of Blaine after this speech, it will add damnation to defeat,"

The World, under the caption "Vale Blaine," writes as follows: "Blaine organized a serenade for himself at Augusta last night, and in response to the music of the band delivered a carefully prepared speech, which will be regarded as his solemn valedictory. It was a speech full of cunning malignancy. It was the doctrine of hate intensified, as preached by Blaine before the idea occurred to him that he might, as candidate for President, obtain a few votes in the Southern States. In his hour of defeat and humiliation Blaine resumes his warfare upon the people of the section despoiled by the helots of the Republican party. There is little that is new in the voice from the valley of humiliation. The American people have heard recently about all that he has to say of the danger of admitting the South to full participation in the affairs of the Government, and about all he is able to say in regard to protecting our industries. The verdict pronounced against him has been emphatic. He has been told that he is not wanted. He has been told that his stories about the Southern people are slanders, and if he had more sensibility and a just shade of per sonal pride, he would have quickly subsided when the fiat was pronounced against him. Blaine seems determined, however, to leave nothing undone to prove that he is entitled to the contempt of all true friends of the republic. His implacable speech may distarb and disquiet the poor negroes of the South, but the country will see in it only the cowardly rancor of a defeated candidate and relegate it to the limbo of tin helmets, shrivelled plumes and other discarded campaign properties."

Supreme Court Decisions Affecting Insurance Companies. (By Telegraph to the Morning Star.)

Washington, November 19.—Decisions were rendered by the United States Su-preme Court to-day in cases No. 95—Robt. Frame, executor and plaintiff in error vs. the Mutual Assurance Company, of Virginia, and No. 96—Wallington Godden, executor, &c., plaintiff in error, vs. the Mutual Assurance Company, of Virginia. In error to the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia. The cases were dismissed, for want of jurisdiction. These were suits brought by the appel lant and plaintiff in error against the insurance company, to recover the amount of certain fire insurance policies issued by said company upon property in Richmond, Va., which was burned at the time that the city was captured by Federal troops in 1865. The insurance company refused to pay on the ground that by the express terms of its policies it was not liable for damages "from fire by civil war, commotion, insurrection or invasion of a foreign enemy," and that the fire in this case was due to one or all of these causes. The Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia rendered a decision in favor of the company, on the grounds that the fire was the

Many Deaths from a Fatal Disease in Buchanan and Dickerson Counties.

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] LYNCHBURG, November 19 .- A tale of leep distress comes from Buchanan and Dickerson counties. These counties occupy isolated positions in the extreme western part of Virginia. For a number of weeks a fatal disease has been prevalent there and many deaths have occurred. The nature of the disease is as yet undefined, but it is believed to arise from poisonous water. The drought that has continued there for months has nearly dried up all the streams, springs and wells. It is supposed that the water left is impregnated with mineral poisons. A reliable correspondent writing from there tells a pitiful story, and says that in some cases as many as four corpses were found in a single

Newton. late President of the Eclectic College, of the City of New York, and formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio, used DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM very extensively in his practice, as many of his patients, now living, and restored to health by the use of this invaluable medicine, can amply testify. He always said that so good a remedy ought not to be considered merely as a patent medicine, but that it ought to be prescribed freely by every physician as a severeign remedy in all cases of Lung diseases. It cures Consumption, and all pectoral complaints.

When the cases were appealed to this court, the question of jurisdiction was raised; the company maintained that the cases were not decided by the court below on a Federal question, and that consequently this court was without jurisdiction to review the decision.

At the conclusion of argument to day Chief Justice Waite announced as the opinion of the court that it had no jurisdiction of the cases and must therefore dismiss them, and it was so ordered.

The decision rendered in favor of the Insurance company by the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia now stands as a final settlement of the question, and relieves underwriters in Virginia and elsewhere from liability for a great quantity of property destroyed by fire in Richmond when that
