ignore convictions and principles and promises. The Tilden platform of 1876 was strong for revision and reduction. The country is far worse off now than then, and much more needs a change in the Tariff laws.

In the third place, Protection Democrats are not very numerous in the South, we think. We doubt if there are fifty thousand to be found. They have a perfect right to their views, but if they favor retaining the present War Tariff they are out of harmony with the traditions, principles and deliverances of the Democratic party in the Union. But there is no free trade policy favored even by those who believe that as an abstract principle it is true.

The Philadelphia Times is a Protection exponent but it favors some sort of reduction. In a late issue it said this of the triumph of the Democracy in the last election and the election of the Oleveland Administration:

"It was done because the country was assured that the free trade dreamers had been unhorsed in the Democratic party, and that honest Tariff revision, based on ust discriminations in favor of the general productive industries of the country and against all monopoly, would be attained under a Democratic reform administration. "The great business interests of the country, financial, industrial and commercial, now well understand and generously ap preciate the conservative position of the government in regard to the material pros-perity of the people. * * * It is now understood that the government is to be administered on business principles; that the Tariff is to be revised on business principles, and that the industrial and genera business interests of the nation are to guide the Cleveland administration regardless of political campaigns."

SOUND PRINCIPLES VERSUS FED-BRAL BOUNTY.

Senator Blair has given notice that the Paternal Pedagogy bill will be again introduced in Congress, and he feels confident that it will become a law. Very likely. Among the Congressmen of this decade "the old flag and an appropriation" constitute a most potent influence. If the Blair bill could be discussed upon its self-respect, self-reliance, and independence of the people and invade the Sovereign Commonwealths.

TOBACCO-IS IT HURTFUL. Professor Huxley, a very eminent

British man of science, in a recent way of this gold-mania and that is debate on smoking took ground in silver. Therefore the special war on favor of tobacco. He said he tried to use tobacco but it was a poison This lasted for forty years. But re cently he had tried it and was delighted. He said:

"There is no more harm in a pipe than here is in a cup of tea. You may poison yourself by drinking too much green tea, and kill yourself by eating too many beef-steaks. For my own part I consider that tobacco, in moderation, is a sweetener and equalizer of the temper.

There are hundreds of men who have lived to eighty or even ninety or more who used tobacco and drank strong coffee all their lives. We knew one old man in Halifax, Mr. Cullom, who died at 96 years and used tobacco in great excess from his fourteenth year, as he told us, with the exception of only three weeks. There is no doubt that tobacco is very injurious to many constitutions. But there are millions who use it with impunity. We knew of one pale-faced, dirt-eating looking Virginian from the Eastern Shore who was made ruddy and healthy by chewing tobacco and swallowing the amber. Fact.

Gov, Cameron, of Virginia, was asked as to the fairness of elections in his State. He admits that the election last fall "was, as a rule, freely and fairly conducted." But not content to stop with this. he goes on to say that he cannot predict how it will be in November. He thus leaves the impression that there is a probability of its not being "free and fair." The Washington Post administers a mild reproof for not being more candid in his statement and says:

"That the election was, as a rule, freely and fairly conducted, he knows as well as can be, and all his information goes to substantiate the statement that not only were constitutional merits and without an the Presidential and preceding elections freely and fairly conducted, but were peaceable, orderly and honest as anywhere. Now that he is out of the race and should be above partisanship, he might have said a ittle more to sustain the deservedly good reputation of his native State. But there is no justification or excuse for the last clause of his letter."

Scarcely had the hills along the Alleghany ceased to reverberate the tones of the explosion when the frenzied, frightened wives, mothers and children began to rush upon the scene and peer anxiously into the faces of the gasping, dying men, seeking to identify their loved ones, or inquiring in agonized terms if they had escaped. Women half dressed, others putting on their elothing as they ran, almost nude, screaming at the top of their voices, crowded and ostled each other in the mad rush for the mill. Arriving there they were silent for a moment. Then a woman's wail was heard, and another, and another, until there was nothing but a discordant chorus of feminine shricks and moans and cries of anguish. The cries and groans of the parboiled men would occasionally rise above the women's voices. It was an awful scene, and the physicians who arrived at this time said they were almost unnerved at the sight and in the presence of so much human suffering, physical and mental. The injured were found lying in all positions. Some of them were so far away from the battery that it seemed impossible that they could have been injured by the explosion.

The large number of boys hurt is ac counted for by the fact that they were employed to handle the hoop iron, which was rolled in the mill nearest the boilers. It was fully twenty minutes after the explosion before a boy, Frank Murray, was we know the people of Chatham to taken out from under the truck where he be, shall rally around Judge Lynch to vindicate the majesty of the law, was blown. In addition to being scalded he was terribly crushed by the weight of iron that was piled on top of him. Jas. Cattoe and Frank Martin suffered most from escaping steam. EVENING EDITION

PROTECTION ORGANSAND TARIFF REVISION.

When a Protection paper begins to talk of "common sense about the Tariff" you may look out for a good deal of quiet and perhaps superlative nonsense. Last year the Protection organs asserted again and again that the Democrats meant to wipe out all protection, abolish the Tariff altogether and destroy the industries. The name they gave the Democrats who simply favored a fair, scientific readjustment and a common-sense reduction of the Tariff was "Free Traders." They did this knowing that there were not probably a thous. and Democrats in the country who desired the wiping out of the Tariff. They knew that probably there were as many actual Free Traders among Republicans as there were among Democrats. But it was campaign times, and the mills of misrepresentation must run and the Protection pa pers must furnish the grist.

One of the most conspicuous and ablest of this class of papers was the Philadelphia Press. It is not only a very blind advocate of High Protection, but it keeps a fellow named Porter employed who, like Satan, goes up and down the earth gathering facts and statistics to manipulate and pervert for the advancement of the Protection hobby. That paper last year predicted awful things if the Democrats got in power. But just now it lowers its tone and changes its tune. Hear it:

"It is not likely that the Democrats in Congress will attempt anything more in the way of a revision of the tariff beyond the changing of certain ad valorem duties to specific duties and the consequent increase or reduction upon the articles so changed of the import tax. The truth is, the majority in the House is afraid to tinker the tariff. In the Southern States, where the free trade sentiment was almost universal a few years ago, there is a growing belief in the benefits of protection, especially in those localities where manufactures are springing up. It will not do to frighten and possibly ruin this class by radical leg-islation in the direction of free trade."

A few comments are necessary. The Democrats showed in their platform of principles adopted at Chicago that they never intended "to at-appeal to the mean and sordid passions of human nature, there would not be a corporal's guard to vote for it in the Congress. But the idea of becoming a Government pensioner and drawing a million or two dollars each year from the Federal Treasury is too much for the average man who is in Congress. It will be an evil day and bitter when the Blair bill becomes a law. It will be the beginning of a constitutional interpretation that is too contemptible for refutation, and the beginning of a constitutional violation that only presages the downfall, soon or late, of that sadred instrument.

But the bill will pass, and henceforth the United States Government becomes the universal patron and school teacher in the States of the Union. Shades of Jefferson and Madison and Jackson and Jerry Black! When the Constitution is treated as a huge piece of india rubber that can be made to cover every enormity, to meet every demand of sordid natures, to satisfy the clamor of demagogism, to rob the people under the most specious pleas of necessity and right, then it ceases to be of real value and is unworthy of serious regard. There are men from the South in the Congress who pass under the name of Democrats who either have no accurate knowledge of the history and guiding principles of genuine Democracy or they have no regard whatever for their binding obligations. There are Democrats and Democrats and they are very unlike in the principles and doctrines they profess to hold.

A distinguished North Carolina speaker was addressing an audience some years ago. Another prominent North Carolinian, a Judge, was among the auditors. He said to us afterwards: "I listened for two hours to the speaker and although we are fighting for the same end-to keep out Radicalism-and will support the same ticket. I do not think he gave expression to a half dozen opinions with which I agree. In fact I do not accept but little he said." Now both of these gentlemen tempt" any thing radical or destruc- were fighting under a common bantive. The Tariff plank very care- ner but were both Democrats? Nay,

The effort to injure Attorney General Garland by gross misrepresentation is quite like the New York Tribnne and altogether worthy of that disreputable sheet. It charges him with abusing his high office for sordid, selfish ends. The whole charge has been squarely denied by Mr. Garland. He is incapable of doing any thing that is not fair, honorable and above board.

THE PERIODICALS.

The Century Magazine for October has its usual variety of fine engravings and reading matter. It is to a considerable extent a Grant number, much space being devoted to reminiscences, &c., of him. Among other papers that are illustrated are Lieutenant Schwatka's second and concluding paper on his explorations in Alaska Mrs. Lizzie W. Champney's description of "The Haunts of American Artists," profusely illustrated with pictures of country studios; and Mr. Howells's "Tuscan Cities," illustrated with numerous etchings by Pannell. Brander Matthews contributes the short story of the number, which is called "Love at First Sight;" the serial is the ninth part of Henry James's "Bostonians." There are many other articles, long and short. Price $4 a year.

The Eclectic Magazine for October has rich and instructive table. It is strange that this unrivalled monthly is not more sought after in Wilmington. It has no illustrations, but it gives you the cream of the British periodical publications. The current number, for instance, has papers from Contemporary Review, Fortnightly Review, Nineteenth Century, Blackwood's Magazine, Leisure Hour, Gentleman's Magazine, Belgravia, Cornhill Magazine, Mack-millan's Magazine, Temple Bar, Fortnight-ly Magazine, and Good Words. Price $5 a year.

It is not only a serious, but a fearful matter. * * This spirit may be condemned; cool headed, law-abiding people may deplore and protest against it, but it will break out now and then, here and elsewhere, until some system be devised for the speedy trial and speedy punishment of people who commit crimes which shock humanity, and of that atrocious nature that not only merit swift punishment but awaken a spirit for vengeance that spurns law and stops not to reason. The quadruple lynching in Chatham county was an occurrence very much to he deplored as an outrage upon our system of law. It will be condemned unhesitatingly by the public opinion of the State. It was not unexpected and it should have been provided against. * * No community can afford to permit any overriding of the law of the land. The safety of society demands the punishment of offenses against it according to legal process only. To any other course there can be no end save in the direct confusion and the greatest hurt to every interest. * * We must seek in every way to prevent such outrages as that of yesterday, but we must also make our lemethods as far as possible swift gal and sure. There should be no possibility of escape for criminals from the hands of the law, and punishment for proven crime should be prompt and invariable.

NEW YORK MUGWUMPS, Boston Post, Dem.

The lively political gymnastics inlulged in by some of our esteemed mugwump contemporaries in New York, have demoralized-we hope only temporarily-their ratiocinative faculties. We deeply deplore this, not so much because from our point of view their condition may threaten injury to political interests which we may have at heart, as because we regret to see them deserting a position which they could always maintain with reasons, for one that they have to defend with sophistries. We can understand the force of old associations. We cannot wonder so much at a yearning to return to the bosom of a political family where they have been so often warmed and comforted. but if they can come with no better excuses or reasons than they have yet advanced, let them come empty handed, throwing themselves on the mercy of the offended mother, the

as they live. Those most seriously injured were taken to the hospital, while the others were removed to their honles. The inte rior of the finishing mill presented a terrible sight of desolation after the accident. Things were badly wrecked.

Exploits of a Young Bick Turpin-A Stage Coach Stopped and the Mail Bags Rifled by an Eighteen-Year Old Boy.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

GALVESTON, October 2.- A special to the Vews, from Dallas, says: J. Kane and Jno. Cormock, citizens of Lampasas, who were passengers on the stage from San Angelo to Abaline, give the following account of a daring robbery sixteen miles east of Runnells. A smooth faced boy, about eighteen years of age, met and passed the stage. He wore a loose blue flannel shirt, and his trousers were stuck in his boots. He car ried a Winchester rifle and a six shooter After the stage passed him he turned and demanded a halt. The driver whipped up his team, and an exciting race for half a mile ensued, before the stage was over hauled by the highwayman, who demand ed the mail sacks, at the same time saying he did not care to disturb the passengers, six in number, including a lady. The mail sacks were delivered to him, when he carried them two hundred yards out on the prairie and lei surely appropriated what he wanted. While this scene was being enacted the stage from Abaline for San Angelo came up with seven male passengers. Weapons were called for. and a man who claimed to be a ranger en route to Runnels, loaded his pistol, buckled on his belt and held himself in readiness to repel any attack that might be made on the stage. The robber, however, after satisfying himself, rode off, leaving the mail bags on the prairie. Officers are now in hot pursuit of him. He is supposed to be the same highwayman who robbed the mail between Cisco and Brownwood a few days
