EVENING EDITION.

OLINA.

It looks as if Durham would have a taste of labor troubles before long if we may judge by an article copied into the Daily Reporter from the Chicago Alarm, a paper we had never heard of before. The article would fill a column and a half of the STAR and is headed "Oppression-Wage-Slavery in Durham, North Carolina." The article is very bitter and seems loaded with dynamite. It emanates from some of those imported laborers that have been employed in the factories. We do not know any thing of the purposes of the Durham Knights of Labor, but we do know that the tone of the article sent to Chicago is ominous and there is cause to fear trouble in the near future. Here, for instance, is a passage that is intended to mean a great deal or to be an alarm signal without meaning much:

"And I can gladly state to you that we are already realizing the fruits of our labor, as every new issue of the Alarm is anxiously waited for, and gladly received by the workmen, and after read, handed from one to another until hundreds have read it. We have spread a portion of the Resolts, and I can assure you that the work-men of this town will not be the last to appear at their posts when the Tocsin is sounded for the Social Revolution."

We are pained to see in staid, honest, law-abiding North Carolina such a wild, savage threat as that. Social Revolution! What does he mean? Does he not know that from immemorial time there have been grades in society and that there will be grades until the end comes? Does he not know that among the millions of laborers the world over there are distinctions and classes? But hear this Knight of Labor farther. He says to his fellow workingmen:

The way we are worked is equal to the slaves of Siberia, not allowed so much as one evening in the week to see our com-rades and exchange thoughts and words concerning our condition and for our pro-

Why not go back to the North or to Europe, if that be your original home, if you are dissatisfied with the wages paid you at Durham? North Carolina is at peace with all the world. Our people of all classes and conditions do not favor violence or riots or "revolutionary" proceedings of any kind. Our State is advancing on the high-way of pro ity. Wages perhaps are as good here as anywhere. If they are not then the few hundreds of Northern laborers now in the State would do well to return to their former homes and let our people be undisturbed by threats and incendiary talk. The writer in the Advance draws this picture, and it does not apply to the South much however it may apply to the North. He says:

"Let the cries of your little dwarfed, aungry children, and the wailings of your care-worn wife answer one half of the questions, and the splendor, palaces, and magazines of the rich answer the other half. Is ne say that at present there are no king in our land?

The wealthy men of North Caro. lina are not numerous. There is not a millionaire in the State, and it not certain that there is one worth a half-million. Splendid palaces in the South are scarce. There are two private residences in New York city that cost more than any two hundred residences in North Carolina. La boring people are more respected today in North Carolina than they are in the North. But let the revolu tionist be heard once more, and it you have seen anything more sul phurous and lurid than that outside of a dime novel then you have read what we have not seen. He writes

"It is to us, the toiler, that this land with all of its wealth, happiness and pleasure, belong, and not to the idlers. So arise, and like courageous, free-born men claim and proclaim it as your own. But how can we claim and proclaim it as our own There is only one way to emancipate ou selves, that way is through revolt and death to our enemies. From the graves of our enemies shall freedom glow and happiness to all prevail. But it would be imprudent on our part to revolt unarmed, and to arm ourselves is now our holy duty."

Is this Russia? Is this the land of Nihilism? This is indeed strange talk for North Carolina. If immigration brings this sort of fruit then we must do without it. If Agrarianism and Nihilism are to be the resultants of bringing in workers from the North with their wild and absurd and santanic ideas of revolution and destruction and death then let us have no more such mischievous emissaries scattering the dragon's teeth of discord in the vain hope that, like the teeth of Cadmus, armed men may spring therefrom. We repeat, we deeply regret to see such ideas and threats going out from a State that has been conspicuous for its good order, for the general contentment of the people and for the entire absence of those isms and nuisances that have cursed other States and other coun-

Such ideas and threats will not take root in North Carolina soil. The laboring classes of this State are not fools and fanatics. They know that labor-the sweat of the face-is ap pointed unto most of the children of men, and that to destroy property and kill the prosperous means anarchy and ruin and death and misery and degradation and poverty without employment.

The STAR would not favor oppressing laboring people any more than it would favor murdering all who have accumulated property and distributing it among those who have none. Divide up the whole wealth of the country equally among the people and before night there would be inequality again, for some would get from the others. The writer of this calls himself a laboring man in its true sense, for he works every day in the year for his living, and works sick or well. He can only wish peace, plenty, contentment to all who labor and wait.

EDITOR STEAD'S CASE.

The persons who are after Mr. Stead, the editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, may overdo the thing. He assumes all the responsibility in the alleged abduction case. He says he will exculpate all concerned. The Philadelphia American says:

"Should he satisfy bimself that the prosecution is actuated by other motives than a desire to secure justice to an injured mother, and is acting to secure London society its revenge, he may prove a rather ugly customer. He must have in his hands evidence of a kind much more damaging than any of his disclosures, thus far, and he is just excitable enough and rash enough o retort on his assailants by making use

The excitement throughout England is said to be very great. News dealers are unable to supply the demand for papers containing the trial. A special to the New York Times from London, dated 12th, says:

"Almost all the religious organs support Mr. Stead strongly; or, if disagreeing with some of his methods, they point out bitterly the anomaly that the Government prosecutes the exposers of this vice but shows no desire to attack the perpetrators of it. Mrs. Jarrett and Prof Stuart have both been in France securing evidence. Mr. Stead expresses himself as perfectly satisfied so far with the progress of the case."

It begins to look as if it was a put up job to cripple the unquestioned influence of Mr. Stead, who seems to be a very mercurial, bold, confident character. It is thought that technically he is guilty, but the proof elicited thus far by the prosecution goes to prove, it strikes us, that the mother of the girl and the girl herself are not worthy of belief. The girl admitted that she told what her mother had instructed her to say, whilst the mother was arrested on the night of the alleged abduction for being drunk and disorderly in the street. There is intense feeling against the Salvation Army, and the impression is that Stead will be classes most interested to the centre. Every body in England knows that Stead is the exposer of the crimes perpetrated against the daughters of the middle and lower classes, and that his punishment means an effort to break him down, destroy his influence, and shut his mouth.

This will make the excitement the

At last the people of Spain are able to sing praises to God for the abatement of the awful scourge that has swept over their land sending nearly one hundred thousand victims to death. It has indeed been a fearful epidemic, and its dimensions are still sufficiently great to excite both fear and sympathy. Is this season of cholera to be the last, or will it break out in other places next year as it has for the past two years? Gibbon, in his immortal work that has no rival, tells us that in the time of Justinian a plague spread over all Europe, after originating in Africa, and lasted for more than sixty years, if our memory is not at fault. We remember he says that from 5,000 to 10,000 persons some times died in a day in Constantinople, the then capital of the Roman Empire.

We have read what our neighbor, the Presbyterian, said of our paragraph about the operation of the liquor law in Texas. The STAR, like a live newspaper, merely noted the threatened deficit in the Treasury to show how in one Southern State the law had operated so as to diminish the revenue. Our neighbor is correct in not attributing to us a purpose to oppose a liquor law because it would create a deficit. The STAR opposed prohibition, but it has favored a liquor law, but not to the point of inhibition, but to tax luxuries for the benefit of the State.

Will the STAR please publish the official number of interments in Wilmington for the period covered by our report?-New Berne Journal.

There were 128 deaths in Wilmington in the months of May, June, July and August, exclusive of still-born. This would make the death rate 19.4 for the year in every 1,000 inhabitants, upon a basis of 20,000. It would be 384 for a year. The New Berne interments, as reported, were 81. How many of these died elsewhere or were still-born we do not

We print in this issue a letter writ ten by a little girl of this city, who is now in Western North Carolina. For a correspondent of her age, the work is well done.

CURRENT COMMENT.

- Mr. Sherman would deprive the freed citizens of the South of their political status because of the alleged iniquities of the Southern white men. He gravely declares that the votes of negroes are not counted, and mentions Virginia as one of the States of which this is true. His statement is simply infamous. This is strong language, but it is fully justified, for he knows that this State has to-day two Republicans-Mahone and Riddleberger-in the Senate of the United States. He knows that the votes of the colored men of Virginia had to be received and counted before this could happen. He is furthermore aware that John S. Wise was elected Congressman-at-large, that Libby, and Brady, and Paul have had colored votes counted in their favor; and his assertion is shown to be false by the record, which no one knows better than he does. But his false witness, vile and malignant as his intention is, can do no harm at this late day.-Norfolk Landmark,

-- If Mr. Parnell hopes to make Ireland more prosperous by a high protective tariff he is not only applying to Ireland a policy which has failed disastrously in the great United States, where protection from the foreigner means comparatively little -so vast is the continent within which there is perfect free tradebut he is applying it to a small and poor country, in which any blunder of that kind will speedily take effect in penury and famine. First rent asunder by home rule, and then hermetically sealed from all the world by a policy of protection, Ireland would indeed soon rue the blighting influence of Mr. Parnell's ascendency. -London Spectator.

- George W. Cable's stock of misinformation on the negro question in the South is about as large as what he doesn't know about Creoles. Neither could be transported on the Great Eastern for lack of stowage room. Mr. Cable is a very small Puritanical person—a physiological mistake. He should have been born in the neighborhood of Cape Cod and summered annually at the base of Plymouth Rock. He is entirely too sublimated for life in a section where people's veins are filled with blood instead of turnip-juice. - Louisville Times.

ACTIVITY IN TRADE.

N. Y. Commercial Bulletin, Sept. 12. The week has been an active one in commercial circles, with further gratifying evidences of a decided improved feeling in the leading trades as the season advances. The This will make the excitement the greater and will stir the heart of the as our own. Thus, from Boston we iceable activity in the wool man ket during the week, with a marked advance in prices, and a large number of manafacturers still in the market. In woollen goods, also, the situation there is much improved. From the South and West, also, there are multiplying indications that the distributing trade in those sections is much better than in late years. As to New York, it need only be said that, as regards dry goods, the mar-ket is thronged with retail buyers from all parts of the country; and as some evidence of the extent of their takings, it may be stated that the largest jobbing house in this city sold more goods in the regular way last week than in any former week in its history. This is a very significant fact. Other local jobbers report an unusually brisk demand for fall and winter goods.

THE NEW STAR IN ANDRO-MEDA.

New York Herald.

London, Sept. 11 .- Astronomers have for the first time in the history of the world assisted at the birth of a new member of our steller system. Dr. Harting, of the Dorpat University Observatory in Russia, is the godfather of this by no means little stranger, which may be thirty million times larger than our sun, and which by its mere birth threatens to upset many of our most cherished astronomical theories. The nebula of Andromeda is the nother of the new star. Between 9 and 10 o'clock on any clear evening the newly-born may be found in the eastern sky, well up from the horizon, as a glowing point of the eighth magnitude, surrounded by the cloudike mist of the nebula from which it spraug. A good pair of opera glasses will clearly show both the nebula and and star.

Our widwife astronomers are now hard at work measuring, weighing and gossiping about the unexpected youngster, which has given them no cause for complaint as regards either growth or ability to make a noise in the world. On August 10 the nebula was carefully scanned, but not the slighest signs of change were observed. The nebula, according to a photograph then taken, remained in its ordinary condition of a gigantic agglomeration or faintly glowing star mist, in which the most powerful telescopes could distinguish nothing except a faintly defined

On August 19 the new star was seen as a brilliant point near the nucleus, but the great importance of the discovery was not appreciated until this week. Since its sudden birth the star has given constant cause for astronomical gossip on account of its irregular habits. Not only has it changed its position in the sky by ten seconds in one direction and two seconds in the other, but it also shines with an unsteady, flickering, orangelike light new to members of the staid

OUR STATE CONTEMPORARIES.

The colleges, almost without exception not excluding the University, are bidding for unprepared boys-some high, classical olleges stooping to little catch-penny "type-writing courses," taking boys to teach them the multiplication table and to con over their a-b abs. The result is to make confusion worse confounded. There is no grading our schools. Some of our State colleges are not nearly so good as some of our high schools. The result is, our people are 'all at sea." There is no superior sound to the word College. The fact is that no college ought to be patronized that has a preparatory department. More; the high schools should combine to withhold their influence from our University and from our colleges if they have preparatory departments. As it is, the high schools will have to extend their courses of studies and come in competition with the colleges if they are to be antagonized by the colleges. We can keep our boys longer if the colleges force us to do it. —Oak Leaf.

Men may cease to trade, but they must and will eat. Bills of exchange may prove valueless, but the garnered harvest will still have a value. The ship may rot in the harbor, but the plow will still turn the furrow. Nature is never bankrupt. Whatever else fails, she will remain solvent. The dews and rains of heaven will ever fall lovingly upon the earth's bosom and the arrow of light descend from the sun's exhaustless quiver. She will never fail to bring forth "corn and wine" to make glad the heart of man. Thieves may break in and steal bill and bond, but the farm is not the subject of larceny. - Elizabeth City Carolinian.

THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSES The American Agriculturist

PROM THE TENTH CENSUS, VOL. 8, JUST PUBLISHED The American Agriculturist is especially worthy of mention, because of the remarkable success that has attended the unique and untiring efforts of its proprietors to increase and extend its circulation. Its contents are duplicated every month for a German edition, which also circulates widely."

This Tribute is a pleasing incident in the mar-

Career of this recognized leading Agricultural Journal of the world. What it is To-Day.

Six months ago the American Agriculturist et tered upon a NEW CAREER OF PROSPERIT tered upon a NEW CAREER OF PROSPERITY and to-day it is far superior to any similar periodical ever produced in this or any other country. Richer in editorial strength; richer in engravings; printed on finer paper, and presenting in every issue 100 columns of original reading matter from the ablest writers, and nearly 100 illustrations. Dr. George Thurber, for nearly quarter of a century the editor-in-chief of the American Agriculturist, Joseph Harris, Byron D. Halsted, Col. M. C. Weld, and Andrew S. Fuller, the other long time Editors, together with the other writers who have made the American Agriculturist what it is to-day, ARE STILL AT THEIR POSTS.
