- Asheville Citizen: It is not claimed anywhere that the State Guard is a temperance organization, and that its offi-cers and men are followers of father Matthew. It was not pretended that in the hours of relaxation the principles of total abstinence should govern the camp. No question that in the tents of both men and officers there was material for moderately good cheer. But there is no investigation needed. We take it upon ourselves to my without fear of contradiction, that no body of men, young or old, ever conducted themselves in the camp, and on the streets of Asheville, with more perfect propriety. - Lincolnton Press: Mr. L. A. H. Wilkinson called to see us on Monday and told us that there is a tree growing on his mother's place, near Denver, which at a few feet from the ground divides into two prongs. One of these prongs or branches is a white oak and the other a post oak. Mr. Wilkinson also informs us that Mr. A. C. The festival bearing this name was ushered in by the Israelites last evening. It is the beginning of the civil year; that of the ecclesiastical year being, in accordance with Exodus XI, 2, "the first day of the first month of the months of the year, known in the Hebrew Almanac by the name of Nissan, and corresponding with parts of March and April. The Rosh-Hashanah, with the single exception of the fast of Atonement, is the most solemn festival in the annual cycle, it being celebrated as a memorial of sounding the cornet, a holy convocation" (Leviticus XXIII., 24) preparatory to the day of Atonement, which follows it nine days later; hence the services in the synagegues and temples, on that occasion, are of a very solemn charac-

A DOWN TOWN MERCHANT, having passed several sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the article needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homeopathy. That night the child passed in suffering, and the parents without sleep. Beturning home the day following, the father found the baby still suffering; and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties and left the father with the child. During her absence he administered a portion of the Soothing Syrup to the baby, and said nothing. That night all hands slept well, and the little fellow awoke in the morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the wonderful change, and although at first offended at the deception practiced upon her, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering crying babies and restless nights have disappeared. A single trial of the Syrup never yet falled to relieve the baby, and overcome the prejudices of the mother. Sold by all Druggists. 25 cents a bottle.
