THE MORNING STAR.

VOL. XXXV.—NO. 60.

WILMINGTON, N. C., TUESDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1884.

WHOLE NO. 5681

MORNING EDITION.

Edmund W. Gosse, the English poet, is in New York.
Archbishop Gibbons, of Baltimore, is to be made a Cardinal.
Dr. Harvey L. Byrd, of Baltimore Medical College, is dead. He was a native of Georgia.

The Methodist Conference will adjourn to-day. We hope the members have enjoyed their visit and been pleased with Wilmington's hospitality.
There seems to be a general opinion in the North that better times are ahead. But the shutting down of mills still continues and this looks unfavorable.

The N. Y. Herald of Sunday contains confirmatory reports of the terrible plague that is devastating Southwestern Virginia and a part of Kentucky. The Scott County Banner, published at Estilville, in the very heart of the infected region, and conducted by a reliable and cautious journalist, says in his issue of Thursday, that 150 deaths have occurred in Wise, the adjoining county, within the past few days.

The Tory members are opposed to the Gladstone Redistribution bill after all. What is up? Only the other day, as was reported, Mr. Gladstone had lowered his flag—had surrendered, and the Radicals were in arms. Now, the Tories are aggrandized and the Radicals are up-graded. A special to the N. Y. Herald from London dated 29th ult., says:

"The government Redistribution bill differs very much from the original draft of the Ministers. It extends the principle of single membership to equal election constituencies with two members, and gives a great increase in the number of members from London and other populous centres."

At a session of the Mayor's Court yesterday morning.
Receipts of cotton yesterday totaled up 531 bales.
Our churches were all crowded on Sunday, to hear members of Conference.

W. D. Turner, agent of the Gas Williams Comedy Co., is in the city. They appear here Wednesday week.
The pressure upon our columns compels us to defer the publication of the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen until tomorrow.

One of our appreciative young gentlemen suggested to us yesterday that Conference had brought a large number of handsome ladies to our city.
Wilmington's Opportunity
The preliminary surveys of the proposed railroads from Wilmington to Onslow county and between Wilmington and Fayetteville; the latter to be a continuation of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Railroad, have been completed and the reports are now in the hands of the committee appointed to receive them. It is hoped and presumed that now the election, and its attendant excitements are over, some action will at once be taken looking to the introduction of the matter into the Legislature as early as possible in the approaching session and the securing therefrom acts of incorporation for those important enterprises. There should be no unnecessary delay in the matter.

A Joyous Season.
Our friends of the Fifth Street Methodist church had a joyous season Sunday afternoon, the occasion being a love feast, conducted by Revs. T. Page Ricard and J. C. Thomas, both former pastors of the church, while among those present and participating were Revs. Dr. Burkhead, Hall, Rhodes, Andrews, Bialoff and others, former pastors or otherwise connected with the church, and deeply sympathizing in all that concerns it.

The receipts of cotton at this port for the month of November footed up 20,806 bales, as against 20,013 bales for the corresponding month last year, an increase of 207 bales.
The receipts for the crop year commencing September 1st to date foot up 66,402 bales, as against 62,029 bales for the same period last year; an increase of 4,373 bales.

Death of a Worthy Citizen.

Mr. John H. Pugh, a well-known citizen of this place, died yesterday morning, after a lingering illness of consumption. Mr. Pugh was a brave Confederate soldier and lost an arm in the service of his country. He was an honest, upright citizen, and his death will be sincerely regretted and mourned by many in the community. He was recently Clerk of the Fourth Street Market. Deceased was a member of Orion Lodge No. 67, I. O. O. F., and of Carolina Lodge No. 424, Knights of Honor, in which latter he held a life policy for $2,000.

Death of Mrs. C. M. Payne.

We regret to learn that a telegram was received here yesterday announcing the death of Mrs. Cora Payne, wife of Rev. C. M. Payne, formerly of this city, which occurred at Concord about 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Her disease was pneumonia. Deceased was a native of Sampson county, and the daughter of the late Nell Murphy, of that county. Rev. Mr. Payne has the profound sympathies of the community in his great affliction.

Weather Indications.

The following are the indications for today:
For the South Atlantic States, partly cloudy weather and local showers, followed by fair weather, northwest to southwest winds, becoming variable, nearly stationary temperature.

Foreign Exports.

The following embrace the foreign shipments from this port yesterday: Schooner Grace Webster, Capt. Young, for Port-au-Paix, Hayti, with 204,720 feet of lumber, 150,000 shingles, 2 casks of spirits of turpentine and 2 barrels of pitch, valued at $2,988.62; the schooner Thos. W. Holder, Capt. McMillan, for St. Marc, Hayti, by Messrs. J. H. Chadbourne & Co., with 102,223 feet of lumber and 25,000 shingles; and the schooner Storjohann, Capt. Williams, for Montevideo for orders, with 355,897 feet of lumber, valued at $4,548.25. Total $8,907.48.

Superior Court.

A telegram was received from Judge Avery, yesterday, announcing that he will not be able to hold court until Wednesday. Indisposition is the cause of delay. A committee of the members of the bar will arrange the calendar and have it ready to commence on Wednesday morning.

RIVER AND MARINE.

The steamer River Queen was making ready to resume her trips up the river yesterday.

We learn that the dredges due here to be employed in dredging the Cape Fear river, have left Mobile for their destination.

Intelligence was received here yesterday to the effect that the steamer Wase had sunk near Whitehall, on her way down to this city. It is supposed that in consequence of the low stage of the water in the river she had run on a snag, which caused the accident.

The steamers A. P. Hurt, Capt. Worth, and Bladen, Capt. Green, arrived here from Fayetteville on Sunday, after an absence of over two months on account of the lowness of the water. They report a rise of from seven to ten inches, which don't amount to much.

Three pilots went out from Smithville on Friday last, and were caught outside in a gale of wind and it was feared that they were lost. It seems, however, that they went to the lights and remained on board of her until the storm abated, when they boarded a schooner and on Sunday came into Smithville all safe.

The schooner Dreadnaught, Capt. Cobb, which arrived here on Friday in tow of the steam tug Italian, reports having experienced a heavy gale on the 28th and 29th of November; the gale being at its height at midnight on the 29th, during which she sprung a leak. She was bound to St. Augustine, and had on board seven men, bound on a fishing cruise, and it took them all constantly at the pumps to keep her from sinking. She is now on the steam railway, a board of survey having ordered her to be re-caulked and to undergo other necessary repairs.

THE MUD BEL, OR SIREN OF THE RICE FIELDS.

Mr. William Watters, of Wilmington, has recently sent to the University Museum a specimen of mud bel (siren lacertina) in the rice fields of that region, but which is generally known under the name of lampry-eel. The specimen measures twenty-eight inches in length, is eel-like in general shape, but has tufted gills on the sides of the head, and two small forelimbs with four toes each; no hind limbs. The body is dark colored, nearly black, with small light colored spots in places, and purplish on the under side. The front part of the head is flattened, the mouth somewhat like that of a frog, but smaller, and having small teeth in the lower, and none in the upper jaw.

The mud bel is a very different animal from the lamprey, as the latter has no limbs, nor external gills, and has a large disc-shaped mouth adapted to fastening it to the bodies of fishes and other animals by suction. It is found in the Eastern swamps from North Carolina to Florida; principally in the muddy, low lands of the rice fields. It is believed to feed on insects, worms, and eggs of other animals living in similar places.

When in Wilmington, a few days since, I was informed that one of these mud bels had been caught which possessed hind limbs as well as fore limbs. If another such is found I will be glad if the finder will communicate with the Natural History Department of the University on the subject. J. A. HOLMES, University of North Carolina, Nov. 24.

REMARKABLE ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Interesting Personal Experience of a Well Known Philadelphia Lady.
From the Philadelphia Times.
The following remarkable statement, lately made to one of our reporters, is vouched for by Captain Harry Mitchell, residing at No. 816, Jarvis street, a prominent member of the First ward, and formerly Captain of the Watch at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. Mr. Mitchell happened to know that he had lately devoted considerable time to the investigation of cases where people rather had resulted from the use of that now famous medicine, Brown's Iron Bitters, and meeting the reporter the other day in front of Independence Hall, said: "I can tell you of something that I never expected to hear of, and which I had to go down to town yesterday that she had been rescued from the very jaws of death by using Brown's Iron Bitters. She is an intimate family acquaintance of mine, and I knew she had been very sick and was hardly expected to live from hour to hour. I was, therefore, more than astonished to meet her on the street, in apparent good health. I expressed my pleasure and surprise, when she informed me that she had never expected to leave her home alive again, and that she had been most miraculously cured by using Brown's Iron Bitters. "Who is the lady and where does she live?" our reporter inquired. "Her name is Mrs. Margaret Springfield, and she resides at No. 212 Pierce street. She is the mother of a growing family of children, and is well known in the southern section of the city." Capt. Mitchell then offered a personal introduction to Mrs. Springfield, and an appointment was made. They accordingly met and proceeded together to Mrs. Springfield's residence. The lady was not at home, but was found at the house of her daughter, corner of Eighth and Tasker streets. Our reporter states as follows: "I found Mrs. Springfield a well-preserved, elderly lady, of pleasing manners and good conversational powers. Learning the object of our visit, she made the following statement in the presence of Captain Mitchell and her daughter: 'I can say that I thought I was on my death-bed, and none of my family or friends believed I would recover. People were calling at my house continually asking about me, and from day to day I was supposed to be dying. I am quite well now, and I can say that I consider my wonderful recovery entirely due to the use of Brown's Iron Bitters. I began to use it for three weeks, and for at least five weeks I could not eat anything. My greatest trouble was excessive pains in my side and breast, and I had the worst kind of malarial systems. I became so weak that I could not even lift my hand, and was completely prostrated all over. For some time I really felt more dead than alive. I know I contracted a very heavy cold, and it seemed to permeate every part of my system. I suffered terribly, and got so bad that I could not take anything at all. In sheer desperation I resolved to try Brown's Iron Bitters because of something I had read about it. I sent for a bottle and commenced taking it, and to my great delight and astonishment I began to feel a sense of relief at once. I continued using it, and it seemed to drive out the pains in my breast. I began to gain a little strength, and my appetite gradually returned. Brown's Iron Bitters appeared to be just the thing my prostrated condition required, and, as I have said, I believe it saved my life. Certainly I never took anything in my life that did me so much good.'

ONE WEEK MORE AND OUR HOLIDAY SEASON will begin, and we shall throw open our doors to old Santa Claus, to give him the warmest welcome he has had for many a year; but, like many other old-fashioned people, the Jolly Saint is set on his notions, and insists upon plenty of room for the display of his multifarious treasures—his stacks of Toys, his thousands of Dolls his Velocipedes, his Drums and Trumpeets, and all the rest of his Christmas paraphernalia. To get this room is the problem before us this week. We can only do it by clearing out the goods now on hand, and we know by experience that the surest way to do that is to mark them at prices which shall represent, not their cost or value, but our anxiety to get rid of them.
