EVENING EDITION AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP ABROAD

The Government of the United States may have to assert the doctrine of American citizenship as it has done in the past. This country has grown too powerful for foreign countries to be allowed to deal with naturalized American citizens as they may choose. From time to time questions are arising involving the rights of citizens born in other countries. Under Garfield there were certain Irish cases. Recently two dynamiters were tried in London and found guilty. They were Irish-Americans. The other day in Ecuador there was a case involving the rights of one Santos. Then in Hayti a man by the name of Van Bokkelen is in trouble, and his citizenship is brought into the question. Then Prince Bismarck is known to hold views regarding Germans who have been duly naturalized as citizens of the United States that may some day seriously involve the United States. He is a man of imperialistic ideas, and he is for applying them both at home and abroad. The New York News, in a well considered editorial says of the autocratic tendencies of the able Chancellor:

"The Government at Berlin assumes the right of excluding from the privilege of reience within the empire of the children born in America, of naturalized citizens of this country of German birth, in all cases in which they have sojourned in Germany two years and held themselves exempt from military and other national service. "The Government of the United State cannot consistently agree to such a proposi-tion. Whether as regards what constitutes a renunciation of American citizenship by Americans abroad, or conditions of officia nent of those of our people who may reside two years or longer in foreign lands, the doctrine is not to be recognized at Wash ington that any foreign Government shall have authority of arbitrary dictation.

"The simplest and most American policy for our Government to maintain upon the subject lies in the vindication of the princi-ple that citizens of the United States, natu-ralized and native born, shall have equal rights at home and abroad."

The United States can not refuse to do less than insist that all German born naturalised as American citizens must be as safe in their native country as if under the American flag at home. If the German Government can disregard this claim has done for some fifteen or more with impunity then there are but | years, we do not well see how Senatwo courses left open for the tor Zeb would be able to restrain his United States to pursue: to either tongue so vexed would be his righteabandon the practice of admitting to citizenship German born subjects or to vindicate the rights of American citizenship. As long as this Government admits to the rights of American citizenship the subjects of European monarchies it cannot afford to discriminate between natives and foreigners in the matter of citizen-discharge of his high office in so far as protecting American citizens is involved. The protecting sigis of the United States shall cover all citi-

ECONOMIC PACTS.

There has been one error that has been studiously inculcated by Protec tion speakers and writers. Blaine, in his speeches last year, rung the changes upon the statement that the High Protective period was the period of greatest prosperity for the United States. Now this is not only misleading but it is ignorance. As soon as we saw Blaine's first speech in which he uttered this misguiding statement we appealed to the official figures and showed how egregious was his blunder. We turned to the very able and even eloquent speech of Secretary Lamar for the precise facts and figures.

It is simply a matter of history that the United States prospered beyond all previous or subsequeut experience under the Walker Tariff and that by Protection they have lost prodigeously. Do you wish the proof? If you could read Lamar's speech you would have the answer. We nave not the copy at hand and have not time to search over our files for the statistics. We find in the Boston Post some banking figures that are instructive:

"The bank commissioners of 1881 and 1882 give the following showing one decade under the Walker tariff, the other under the present Protective tariff:

From 1850 to 1860, increase in number of savings banks...... From 1850 to 1860, increase of number of deposits...... 230

From 1870 to 1880, under protection: Increase in number of savings banks. . 18 Increase in number of accounts..... Increase in amount of deposits...... The above shows how much the common people make up of this plunder of $500,-000,000 yearly."

The exports and tonnage of Great Britain make an argument for com parative Free Trade that is unanswerable. Under Protection the United States have steadily depreciated in spite of the enormous growth in population and accumulation of wealth. In 1871 Great Britain's tonnage arriving and clearing was 31,624,680 tons; in 1879 it had grown to 43,326,980 tons. In 1850, when it had just begun to enter upon its Free Trade career of prosperity, it had control of 33 per cent. of the trade of the whole world; but in 1878 it had control of 57 per cent. of the entire trade of the world. Great Britian is only half the size of Texas.

The latest tables at hand show these results as to manufacturers.

England imported $148,000,000 and exported $804,000,000. The United States inported $212,500,000 and exported $44,800,000. That is to say, that while the United States exported 86 cents per head of population, Great Britain exported, actually exported, $22.94 per head.

IKE YOUNG INQUIRED AFTER.

A Democrat in a Southern State writes to us to learn if that "terrible Radical, Ike Young, has been turned out of office." He adds, and with significant directness: "If he has not been turned out and has been reappointed I am no longer a Democrat. Please let me know." We regret to say that up to this time this boss Radical is still in office. He has been boasting that he was a "mugwump" and was in a fair way to be retained. He has renewed his bond, we understand, and is allowed to hold on for the present. Why this is done we have no knowledge. We must suppose that he is doomed and will walk the plank. But when is not yet revealed by the Powers. If he is not turned out we may suppose that Senator Vance will be ess inclined to laud and magnify the Administration, All North Carolinians know how bitter and sarcastic our able Senator has been through the years in his denunciation of "the red legged grasshoppers." If Ike Young was to be allowed to keep his nose well down to the swill trough until 1889, he ous soul.

We think we may tell our correspondent that some time hence Ike will wake up some fine morning to behold his official head lying in the saw dust. In the meantime he is having built a palatial residence at Henderson. And why not? The late Richard C. Badger said that at ship when the rights of either are, one time he knew Ike's salary to invaded or their persons interfered be more than $19,000 a year. It was less afterward. We intended to express our satisfaction at the selection of the eminent and venerable R. M. T. Hunter as collector at Tappahanock The pay is small, but it will help take care of the most distinguished of living Virginians with the exception of Gen. Jo Johnston. Mr. Hunter deserves a far better place. He has filled a conspicuous place in the public eye, and is really one of the ablest men of his State in the last fifty years. He is now an old man, nearly 80, and he is a man of high character and many virtues. The Norfolk Virginian says:

"Previous to the war Mr. Hunter represented Virginia in Congress. He was Speaker of the House of Representatives. and Senator for nearly ten yerrs, being also chairman of the Finance Committee. He represented Virginia in the Confederate Senate, and was Secsetary of State of the Confederacy. Since the war he has been Treasurer of Virginia. The public career of Mr. Hunter is not an exceptional one, for ex President Tyler, after his term of office, was elected road overseer, and dis charged the duties of the position with a fidelity equal to that with which had discharged the duties of President. CURRENT COMMENT.

-- Senator Hawley has been talking high tariff to the Young Republicans of New Haven. He opposes free trade, or any near approach to it, even if it be the "natural" law. "I am not sure," he says, "that we ought to try and live entirely by nature. If we believe in the Bible and the supernatural, we ought to try and lift ourselves above nature." This is queer reasoning in favor of going to Congress to get our business regulated. Senator Hawley has been accused by envious persons of confusing himself with a supernatural" being, but we never heard that he made the same mistake as to Congress, or even the Senate. as a body. Besides, if he will read his Bible carefully, he will find a very shrewd description of the operation of a high protective tariff in the words of Solomon: "An inheritance may be gotten hastily at the begining; but end thereof shall not be blessed." The son of David, King of Israel, did not pretend as much economic wisdom as Senator Hawley, but he has given us a very fair description of the course of several American industries under the Senator's "supernatural" guidance.-N. Y. Times, Rep.

--- Rev. Sam Jones has some simple, pathetic utterances that go home to many hearts. The other day he said: "And some day, when] leave this old world-and sometimes I think I don't care how soon-I'll go happy, if I'm faithful. I don't know what I'll do when I get to heaven, but I knew the sweetest thing there will be to see my wife there, too, and to see, some day, an archangel bring us our children." He might have added that one of the sweetest hopes of heaven is for parents to be welcomed there by their children who went before along the shining pathway of the stars. - Augusta Chronicle.

VICE PRESIDENT HEND-RICKS.

What he Thinks About President

Cleveland's Policy. Indianapolis, Ind., May 23,-Vice President Hendricks arrived at his home here at noon to-day. He is in excellent health, and is looking better than he has for years. He said "I have been exceedingly busy in Washington, and am glad to get back home. During the conversation which followed, and which was by no means in the nature of an interview, Mr. Hendricks said: "I think the Administration is getting along very well. A great many people do not understand that it is necessary for a new Administration, that is almost totally unacquainted with the details of the Government, to go quite slow-ly and cautiously, and this Mr. Cleveland and his Cabinet are doing. There is a feeling, however, that the Administration has not been decided enough of Democratic principle in important services in helping keep enough in various ways."

"Do you think that there will be sweeping and general removal of the Republican office holders through out the country?" I would not put it that strongly, responded Mr. Hendricks, "but I do think that there will by a great many removals made. Yes, so far as I know; the Administration, in a general way, is receiving the cordial support of the leading Democrats of the country, with possibly a few exceptions in the direction I have indicated-that is, that the President has been possibly a little too conservative in certain respects." PREMIER GLADSTONE'S WIFE.

Mr. Gladstone is accused of being jolly and jaunty of late. but it is not always mentioned that on all festival occasions, whether at an artists breakfast or a theatre party, Mrs. Gladstone is always at his side, as was the case with Mrs. Disraeli, and her lord. Though not handsome, she has a fine, kindly Englishmatron presence, and has exercised great influence over him all through his life. "Let me ask Catharine" was a constant saying of his before deciding on important political questions, She has great sagacity and discretion. Many ladies and gentlemen of remarkable astuteness in their own estimation have endeavored in vain to glean from her the faintest inkling of coming events and her aplomb is as remarkable as her discretion.

A Sensitive Nature. Texas Siftings.

Two not very prepossessing-looking gentlemen were toasting their feet at a stove in the back room of a saloon. One of them was reading a newspaper. Suddenly he exclaimed: Why, Sam and Bill Boggs have been stealing horses in Kansas. Bill was captured and is to be tried for it, but Sam was shot and killed while running from the Sheriff." "You don't say so! Well, I am glad Sam was killed. I knew them boys. I am glad Sam did not survive, for he was very high-toned, and it would have almost killed him to have had his brother convicted of stealing. He was too sensitive, Sam was-had too much family pride to succeed in a rough frontier country."

The Tall Tower Smashed. N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

We do not think that fair-minded men who have read the attack made upon Mr. George V. N. Lothrop, of Detroit, the newly appointed Minister to Russia, by a New York morning contemporary, and who have read Mr. Lothrop's reply, can doubt that gentleman's integrity in the premises, or the propriety of the action of the Michigan Legislature, which yesterday, at Republican instance, passed a unanimous resolution in both Houses expressive of the highest respect for Mr. Lothrop and of condemnation for his assailant.

John Grap's First Sermon. Boston Post.

"Sairy," observed John Grap, as he retured from his first visit to church, "I heard a funny thing up to the church." "What was it?" Why the minister was a tellin' about a friend of his whose boy ran away from home and left the old man and his brother to do all the work, but after awhile got sick of it and came back, and when he got home the old man gave him a big dinner. I swow if he'd a been my boy I'd a give him a good lickin'." "What was his name, John, did the minister say? "Yes, he said as it was 'The Prodiga Son.' You don't know 'em, do you?'

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

The valley of Valley River would furnish asy for all North Carolina if it were put in grass, as it ought to be. There is no limit to stock or dairy facilities if wisely applied. Nature and the country are not in fault All rests with the people. Industry, thrift, good judgment in the people will vindicate a high opinion of Western North Carolina. Fruits, potatoes, grasses, the dairy, together with the stock raising, combined with mineral and forest wealth, furnish material enough, properly utilized, to justify the most extravagant eulogiums on Western North Carolina.—Asheville Citizen.

The Democracy is therefore dependent for its future success upon its friends and supporters and not upon those of its opponents, which for a proper and successful administration of public affairs a Demo cratic administration must select for its offl cials and agents men who are in political accord and sympathy with the Democratic party. Any other idea is simply an absurd ty, and any other course leads to the inevitable defeat and destruction of the Democracy. What is known as the "civil service rule," when applied to practical politics, is the veriest humbug of the age.—New Berne

Happy Thought in the Night.

For years Mr. Jas. R. Ackley, of 163 West Fayette street, Baltimore, had suffered with neuralgia so that he could hardly sleep. But he writes, "One night I was suffering very much, and the thought struck me that Brown's Iron Bitters would do me some good, and perhaps cure me. It was a happy thought, and to my great joy it has entirely cured me after using two bottles, After three months I have had no return of the symptoms. I cheerfully re-commend it as the best tonic I have ever used." Neuralgia sufferers, take the hint!
