And now Mrs. Garfield is to marry again. She is to marry Rev. William M. Taylor, a Presbyterian minister of fifty years. He lives at Pittsburg, Pa., and a special says:

"Mr. Taylor now visits the home of Mrs. Garfield frequently, and in a delicate way his congregation have been made to understand that the marriage will take place some time during the coming summer. The groom, while not an eloquent preacher, is a man of scholarly attainments and much endeared to his congregation."

The Savannah News, long one of the largest and best of the Southern papers, is now out in eight page form. We cannot say that we are particularly pleased with the change, but the News at least publishes enough matter to justify the assumption of eight pages. It is in fact about the largest paper in the South Detween Philadelphia and New Oreans.

fractured by the blow. — The mortgage business is powerfully lively this spring. During the month ended yesterday, 609 liens and mortgages were recorded with the register of deeds at the court house in this city. An unpleasantly large amount of an unpleasant business. — Matthews, a small station on the Carolina Central Railroad, will sell this season 1,000 tons of guano, which will call for $85,000 next fall. The sales of fertilizers seem to be unusually large everywhere this year. — Some excitement was created in the neighborhood of Mt. Holly yesterday afternoon over the news that Mr. Workman Cherry, a citizen of that place had been drowned in the Catawba river. Mr. Cherry who was yet weak and feeble from the effects of a long siege of sickness left his home early yesterday morning for the banks of the Catawba, to indulge in the sport of fishing. Not returning at the expected time his friends became alarmed and went in search of him. Where he had been fishing they found his basket with several fish in it, and his empty boat lay on the water by the bank. The surrounding circumstances indicate that Cherry's body is in the river. — The people of Wadesboro have been considerably shocked over the brutal murder of an old colored man on the streets of that town night before last, by an inebriated white man from Polkton named Diggs. The murdered man was named

Sandy Cash, an old colored man who had long been known in Wadesboro, and who was generally held in respect by his neigh-bors. Sandy was shot down on the streets of Wadesboro by Diggs and died instantly. The murder, from all accounts was a cold blooded affair, being entirely unprovoked.
Diggs managed to get several extra drinks in Wadesboro, and then made his way to the premises of a lady whose husband was absent from home. His antics alarmed the lady, and she called Sandy and asked him to get the man out of the yard. Sandy approached the man in a friendly manner, and persuaded him to take his departure. The politeness of the old darkey evidently had a good effect upon Diggs, and the inebriate departed on good terms with Sandy. That night Diggs met Sandy on the street, and without a word drew his pistol and commenced firing upon the defenseless darkey. Sandy fell and expired instantly. Diggs was arrested and placed in jail. — Washington dots: Major Gay and Mr. Joseph Davis are the chief contestants for the Wilson postoffice. - Mr. George H. Gregory, chairman of the Democratic executive committee in the Fifth District, will receive the appointment of postmaster at Greensboro. — The postoffice fight at Statesville is lively. The five aspirants are Messrs. C. A. Carlton, W. E. Anderson W. G. Lewis, W. H. Morrison and J. K. Morrison. ——Strong influence is enlisted on each side of the contest for the postmastership at Tarboro. Mrs. Gen. Pender has a fine backing, including one or more of

The Court House. Sheriff Manning has taken up his quarters in his new office, on the opposite side of the passage from where he was formerly located. It has been handsomely fitted up, and is neat and stylish, as well as light and pleasant. The old office is now being fitted up for a room for the grand jury to hold their deliberations in.

floating in the river opposite the city yesterday afternoon, and Coroner Jacobs was notified of the fact. The body was secured and the remains viewed, when they proved to be those of Kitty Harvey, the colored stewardess of the ill-fated steamer Wave, which exploded her boiler and sunk on the west side of the river some weeks ago. Inquest Over the Remains of the Stray Infant-The Body of Another Infant Pound, Coroner Jacobs held an inquest yesterday over the remains of an infant found in the Walker lot by Amos Talley, colored, an employe of the city, an account of which was published in yesterday's paper. It was at first pronounced a mulatto child. but Dr. Potter was unable to decide whether it was white or colored. The jury returned a verdict that "the deceased came. to her death by some foul play by some party or parties unknown to the jury."

There have been no further developments tending to elucidate the mystery surrounding the appearance of the infant at the spot

The body of another dead infant was found yesterday, about 1 o'clock, just beyond the Fourth street bridge, over the C. C. Railroad, in a box scarcely hid under the earth. On the lid of the box appeared the name of "Polly Hawkins, Harnett street." Near one corner of the box were the figures 16, intended, 16 supposed, to denote the weight of the box. The remains were in such a state of decomposition that nothing could be ascertained about the child. Chief of Police Brock having been notified, sent an officer out to guard the remains until the arrival of the Coroner. whom he notified. No inquest was held in this case. Both bodies were buried by the Coroner at the expense of the county.

An Iron Bridge Across Smith's Creek, To morrow morning, at 11 o'clock, a joint meeting of the Board of Magistrates and the Board of County Commissioners will be held, for the purpose of taking into consideration the building of an iron bridge across Smith's Creek, in place of the present wooden structure known as "Little Bridge." Such a bridge, in our opinion, will not only prove a great convenience. but the construction of it will be an absolute stroke of economy on the part of the county fathers. The wooden bridge has been almost constantly out of repair, and the work upon it has cost no little, to say nothing of the annoyance consequent upon its being so frequently in a dilapidated condition. Another thing is to be considered, and that is the fact, as we understand, that a bridge of this character can be built cheaper just now than at any other time, consequent upon the cheapness of material and labor. Let us have the iron bridge, by all means.

THE FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE OF THE NURSERY.—The following is an extract from a letter written to the German Reformed Messenger, at Chambersburgh, Penn.: A BENEFACTRESS. Just open the door for her, and Mrs. Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the Nursery. Of this we are so sure, that we will teach our "Susy" to say, "A blessing on Mrs. Winslow" for helping her to survive and escape the griping, colleking, and teething siege. Mas. Winslow's Soothing Sybur relieves the child from pain, and cures dysentery and diarrhesa. It softens the gums, reduces inflammation, cureswind colle, and carries the infant safely through the teething period. It performs precisely what it professes to perform, every part of it—nothing less. We have never seen Mrs. Winslow—know her only through the preparation of her "Soothing Syrup for Children Teething." If we had the power we would make her, as she is, a physical saviour to the infant race. Sold by all druggists, 25 cents a bottle.
