A duel is said to be brewing betteen Capt. E. P. Howell, of the Atlanta Constitution, and Col. Albert R Lamar, of the Macon Telegraph. On the 1st of March Col. Vilas had received no appointment. On that day he left Madison, Wis., for Washington, and was not confident of being honored.

A Kentucky devil named Mose Caton actually murdered his wife by hanging her to a tree. He lived in Union county. He ought to be hanged, and we hope he will be.

Representative Dibble, of S. C., says an extra session of the Congress is needed. He makes an excellent suggestion that the new House Committees should be appointed at once so as to be ready to report in December.

It was bound to come. Here it is at last. The following is a new account of "painting the town red." Wm. Geoghegan, of New York, writes to the Sun that in the Irish war songs expressions often occur much resembling the above. The following verses he cites from an old Irish song on a fight in 1798:

"The hills and skies were painted red That night with beacon fires, For Wexford's sons had well avenged Their Saxon-siaughtered sires.

The Cabinet is not certain. It may be changed to-day even. Read the following from the Washington special to the Philadelphia Times, dated 1st

"The fact that Senators Bayard, Lamar or Garland do not publicly or even privately declare their purpose to go into the new Cabinet, is a clear indication that the whole Cabinet is held subject to possible revision at the last moment. When Cabinet officers of the past have been called from Congress, and especially from the Senate, the fact was made known to the public long before

When the University was a dead, decaying thing, a Baptist editor, Rev. Dr. J. D. llutham, was the first journalist in the State to plead for its resuscitation -Ra-

This is probably an error. In 1867 the Warrenton Indicator contained a column and a half editorial on the subject. It was from the pen of him who writes this correction. The article not only urged the resuscitation of the University, but it diseassed the plan of re-organizing.

Kassala, the second largest city in Soudan, with 20,000 inhabitants, is said to be in great peril from the Mahdi. It is the keystone in the line of frontier strong holds which are holding out against the Mahdi. Kassala, Sanheit, Ambib, Ghira, and Gullabat are all resisting the force of the rebels. Kassala has already been besieged for a whole year. It is now known that the Arabs massacred full 2,000 of soldiers and citizens at

For last week Bradstreet's reports 270 failures in the United States, as against 354 the week before and 152 in 1882. The South furnished as follows: Alabama and North Carolina, 3 each; Arkansas, 3; South Carolina, 4; Georgia, 5; Virginia and West Virginia, 6 each; Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi and Tennessee, 7 each; Louisiana, 8; Texas, 12. Those from North Carolina were: Monroe-E. Dry, general store, assigned; Liberty-0. T. Hatch & Brother, general store, assigned.

The Silver men in the House have replied to Mr. Cleveland's letter. They deny that he was invited to reply or that it was necessitated. They will have charge of the North Carolina disposition of Dr. Carmichael.

asked him not to commit himself. The Charleston News and Courier heads the Congressional letter: "A Silver blunderbus. The big answer to Cleveland's little letter. Specious arguments and misrepresentations used by the Silver Cabal in Congress to counteract the effect of the able and common sense statement of the President-elect upon the public mind." It says:

"The continued coinage of silver would inevitably result in a contraction of the currency, and would precipitate a financial crists involving all our commercial and in-dustrial interests. 'Saddest of all,' as Mr. Cleveland says, "in every workshop, mill, actory, store, and on every railroad and farm the wages of labor, already depressed, rould suffer still further depression by the scaling down the purchasing power of every so called dollar paid into the hand of

The Chattanooga Times, referring to the opinion of the Memphis Avalanche, that that city and Philadelphia should have a fair share of colored policeman, has this to say, and with it the STAR mainly agrees:

"This judgment will hardly be approved by the more dispassionate observers among citizens of cities where colored policemen have been tried to an extent sufficient to test the policy of their employment. We here in Chattanooga have had pretty full experience with colored men on our police force, and it is by no means an exclusively Southern or Democratic opinion that, on the whole, they have proved failures in that capacity. The test was fairly made, Democratic and Republican Boards divid ing the force between the races for several years. And we do not believe a dozen responsible and educated citizens of any party will now favor a return to that prac-

We are glad to see that Hon. Henry G. Thurner, one of the Representatives from Georgia, has taken such a high stand in the House. The staff correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle, who writes the most readable and useful letters we see coming from Washington to a Southern paper,

"Hon. Henry G. Turner's speech yesterday in defence of Mr. Hammond's ruling on the Hennepin canal clause of the River and Harbor bill, was one of those masterly efforts for which he has become so distinguished. The great lawyers of the House listened attentively as did nearly all mem-bers, except Smalls."

Mr. Turner is a native of North Carolina.

Gen. Rosecrans, Northern Democratic General and Representatives, does not like Gen. Grant. Grant was very severe on him in the war. Referring to the bill to retire Grant, he said a few days ago to a Washington Post reporter:

"It ought not to pass," he remarked with considerable emphasis, 'for his conduct in financial matters in New York was so much worse than Gen. Swaim's here in Washing ton that if he had been in the army he would have been retired by the finding of a court martial.' The General said he would think himself rich if he was worth onetenth as much as Grant.'

There will be no need of any Congressional action, as Grant will be "retired"forever before many months.

Matters Pertaining to the Approach ing Election. In order to give a proper understanding of the act published in our advertising columns this morning, amending section 1 and repealing section 2 of chapter 308 laws of 1883, being an act to amend section 5, chapter 192 of the laws of 1876 and 1877, relative to the City of Wilmington, w make the following explanation: Section 1 is so amended that only the name of the person, the number of the house and the number of the ward (and sub division of ward, if any there be) in which he resides, is required to be stated by the applicant for registration, it not now being necessary to specify the lot and the number of the block on which he resides; as heretofore. Section 2, which is repealed, required the Board of Aldermen to have each block and lot properly numbered at least thirty days before any election held under the requirements of the first section, and the number of the block to be printed in large etters and placed on two posts of each block, and the number of each lot to be printed in large letters and put in each end of the lots in some convenient place, and notice of the same to be published for one week thereafter in the city papers.

All this was thought to be rendered unnecessary by the numbering of the houses; hence the change, which, we understand, will result in considerable saving to the

The Fire Yesterday Morning.

Yesterday morning, between 11 and 12 o'clock, the alarm of fire in the first district caused a stampede in that direction, when it was discovered that a small dwelling house on the hill in the neighborhood of the Carolina Central depot (southwest corner of Third and Bladen streets) was in flames. A brisk breeze was blowing from the southwest at the time and the fire soon communicated to a two-story dwelling on the corner, owned by Evand McBride, colored. The house in which the fire originated, owned and occupied by Melvina White, colored, was completely destroyed, and the McBride house, occupied by a colored widow by the name of Caroline Butler, was so badly damaged as to be of but little service, The next house adjoining, the corner house on the south, also the property of McBride, who occupied it, was saved by the exertions of the firemen, everything in it having been removed. & It was considerably damaged by water. A house in an adjoining square, occupied by a family named Rogers, caught fire on the roof, but a stream was quickly gotten upon it and the flames were speedily extinguished.

McBride's loss was about $600 and Caroline White's about $125, on which there was no insurance. McBride's insurance had but lately expired and he had not re-

The families saved most of their furniture. Mr. C. D. Morrill was damaged to the extent of about $10.

Mayor's Court. The first case called yesterday morning was that of Spencer Stanford, colored. The evidence was to the effect that he was acting very disorderly at the corner of Seventh and Chesnut streets, Monday afternoon, when Officer J. D. Orrell opportunely arrived at the scene and arrested him. The prisoner, who had been drinking heavily. offered a stubborn resistance, but was finally lodged in the guard house. He was required to pay a fine of $5.

Mag E. Williams, colored, who was shouting and screaming on Nutt street, Monday night, alarming the entire neighborhood, and who was finally arrested by Officer Woebse, was ordered to pay a fine of $5 or go below for thirty days.

Jas. Hughes, charged with disorderly conduct, did not put in an appearance and his case was continued until this morning.

Fire Last Night.

No report has heretofore been made of her, and there is some anxiety to find out her name and where she sailed from. Some of the life-saving crew, we understand, report having seen the vessel when she went down. Several vessels passing in that vicinity have reported having seen barrels of molasses floating in the neighborhood of the wreck, and one of them (s brig now in port) counted as many as
