THE SUMBER WEATHER.

The summer of 1885 was a very hot one according to the human thermometer. The highest recorded heat in our office was 91 degrees, and on but three or four days did the heat attain to that height. There were more hot days, when the humidity was extreme, and when the mercury ranged from about 86 to 91 degrees than during the last nine years. As we said there was no day in which the mercury stood as high as is usual every Summer, but there were more sultry, hot-house, sweating days than have occurred in a long time. There was no day the entire Summer in which the thermometer recorded as high as it did one day last October, when it stood at 92. Our memorandum book says this of 1884: "It has been a most extraordinary Fall. This is the night of the 14th October, and it has been a hot spell with the exception of three days. The mercury has stood at from 80 to 92 degrees much of the time, and for weeks above 80. It is now cool and promises to be fall-like in the morning." This was written on the 14th. There has been an unusual amount of rain during the Summer in this place. But the reader will please mark that the mercury has been lower in Wil, mington than in any of the Southern cities, and towns and villages if there be any left. Our highest for 1885 is 91 degrees.

Capt. Howgate is in England and no mistake. He has been seen. The New York Times says:

"He also imparts the highly interesting information that the fugitive thief 'is now negotiating with the executors of the late Prof. Vennor and others to establish a system of weather predictions for Canada and for South America, to be operated partly in conjunction with the service in the United States, and is coming to America for the purpose of carrying out his plans."

The outbreak of the war found him a freight con-ductor on the Wilmingion & Weldon Rail-road, which position he relinquished and entered the army. For a long time he was on the staff of Gen. Lawrence Baker, and at the close of the war he selected Goldsboro for his home and engaged in the dry goods business under the firm name of Fulghum & Whitfield. The firm was not successful, and Capt. Fulghum drifted into journalism, publishing the Farmers' and Mechanics' Journal here in Goldsboro, and later in Raleigh. He did excellent service as Secretary of the State Fair. Subsequently he published the Greensbero Patriot, and made it a most excellent paper. Peace to his ashes.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP,—REV. SYLVANUS CORR thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman;—We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly to infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and the parents unwith colic pains, quiet sleep, and the parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." And during the process of teething its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say that they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had finished with the teething sleep, on any consideration whatever. Sold by all druggists, 25 cents a bottle.
