South Carolina has secured two consuls thus far.

The Asheville Citizens failed to come yesterday and we are without the proceedings of the Episcopal Convention.

The great revival at Danville in the two Methodist churches closed at about 271 professions. This is nearly 90 less than Wilmington had.

Coal is selling at $6.50 a ton in Philadelphia. Thanks to the Record newspaper it is now selling at $5.

The reports from the wheat crop in the Northwest are quite unfavorable. It is now believed that the crop will be shorter than it has been in ten years.

The World has scored $59,000 for the statue of Liberty. The Vassar girls have sent it a contribution. It will make its $100,000 and save New York from everlasting disgrace.

Gen. B. Vance published a recommendation of Gen. Clingman's tobacco cure. It relieved his wife of a very acute pain in the right side that prevented her from standing erect.

The issuance of sixty-two drummers' licenses by the State Treasurer during the month of May, against twenty-eight for the same month last year, looks well. It shows that a revival of trade is confidently looked for.

Gen. Strange, with 300 men, had a three hours fight with the Indians under Big Bear. The latter were entrenched but were driven from their position. Strange's loss small. This is one account. But another says Gen. Strange was repulsed.

Clinton Caucasian: Capt. Galloway has been State Solicitor of this District nearly seven years. It is universally conceded that he has made one of the most faithful and efficient prosecuting officers that the district ever had.

Clinton Free Press: Snow Hill and Goldsboro are now connected by telegraph. U. S. Deputy Revenue Collector Hugo Humphrey, tells us that there is more illicit distilling in Lenoir and Duplin counties, than in all the rest of the counties in this section.

Goldboro Messenger: Mr. J. W. Lamb sold a fine trotting horse last week to Dr. James W. McKee, of Raleigh, for $900. One of the colts mentioned in these columns last week has turned out to be a dissipated case, and includes among his wayward habits inveterate tobacco chewing.

Lenoir Chronicle: There were thirty lawyers here last Tuesday. Among the number were three ex-Congressmen and two ex-Judges. Brooding of attorneys by attorneys in their examinations of witnesses is a disgrace to the legal profession and the courts of North Carolina.

Washington Gazette: Our farmers report a good stand of cotton and rice. Mr. Jerome Linton, the applicant for the cadetship at the Naval Academy, failing to pass his examination, has returned to his alternate, Stephen Bragg, who is there trying his luck. We learn later that Stephen Bragg failed.

Charlotte Observer: Mr. W. H. Bailey, Charlotte's well known lawyer, has been invested with the degree of LL. D. by one of our North Carolina colleges.

Washington dot: Senators Eason and Vance and Representatives Bennett, Green and Skinner, and ex-Representative Latta are here. The pressure for office seems to be worse than ever, and some Southern Congressmen are excited to an almost frantic degree.

Beaufort Telephone: Cotton is improving rapidly under the genial rays of the summer sun, and may entirely recover from the effects of cold weather. Late cotton is looking remarkably well.

Richmond (Va.) Herald: In the North Carolina Baptist State Convention there are 877 churches. Of these, four hundred and twenty-nine of these churches did not report one cent of contributions to Foreign Missions last year.
