in the right direction. The following new enterprises have been set afoot from the 1st of January to the 30th of June, 1885: furnace companies to make pig iron, foundries and machine shops, steel works, cotton seed oil mills, cotton compresses, fruit canning factories, carriage and wagon factories, agricultural implement factories, flour mills, grist mills, saw mills, planing mills, sash, door and blind factories, shuttle factories, tobacco factories, brick yards, ice factories, fertilizer factories, furniture factories, stove foundries, wire fence factories, tanneries, glass works, gas works, whiting factories, distilleries, potteries, marble and slate quarrying companies, and companies to mine coal, iron ore, gold, silver, mica, natural gas, oil, etc., and many others. The working of coal, iron, gold, silver, copper, tin, and other mines, is becoming very important. In North Carolina coal, iron, gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, mica, and other minerals are worked. The coal fields are very extensive and gold is found in a great many counties. Then there are such useful minerals as chromic iron, corundum, maganese, kaolin, whetstone, millstone, graphite, limestone, marble, tale, asbestos, soapstone, building stone, &c. Gold mining is prosecuted more or less in some twenty-five or thirty counties.

But we did not purpose to take this wide survey when we took pencil in hand. We meant to copy from an amiable and cultivated New England man who has spent several years in travel in the South lecturing as he went-on education. We refer to Rev. Dr. Mayo, of Boston, whom we have met and for whose character we have the highest respect. We have taken occasion to comment with disapprobation upon his views relative to the dangerous Blair Pedagogy bill, and the best possible answer to his advocacy is the cheerful and encouraging report he makes in the following statement.

AN ABSURD ALLIANCE.

The Irish have made a bargain with the Tories and they are expected to pull together in the utmost harmony, and, that too, against the Liberal party that has done-more for Ireland in twenty years than the Tories have done in an hundred and fifty years. That there is an alliance formed is plain enough from the proceedings of the Parliament. But it is a very absurd alliance, and because there is no probability that it can last. For such a commingling of jarring, warring elements to harmonize would be as astonishing as for a dozen wild animals to be tumbled. in upon each other and there should be no growls and no fighting. It is quite notorious that it is the one principle of Toryism in dealing with Ireland to be severe and repressive. The New York Times does not overstate when it says of the new alliance and the vote of the Tories against the Liberals for being severe:

"Now, if there is any proposition which is an article of the Tory creed it is that no injustice has been done to Ireland or Irishmen by England or Englishmen within human memory, and that the pretenses to the contrary are merely Irish lies. The Dis-establishment bill and the Land bill proneeded upon the assumption that there had been such injustice, which needed to be repaired, and accordingly those measures are regarded by Tory peers and squires as evi dences of the combined rascality and luna cy of Mr. Gladstone. Their quarrel with the Liberals is that they have not hanged Irishmen enough nor put down disorder with a high enough hand. When therefore, a Liberal Government is arraigned by an Irishman for undue severity we should expect to see all the Tories in both Houses rallying to its support."

EVENING EDITION

EDUCATIONAL AND MATERIAL PROGRESS IN THE SOUTH.

The STAR has been careful to keep its readers posted as to the educational progress in the South, and especially in North Carolina. The STAR has insisted that the people of the Southern States had done better for education than had been done under the same environments and stupendous difficulties and within the same period of time in the history of civilization. The STAR has said that the Southern people, had so borne themselves under defeat, and had so risen to the highest demands put upon them that they had eclipsed the world, and had shown themselves as great and stoical under defeat as they had been heroic and self-sacrificing in war. Time but confirms all that has been claimed for our people. Out of disaster has come progress; out of desolation has come prosperity. The fair fields of our Southland now respond most generously to the toil of the husbandman, whilst the industries are multiplying, and education, so essential to an enlightened and pro-Breesive people, is steadily advancing.

This sort of picture is not of the fancy. It is real-it is what is, and what is seen by eyes not so friendly as our own. Northern men of fairness and observation have gone back to their homes astonished at the wondrous recuperative energy and pluck of the Southern people. It is only a gimblet-hole philosopher of the Townsend ("Gath") preportions that can find nothing recuperative in the South. In six months of the current year the amount of money invested in manufacturing in the Southern States exceeds $36,000,000, and this too when the whole country is stagnant and a trade paralysis is resting upon the entire North.

The most encouraging sign in this great progress in manufactures is the multiplication of the small industries. Said Col. Pardee, of New Haven, in his address to the Wilmingtonians who heard him: "It is the numerous small industries, and not a few great prosper as she is. Connecticut owes

Upon his return to Boston the Irans cript interviewed him. He is report ed thus:

Within twenty years the Southern people have done more, considering their circumstances, for education than was ever done before by any people. They have re established their bla academies, colleges and professional schools for whites, on the whole upon a broader foundation than formerly. And in every State the public free school, for all classes and both races, has been established, and to day offers from three to six months yearly instruction to every child. Although some fifty millions of doilars have been donated to this work, chiefly for the colored people, by the North and the na-tion, yet within this period the South itself, out of its poverty, and amid such trials as cannot even be understood by the stranger, has given more than a hundred millions of dollars as a plant for the children; and this year will expend fifteen millions on the common school. Scores of little Southern cities tax their people from one to two mills on the dollar more than Boston for public schools. Indeed, Mississippi, one of the poorest States, to day gives to each pupil as much as Massachusetts in the days of Horace Mann.'

While the North was sweltering at from 95 to 101 degrees on Monday, the people of Wilmingtoon took it coolly, so to speak, in the shade at about 88 degrees. 91 is the highest the thermometer has been this Sammer in the STAR office. In the upper towns of the State where they have pleasant nights and mornings the mercury has run up as high as from 98 to 101 according to locality this season. Bear in mind that up to 20th July the hottest day in Wilmington was but 91 degrees. We learn from McMaster that when the Confederation about 1786 had fixed its longing eyes on Florida, then owned by Spain, it was described as a most delightful climate, where people could live and die withou ever seeing a snow, and where the thermometer rarely showed a greater heat than 109 degrees. Wilmington is rarely visited by a snow. A person may live here for ten years and never see the ground covered. As to the heat the mercury not once in ten years ever gets above 98 degrees, and when it got to 101 degrees some few years ago it was so phenomenal as to be known now in the city as "the hot Saturday." That day the heat was as high as 106 degrees in some of the upper towns of the State. ones, that have made New England | The temperature during the hottest spells will rarely range above 95, and should be done with the gas companies in that city. Companies have multiplied but gas has kept up. The Times has a very judicious editorial upon the cause of costly gas, and it bases its discussion upon the London management in contrast with that of New York. It saye:

"We may at least recognize the force of the maxim that 'where combination is possible competition is impossible,' and resort to regulation and imitation instead of en couraging new companies. We cannot get rid of the capital unnecessarily invested; but we can distinguish between that actually invested and that which is wholly fict tious. Then we can restrict dividends t not more that ten per cent, on actual capital and limit the price accordingly. It is only by this policy of regulation by public. authority that we can hope to secure anything like a fair price for gas."

PROMISCUOUS SINGING.

New York Times.

The new movement in favor of the regulation of promiscuous singing should have the earnest support of all rightminded men and women. The spread of this vice within the last twenty years has been fearfully rapid, and there are now few fami lies in the United States where there is not at least one member who is addicted to singing.

Singing, when practiced by edu-cated and capable singers, has its undoubted value. So has the medical art; but when either singing or med-icine is practiced by an unqualified person it, is a curse, to the community. The public is at present at the mercy of the incompetent singer. At every evening gath ering of half a dozen persons of assorted sexes some one is sur to be present who pretends to sing. Usually the offender is of the feminine sex, but occasionally a young man who has neither voice nor method is a prey to the habit of singing." We all know what happens when the young lady is urged to sing something. She first declines, and then after a little urging goes to the piano and releases her voice. It is a thin, sharp voice, and she does not know how to produce it. She flats and sharpens and proves herself entirely ignorant of the meaning of the composer. The hearers are expected to sit still and listen, and when she has finished they must either praise her or be regarded as brutally rude. After praising her consistency demands that they should ask for another song, and when this is over if there be another victim of the vice in the room, he or she must be called upon for a song.

The effect of this sort of singing is almost equally injurious to both singer and hearer. In the former it breeds a heartless indifference to the things, its is not likely that a Tory Government at London will'long remain in favor with Americans. was largely the Whig element in the fallen Ministry that made negessary the tyranny in Ireland. Whenever Mr. Gladstone had his own way, mild measures were attempted. Untoward events usually intervened to give the discordant parts of his Cabinet their cue, and ous singing is, so to speak, gilded by coercion would thereupon result. The Arms and Coercion Acts, now going out of force by limitation, were caused directly by the crime at Phenix Park. A more utterly abhorrent act never darkened the page of a people's history, for the new Secretary thus murdered was the bearer of Gladstone's message of peace, which had been wrung from his Cabinet only at great price.

* * * It may have been expedient for Parnell to defeat Gladstone, but in the end the Tories will deal with Ireland still more selfishly. Ireland should have her own legislature and Governor; Americans know how poor a boon even so great a concession would be; yet the day is far off when the Conservative Englishman will see his way clear to any such readjustment. At least, that i Torvism, and the leopard does not change his spots. The young leop ards, like Disraeli and Churchill sometimes annoy their parents, but time allays their democratic fever. -Chicago Current.

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

Obviously North Carolina cannot afford in her legislative capacity to do anything to impair the prosperity of any of her useful educational institutions. And she must not appear to do so. The colleges of North Carolina are just as necessary for the advancement of higher education in the State as the University. Indeed, we think, more necessary. It is for this reason that North Caro ina must have a fostering eye upon her colleges as well as upon her University. It will be a sad day to the cause of education in the State when the walls of her colleges shall have lost their attractiveness and patronage even though at the same time the walls of her University shall have become crowded. The people feel this, and it is on this account they are watchful of, if not positively dissatisfied with, what the State is doing for the University, as well as the manner of doing it .- Monroe Enquirer. Express.

The Free Press believes that no impure or incompetent man should be appointed to office. It believes that the first question that should be asked before a man is appointed to any office is,, "is he honest, fit and capable?" If he is-and there are many more capable men for every office than there are offices-and he belongs to the political party in authority, give him the place. Do not give it to him as a re-ward for public service, but because he was true to what he believed was the best interest of the country. No man has a claim on any party for office, but when the offices are being distributed the people do believe in giving them to those who have done what they could to place the party then in power in control of affairs -- Rinston Free

In the fall of 1884 I was taken with a case of malarial fever which prostrated me both h and mind. I was drugged after the old fast with mercury and other mineral mixtures ha with no good results. My health was shattere and my energy gone. My legs and feet would swell, and I had what everybody thought wa dropsy. These symptoms alarmed me, and I wa ready to grasp at any remedy st friend advised me to try Swift's Spe cured three bottles and commenced its a e swelling soon subsided. I have taken the bottles, which have made a perfect cure, and feel like a new man to day. There never was a more meritorious medicine offered to suffering humanity. It has wrought wonders for me.
