EVENING EDITION

THE TWO CIVILIZATIONS.

The race of "Pecksniffs" has not died out in the North or South. You will find them in the papers almost any day. A tacit admission that the South is behind in everything is too common among Southern born people. It is not true. In many great essentials of a high civilization the South has always led the North. Both George Washington and Robert E. Lee were born in the South. And so was Stonewall Jackson and Abraham Lincoln. We do not believe in the game of "brag," and in setting up claims for the South to which it is not entitled. But, Northern witnesses being heard, the civilization in the South before the war was quite equal to that of the North and the men of the South dominated the the admission of Charles Sumner in the United States Senate as to the superior breed of statesmen in the South, to their control of the country for seventy years and to their unsullied honor.

But how has it been since the war when politicians of altogether another breed came into power and "ran the machine?" How has it fared with the people since Northern statesmanship held the reins? Everybody knows the answer. Only last year an important element in the Republican party revolted, and because of the wide-spread corruption in the old Republican party. Since the advent of Northern ideas and statesmanship. it has been a common thing to see Northern Senators and Representatives becoming millionaires upon a salary of $5,000 a year. The Loh. by" has become a third House in Washington, Candidates for the Presidency like Garfield and Blaine were all stained and tattooed with corruption and bribery. A President like Grant was deeply involved in Black Friday and whiskey rings. Hayes stole the Presidency by fraud and corruption. Thank God, when the South was to the front none of

The civilization of the South before the war was incomparably the grandest, purest, simplest that this country has known and he is a very ignorant man who does not know it, Let us beware of Northern ideassocial equality, Freedmen's Bureaux, ism generally. Let us have no "new South" among us, for the dear old South is good enough for the loyal and true people of the South. Says. a well informed writer in the Haynesville (Alabama) Examiner:

"The new South of our Northern friends must be frowned upon, until those who; under the specious pretext of material wealth, advocate the substitution of Northern ideas for our true Southern principles, which have produced a race of brave men and refined and virtuous women equal to any in the world,) are rendered as odious as the carpet-baggers and scalawags, whose legitimate off springs they pre:

"Let us frown on those of our public men who would teach our people that it is the highest aim of statesmanship to secure as appropriation; who would substitute a appropriation; who would substitute a paternal Government for the free institu-tions of our republic, and educate our peole that they are to look to Washington for li blessings, instead of watching jealously he servants we have sent there, and re-uiring them to confine themselves strictly rithin the scope of the powers we have

That is sound and timely. It is lain enough that a true man, one who loves the South, wrote those lines. He is clearly of that school that holds to a strict construction of the Constitution, that believes in the past with all of its glorious memories and precious inheritances, and who knows history. He writes so well, so wisely, so much like a man of broad ideas and of full knowledge, that we take leave to quote some suggestive paragraphs. He says:

We Southerners do not sufficiently resent the insolent assumption of superiority by the writers of the North, and we do not sufficiently condemn and denounce the cow-ardly submission to such assumption by men olo, born at the South, show their willingses to pass under the yoke of this fancied su-

We who recall with pride the glories of he South; who do not forget in these deemerate days that we are indebted for the liberties we enjoy to the prevalence of Southern ideas over Northern pretentions; to the wisdom of Jefferson as well as the sword of Washington; and that had the Northern national idea prevailed in the formation of our Constitution, and our inttutions been stamped by the spirit of should now have a monarchy instead of republic, may well be proud of the socieprovincial though it may be called, which produced such men. "In what land were greater and better men grown than in the South? How was it that for sixty years of Southern control of the Government no such thing as corruption in public life was ever known in its administration? How is it that as soon as this passed away, and the sceptre fell to the North, we find that many statesmen became illionaires of $5,000 per annum? When we contrast the careers of Lee and Grant we have no occasion to blush for our provincialism."

THE TORIES.

On the announcement that Mr. Gladstone and the Liberals had been driven from power, the STAR said this of the Tories:

They will not dare to undo what Glad

The next day the STAR said:

'If they were to undertake to operate the Liberal plan, using their ideas, it would be a confession of impotency and malicious wrong doing. * * They must, therefore, move upon a line in every particular the opposite of that pursued by the Lib-

The news from England seems to confirm the opinion given. In the STAR of yesterday there is a state ment from two leading papers that indicates that the English people will not tolerate any change of policy. The Standard says that prudence and good faith will force the Conservatives to follow what has been done by the Liberals. The Times says "there is no room for a new departure or policy."

Just so. The Liberals are driven from power and the Tories go in but have in the very beginning to adopt We referred the other day to the policy of the defeated party and thereby confess their impotency and malicious opposition. The Standard and Times are Tory organs. Before England is done with Toryism, unless the leaders of that antiquated, iron-bound, anti-liberty party shall go back on its history for an hundred and fifty years, Ireland will mourn its folly in combining with its old enemy against the party of progressive and popular ideas.

THE LONDON EXPOSITION AND

It is not generally known that there is an Immigration Association representing fifteen Southern or border States. Its headquarters are in New Orleans. It is a new organization and has done something in prometing immigration. The South has heen able to preserve its distinctive festures thus far. If Northern people with capital ranging from $3,000 to $100,000 would settle in the South its more rapid development would be assured. The South has an immense area that is unoccupied and uncultivated and offers peculiar inducements to those seeking homes and investments. Thus far the immigration to North Carolina has not been as large these things happened or could have as the emigration. However desira. ble the incoming of people who have means with which to operate, there has not been much encouragement given to mere laborers. Attempts to introduce white labor in several sections of North Carolina have not been satisfactory, or only partially so.

We note that the new Immigra-Blair Pedagogic bills and Paternal- tion Association is working to advertise the resources of the States composing it by having them represented in their productions at the Exposition to be held in London in 1886. Advertising your productions is a most efficient way to attract the notice of the world, and the London Exposition presents excellent oppor-

THE STOCK LAW. We clipped two or three weeks ago the following from the Asheville Citizen. It concerns the benefits of a stock-law. We failed to note who wrote it and to what some ty it refers. But that is not material. Good has been done, and in several ways. The ideas of the people are expanding and a stock law will inevitably become the universal law of the State before the century ends, we have no doubt. The time was once when people were blindly prejudiced as to railroads and he was a bold politician who espoused them. Here s what a stock law is doing and has done for one county that has adopt-forage to carry the stock through the winbtained, and do more work in improving

6. The cattle are greatly improved. At the listing of taxes last year for our county, t was found that the number of cattle of the year before was reduced one half, yet the aggregate value was more than the year

The Napoleonic element in France s not believed to be very formidable now. The followers of that ill-starred name are now fussing after the usual latter-day style of the Napoleonic faction, and are holding up young Victor, son of Prince Napoleon, ("Plon-Plon"), as the true represent ative of the claims of the family. We do not know what sort of a youth Victor is. We believe his mother is a sister of the King of Italy, and his father is a man of brains with a very decayed moral character. He has quarrelled with has father and is said to be in danger of becoming a moral wreck early in life. The Philadelphia Times says of the young aspirant to the head of the country:

"If Plon-Plon could only get a good hold of Victor and give the youth a sound thrashing and then set him to learn a trade he might yet amount to something and be President of the French Republic some day. The French people would be glad to honor him, if he were worthy, but they have done with mere pasteboard priests and

Judge Foraker is the Blaine candidate for Governor of Obio. He may be able to carry Ohio on the Blaine plan but it will not be creditable to a great State and will show retrogression on the part of the people. If the Democrats had a leader like Judge Thurman they might carry the day as they did under Hoadly. Ohio is Republican ordinarily, but in the Northwest it has been supposed that there was a gradual change of views taking place. The Foraker platform dodges prohi-

Senator Harris, of Tennessee, insists that the Civil Service Commission is a humbug.

That is the opinion of ninety nine out of every hundred of the candid, intelligent Democrats in the whole South. The Civil Service needed and desired by the South is to clean out the last Radical and put in honest, capable, faithful Democrats.

Prince Frederick Charles, of Germany, nephew of Emperor William, whose death has been announced by cable, was a distinguished soldier. He commanded one of the armies under Moltke that overran and conquered France fifteen years since.

CURRENT COMMENT.

- If the Government is to receive silver bullion on deposit at all, let it do so and issue certificates of its weight and fineness and its value at the price at the time of deposit, redeemable in silver bullion alone, of the same weight and fineness, and let the value of these certificates from time to time be determined by the laws of trade and by those only, without any legal tender quality for any purpose. Such certificates would answer the purposes of a medium of exchange to the exact extent, that silver should remain fairly stable in value. They would cheat no one, and they would furnish the only form in which the silver could fair.y and honestly enter into the currency. It is hardly necessary to say that the stories of Mr. Tilden, Mr. Manning, and others with a reputation for saulty in finance having approved of Mr. Warner's patent currency have no authority .- N. Y. Times, Rep.

--- Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's sermons on evolution and inspiration are causing him to be severely criticised in theological circles. He is charged with having abandoned the belief in revealed religion, and with being a preacher of rationalism. Some of his critics say he makes no more of the Bible than of other literary works; that he makes it sanction polygamy and slavery, and that his rejection of the Bible as authority in morals and doctrine is practically as that of Herbert Spencer or Huxley. Mr. Beecher will doubtless device the like Dr., Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." By druggists.

series of sermons. - Savannah News SALISBURY WANTS A SHOW Phil Times.

The present all-absorbing topic in connection with the English Government is not what Gladstone could have done, might have done, or prohave done it, but simply whether or not Lord Salisbury will accept the Premiership of England, and it so on what terms and what does he expect to do with it when it is in his hands. The Marquis of Salisbury is a bright man, but in no sense a solid man. Still only about fifty-five years of age, he has shown some singular shiftings in his adherence to parties and men. From an earnest and apparently a sincere enemy of Beaconsfield he became one of his warmest admirers and supporters, this itself arguing a power of somersault and a lack of judgment easily seen when looked at with any intelligent vision. So far in the present emergency the Marquis of Salisbury has shown the same want of fixed self-reliance that has always characterized his public career. It was easy to charge Gladstone with vacillation when he had the great question of a war with half the world on his shoulders and simply wanted time to decide his course, but what can be thought of a would be leader of the British Government who, when the opportunity comes to take hold and form a policy that might captivate all England and the world, simply hesitates whether to take office or not, lest the brief season allotted to him was too short and unimportant to make England's power and glory realized? A great man, even a mediocre man, of firm will, would not act so.

GLADSTONE.

Washington Post. The Tories were never so dumb and crestfallen as now, the Liberals never so buoyant and confident. At the Edinburgh depot Lord Salisbury was greeted by a Tory crowd whose enthusiastic demands for authoritative utterance failed to elicit even a cautious response. The only trouble which clouds the Liberal mind is as to whether Mr. Gladstone will lead them in the next electoral campaign. Strange to say, the Premier is now more popular in his wellplanned defeat than he has been since, opposing Beaconfield's charlatan imperial polley, he was known as the "People's William." It has been the fashion recently to deride this fact as though it was a discreditable circumstance to a statesman that he was popular with the people whose cause he had made his own; but in the long run it may turn to the great advantage of the Liberal party. Mr. Gladstone's action is the one question difficult to determine, The best policy for him would be to retire for rest and then return to the contest for his party with the renewed strength of the giant he is. The Liberals are more enthusiasttc for their leader than ever before. They believe his help to be essen-

The two year old illegitimate child of Harry Coleman, colored, and Jennie Vaughan, an idiotic colored woman, was cared for by a colored couple who were childless. Coleman, who was married, demanded his offspring, and car-ried it to his home. Last Friday his other children reported to Rosa, his wife, that the little stranger was strangling in the next room. Rosa rested in and pretended to relieve it by violent snaking. The child died, and suspicion having been aroused an investigation was ordered, and a post mortem revealed the fact that the child's skull had been crushed and its back terribly lacerated by Ross. The verdict placed the murder on Ross, who fled, and a party are in pursuit of her.

Cancer Cured

Mrs. Olive Hardman, an old resident of Walton county, and a lady of culture and prominence has this to say of the treatment of cancer with Swift's Specific :

Over afteen years ago a cancer made its appearance on my face. It was treated with place ters, and the core came out. The place healest up after some time, and seemingly my fare was well. However, in a few years it returned again with more violence than ever. It gave me a great deal of pain. The former remedy scemel to do it no good. Knowing the disease to tun in the family, having had one sister to die with cancer, I became seriously apprehensive of my condi tion. It continued to increase in size and vin-lence. Lalmost gave up all hope of ever being cured. The physicians advised the use of the knife and caustic. This was more than I could bear, and refused to have it operated on in that way. All other remedies were used, but the cancer continued to grow worse. The pain was ex-cruciating and my life was a burden. In this ex-tremity, my son, Dr. Hardman, recommended me to my swift's Specific. It was the last resort, but I was so prejudiced against the use of patent medicines, and especially this one, that I hesitated some time. At last, I gave my consent, not believing there was any virtue in it. The first bottle only increased the size of the sore and the discharge from it, and hence did not inspire me with any hope. On taking the second bottle there were signs of improvement, and my faith strengthened just in proportion. I used the Specific as a wash in the treatment of my cancer with remarkable success. I sponged the sore with the medicine diluted with a little water. It softened the scab, couled the face and relieved the itching sensation. The spot on my face began to decrease, as well as the discharge, and hope sprang up in my heart. Could it be, I asked myself, that at last I was to be relieved of this disease? It has given me so many dark hours in disease? It has given me so many dark hours in the past that the idea of being well again almost overpowered me. There was a contest between hope and fear for a long time. It was a long might of weeping, but joy came with the mon-might of weeping, but joy came with the mon-There is nothing left to mark the place but a small tear, and I feel that is impossible for me to express my gratifude for this great deliver-ance. It is a wonderful medicine. Mrs. OLIVE HARDMAN, Monroe, Ga. Jan. 9, 1884.
