When Grant was asked if he would accept a place under Arthur he replied no, as no man who had been President could afford to accept a lower place under another. He dislikes Blaine and John Sherman and believes that but for them he would have been elected President for a third term. He may yet do so. Who knows? Of his manners and temper the Washington special correspondent of the New York World

'He may have softened some during the past few years, but all through the days of his power he was particularly noticeable for the strength of his likes. He was never hypocritical, however. He never could colorate about him a person who was not agreeable to him. His rudeness to people that he did not like made him a great many enemies. When he was President he would not permit the representative of an unfriendly newspaper to see him or to speak to him."

A Well-Known Resident Gets Tired of Life and |Kills Himself With an Overdose of Laudanum.

Mr. Archie McCollum, a well-known

resident of this city, died yesterday morning, shortly after 10 o'clock, from the effects of an overdose of laudanum administered by his own hand and with suicidal intent. Deceased was residing at the time with his brother-in-law, Mr. John H. Hanby, on Sixth, between Dock and Orange streets. Mr. Hanby sat up until a late hour, being engaged in writing and other matters connected with his business, and in the meantime Mr. McCollum retired to his room. Mr. Hanby heard him moving about at intervals, and at about 11 o'clock it is stated that he went out for a short time, and it was then, it is supposed, that he purchased the laudanum. Finally, Mr. Hanby retired, it being then about 2 o'clock, and shortly afterwards Mrs. Hanby thought she heard her brother breathing very badly, when she hurried to his room up stairs. The moment she entered she was horrified at the fumes of laudanum which greeted her, while stretched across the bed was the form of her brother, apparently in a deep stupor. She hurriedly summoned assistance, and every effort was made to restore life and consciousness to the unfortunate man, but without avail, if we may except a slight recognition of the presence of Rev. Father Moore, of St. Thomas' Catholic Church, who had been sent for. Drs. Ellis and Potter soon reached the bedside of the sufferer, and with stomach pumps attempted to relieve him of the deadly drug. which, however, had taken too firm a hold upon his system for their efforts to avail the dying man, although a large amount of the poison was taken from the stomach, He continued to grow worse, despite every effort to the contrary, until about 16 o'clock, when he breathed his last, having in the meantime received at the hands of Rev. Father Moore the last rites of the

In 1878, during the prevalence of yellow fever in Memphis, Tenn., and when nurses were in demand to attend the sick and dying in that stricken city, Mr. McCollum, with Mesers. John C. Bauman and Geo. Poppe, all of Wilmington, volunteered and started directly for the scene of suffering. They remained there during the continuance of the plague, or until it had well nigh spent itself, when Messrs. Bauman and Poppe came home. Mr. McCollum did not accompany them. but went to New Orleans, where there was some fever, and from there to Texas. It was only about two or three years ago that he returned home, since which time he has been employed as a grocery clerk and in other positions, being at the time of his death in the service of Mr. Hanby. He was a married man, but was separated from his wife some years ago, which may in some measure account for the rash act. He leaves one child, a boy, who lives with his mother in this city. Deceased was about 39 years of age.

The Fruit Crop.

So far as we have heard, the cool snaps and frosts have as yet affected the fruit crop very little, if any. Capt. R. P. Paddison, of Point Caswell, who is an extensive peach grower, says his trees show no signs of injury. He thinks the prospect is good for a bounteous crop of fine fruit. The full moon which falls near the last of the month, he thinks too late in the season to cause much apprehension. And then the shortness of the nights is a great advantage. In Wilmington many of the trees have shed their blooms and the peaches so far are looking fine.

Railroad Meeting Yesterday. A meeting of the corporators named in the act of the General Assembly of North Carolina, authorizing the organization of the Wilmington, Onelow & East Carolina Railroad Company, was held in the City Hall building, in the city of Wilmington, yesterday, at 11 o'clock A. M., at which the following persons named in the act were present: Roger Moore, J. H. Currie, William Calder, B. F. Hall, A. H. VanBekkelen, James B. Huggins, F. W. Kerchner, Sol. Bear, E. W. After considerable discussion, participated in by Mr. VanBokkelen, Col. Moore, Maj. McClammy, Mr. Currie and others, both as to the necessity of the work and best means of securing its speedy completion, Mr. VanBokkelen offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved. That a committee of five of the corporators be appointed as an executive committee, to act for the corporators named in the act, to whom shall be delegated all the powers conveyed in section 4 of the Act of incorporation.

The chairman appointed as said committee Messrs. Roger Moore, A. H. VanBokkelen and James B. Huggins, of New Hanover county; Mr. Joseph T. Foy, of Pender county, and Mr. H. E. King, of Onslow county.

On motion the meeting then adjourned. The Misseltoe.

A gentleman of knowledge and experience in such matters, and .who is a become of sufficient size are such a source of beauty and comfort in towns and cities, says now is the time to remove the deadly misseltoe, which dwarfs and kills so many of our finest trees. It is said to be especially partial to the oak, which, is our main dependence in the way of shade trees, while it saps the life from them more readily than any other tree. Our friend says he removes it from his trees by using a long staff, with a chisel attached to the end of it, armed with which he climbs as high into the tree as necessary and then accomplishes his purpose. All persons whose trees are in danger of being blighted by this parasitical plant should see that they are removed at
