We have been reading Sam Jones's sermons. Only one is reported with fulness. The others are mere abstracts-are really not even skeletons, but here and there a saying or a sentiment or a conviction is given The sermon that is printed with approximate completeness is excellent -very pointed and pathetic. His sermons fairly bristle, and there are edge and point enough always to pierce and cut to the central bone. He is a most extraordinary preacher. We found but little to condemn, and it is the conviction of the writer that he shaves nearer the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth than any other sermonizer since Paul and Peter and Apollos fulmined.

It is gratifying to note that Col. Parker, from the North, is showing the five hundred North Carolina teachers at the Teachers' Assembly how to teach arithmetic. The Teacher

"He held that from many principles arithmetic should be taught as a whole and not in parts. Addition, substraction, multiplication and division can be better taught at the same time than when they are taken up one at the time. Fractions, percentage and interest must be taught in the beginning. Don't have any rules nor definitions about anything."

After the teachers have been taught they will be able hereafter to make mathematicians out of some of the boys and girls. Noth Carolina is progressing.

Policeman Joe Boyte made the arrest, and to him the young man gave his name as William D. Doolin, and said that that he was a citizen of York county, S. C. He has been in the city for several days, spending the time in dissipations. His story is that he had been playing cards here and had been cleaned out by the gamblers. An examination of the pistol was made, and the cause of its failure to fire was easily explained. The pistol was a centre fire 38 calibre, but the party who loaded it, had filled the chamber with rim fire cartridges. When the hammer came down the plunger struck in the centre of the cartridges, and of course failed to ex-plode them. Three cartridges in the re-volver were found to have deep indentions in the centre, and had they been centre fire cartridges, only a miracle could have pre-vented a double murder from having been enacted. Brooklyn Sunday School Anniversary.

The first anniversary of the Brooklyn (Baptist) Sunday School was celebrated at Brooklyn Hall on Sunday afternoon, on which occasion there was a large attendance. The exercises consisted of a brief review of the lessons of the last quarter by the superintendent, Mr. J. W. Taylor; the reading of the yearly report of the secretary of the Sunday School, Mr. N. Jenkins; an interesting address upon the subject of missions by Rev. Dr. Pritchard, and a brief but interesting address by Mr. J. S. Mitchell, superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday School. The audience were also treated to some very fine Sunday school music by the pupils, under the direction of Maj. H. H. Foster, with Miss Getie Taylor at the organ. The report of the secretary showed a very encouraging condition of affairs, and there was an evident determination among those immediately interested to spare no pains in the effort to make the school a continued suc-

Will Close on the Fourth. There was a paper being circulated among our grocerymen yesterday, and signed by them, to the effect that they will keep open until 12 o'clock on Friday night, the 3rd of July, and close their stores on Saturday, the anniversary of American independence. This will give all an opportunity to lay in their 4th of July and Sunday stock of groceries and provisions, and will enable the proprietors and clerks to participate in the festivities and pleasures incident to the day.

A Sunday Scrimmage. While a number of young men were in bathing in the neighborhood of Hilton, on Sunday afternoon, a misunderstanding ensued between some of them which resulted in a free fight during which, we understand, rocks and bricks were being thrown quite promiseuously. Fortunately, however, no serious injury was inflicted. Yesterday some of the party went before Justice Millis and made affidavit as to what occurred, upon which warrants were issued for some of the participants, who were arrested and will have a hearing before the magistrate this morning. It is stated that about twenty-five young men were more or less connected with the difficulty.

sudden Death of a Wilmington Lady. Mrs. Margaret Black, widow of the late Archie Black, who was killed by an accident at Wilson's mill, in this city, a year or two ago, died suddenly in Oxford on Thursday last, whither she had gone to visit a sick daughter (Mrs. Turner). She left here in good health a few days before. She has been subject to severe nervous attacks ever since her husband's sudden and violent death, and it was during one of these attacks that she died.

Mr. Jno. C. Davis was reported a little better at last accounts.

The Meeting Sunday Night in the Interest of the New Hanover Bible So-

A large and appreciative audience was gathered at the First Baptist church on Sunday night, in attendance upon a meeting in the interests of the American Bible Society. All the various religious Protestant bodies in the city were fairly represented in the pews, as well as on the platform where were seated three Episcopal ministers, one Baptist, one Lutheran, one Presbyterian and one Methodist. It was an interesting sight to behold. "How good and how pleasant a thing it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." One of the speakers referred to this fact, and remarked that perhaps never in the memory of the oldest inhabitant had such a thing happened before, and he supposed there was no other strictly religious subject which could produce this effect except the Bible. One of the participants in the meeting afterwards informed us that he was reminded of the memorable words of Chillingworth, defining the religion of Protestants: "Know then, sir, that when I say the religion of Protestant is in prudence to be preferred to yours, as, on the one side I do not understand by your religion the doctrine of Bellarmine or Baronius, or any other private man amongst you, nor the doctrine of the Sorbonne, or of the Jesuits, or of the Dominicans, or of any other particular company among you, but that wherein you all agree, or profess to agree-the doctrine of the Council of Trent; so accordingly, on the other side, I do not understand the doctrine of Luther or Calvin or Melanchthon; nor the confession of Augusta or Geneva: nor the catechism of Heidleburg: nor the articles of the Church of England; no, nor the harmony of Protestant confessions; but that wherein they all agree and which they all subscribe with a greater harmony as a perfect rule of their faith and actions-that is, the Bible. The Bible, I say, the Bible is the religion of Protestants. Whatever else they believe beside it, and the plain impregnable, indubitable conse quences of it, well may they hold it as a matter of opinion; but as a matter of faith and religion neither can they believe it themselves, nor require belief of it of others, without most high and most schismatical presumption."

In our brief space we cannot be expected to give anything like a synopsis even of the many good things that were said. We can only say that they were all on the lines of the broad principle laid down by the author from whom we have quoted. The President, Mr. B. F. Hall, presided with grace and dignity, and the speakers all acquitted themselves well. There were no less than five of them-Mr. Elder, the Bible Colporteur for the city; Rev. Dr. Peschau, Rev. Mr. Lewis, Rev. Dr. Yates and Rev. Dr. Pritchard, and they spoke in the order in which their names are mentioned. We confess when we saw such a formidable array of speakers, one of our first reflections was "Well, we are in for a long sitting," but in this we were disappointed. The speeches were brief, terse and to the point; they were all in fact admirable. The interest of the audience never flagged once, and we could not help thinking that it was a pity a suggestion thrown out by one of the speakers (Dr. Yates) had not been acted on. We may do the Reverend gentleman injustice, but we understood him to hint pretty strongly that a collection ought to be taken up then and there, and we must say we entirely agreed with him. The hearts of the brethren were warmed up by all the glorious things that were spoken of God's Word, and no doubt a handsome sum would have been realized for the good cause. It would have been a most appropriate conclusion to the interesting exercises.

Mr. C. G. Southerland has returned from his trip North.

Says the Hickory Press: "Rev. D. H. Tuttle, the gifted young pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist Church, Wilmington, who is a Caldwell man, was so much pleased with the proficiency displayed by the young ladies in art and music at Davenport College, Lenoir, that he has concluded to endow that college with a fund sufficiently large to purchase each year a gold medal, to be called the Tuttle Memorial Medal, in each of those departments."

Exhibition Came-Beaude 8, Oxford 5 The game yesterday was a puzzler. We hardly know how to report it. It was characterized by loose playing, indifferent playing, and good playing. It was not as interesting as many games that have been seen here, though the teams were in good condition, and the base ball talent spread on the field was perhaps the best that has appeared this year.

Menroe, the new catcher of the Seasides. did some fine work, and the balls that passed him were so wildly thrown that no one could have stopped them. His throwing to bases was, with one exception, swift and accurate, and his batting was excellent. His two base hits, which brought in two men, decided the game.

even by the members of the Oxford club that the Seasides won the game on Friday by the score of 2 to 1 in the eleventh inning. though another inning was played in which the Oxfords made 3 runs and the Seasides 0, and the score being announced 4 to 1 in favor of the Oxfords. It happened in this way: In the last half of the eleventh inning, after two men were out, Koochogey was on second base and Rosenthal on first, with Moore at the bat. The pitcher pitched s ball which the catcher failed to catch, and it passed by him and struck the umpire's foot behind the catcher, thus enabling the catcher to get the ball quickly and keep Koockey from getting to third base and Rosenthal to second. The next ball pitched was struck by the batter, a long strike to centre field, on which he went to first base, Rosenthal to second and Koockey to third. Before a run was scored, however, the next striker was put out. It is claimed, and justly too, that when the umpire stop-ped the passed ball he should have given Koockey third base and Rosenthal second, when Koockey would have come home on Moore's hit to centre field. The umpire admits Koockey and Rosenthal were en titled to one base each on account of his stopping the ball, but says he had no right to give it to them unless they claimed it. On this point there is a dispute, and authorities on base ball. North and West, have been telegraphed to, to decide the question. Though it cannot now effect the champion record, still it will be a satisfaction to know the Seasides were entitled to the game. Though they do not get credit for it abroad they certainly will at home.

THE FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE OF THE NURSERY.—The following is an extract from a letter written to the German Reformed Messenger, at Chambersburgh, Penn.: A Benuracters. Just open the door for her, and Mrs. Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the Nursery. Of this we are so sure, that we will teach our "Susy" to say, "A blessing on Mrs. Winslow" for helping her to survive and escape the griping, colicking, and teething siege. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syraur relieves the child from pain, and cures dysentery and diarrhees. It softens the gums, reduces inflammation, cures wind colle, and carries the infant safely through the teething period. It performs precisely what it professes to perform, every part of it—nothing less. We have never seen Mrs. Winslow—know her only through the preparation of her "Soothing Syrau for Children Teething." If we had the power we would make her, as she is, a physical saviour to the infant race. Sold by all druggists.
