

OUTLINES.

The triumph of the Conservatives in the recent elections in France will make a new Cabinet necessary. — The agreement between Germany and Spain on the Caroline Islands question will be officially announced shortly. — A letter purporting to have been written by President Cleveland to a friend in Buffalo, N. Y., and published, is pronounced a forgery. — Mrs. Druse, who murdered her husband in Herkimer county, N. Y., has been convicted and sentenced to be hung November 25th. — Major Townsend, President of the Chesaw & Salisbury and Chesaw & Darlington R. R. Cos., is dead. — U. S. troops are guarding the Yellowstone Valley in Montana from depredating Indians. — A private banker at Valparaiso, Chile, carried off the funds of his bank; liabilities $7,000; assets $10. — A steamer burned on the lake; the crew escaped. — John M. Wilson gave himself up to the police in Chicago, voluntarily confessing a murder committed in Pennsylvania in February, 1884; his story proved to be true. — It is officially denied that Belgium has withdrawn from the monetary conference. — Cardinal McCloskey is very ill at his residence in New York city. — Ex-Gov. Talbot, of Mass., is dead. — The mine explosion at Flood Rock takes place Saturday next. — Albert Cooke killed his wife and her mother at Compton, Ill. — Four men robbed the passengers on a crowded car on the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Hollidaysburg. — Ex-Senator Sherman spoke at Toledo, O., Monday night, giving a great portion of his remarks to a reply to recent speeches of Sherman. — New York market: Money 1 1/4 per cent; cotton quiet and steady at 10 1/2-16 @ 10 1/2-16; corn advanced 1/4 @ 45; ungraded 45 @ 50; southern 45 @ 50; 34 @ 50; 34 @ 50; spirits turpentine firm at 34 @ 35; rosin firm at 10 @ 11.

The Czar favors peace and will do what he can to secure it, he says. — Beer is tumbling in Cincinnati. It is down to $7 a barrel and will go to $6 it is said. — Dr. Deems has been making a temperance or prohibition speech in New York at Chickering Hall.

The Cincinnati Times-Star, an old straight out Republican paper, thinks the Republicans are losing ground in Ohio. — The Egyptian obelisk in Central Park, New York, is crumbling under the unfavorable climatic influences.

John Robinson's circus had a smash up on the Union Pacific Railroad. Part of one section broke loose on an up grade and ran against the other sections. Three sleepers were crushed, five men were killed and forty wounded out of two hundred.

Louisiana has fine beds of iron ore, but no coal. South Carolina is in the same fix. The lack of coal spoils the prospect for cheap iron. — Augusta Chronicle.

North Carolina has both the iron and coal. With more railroad facilities the furnaces ought to be going with the fuel from our own immense coal fields.

About the coolest thing during the cool season in New York is the following from Ben Butler's organ, that did all it could to elect Jim Blaine. Hear the Sun:

"And finally, with charity toward all and malice toward none, we bid a pleasing farewell to the Mugwump squad." — Ah, Charles Dana thy right name is "cheek."

The Tory London correspondent of the N. Y. Times, in his last dispatch, admits that the Tories are having trouble with the Irish. He says:

"Irish landlords are refusing universally to abate rents and striving to the utmost to provoke the people to violence, while they are working the outrage question in the English press for all it is worth, with a view to coercing Lord Salisbury to adopt their policy."

A new medical discovery is mentioned. It is the substitution of nitro-glycerine for alcohol as a heart stimulant, in cases of shock from accidents, faintness, surgical operations, &c. Two drops of a 1 per cent. solution are said to be equal to an ounce of brandy, and the effect is immediate.

A man named Monday, from Charlottesville, Va., married a Miss Wilkins, of Lynchburg. He is 22, and he says his marriage broke up two other marriages. His bride was to have married another fellow. He himself was to have married in a few days a Staunton young lady. Big flirtation all around and not much heart in it.

THE MORNING STAR.

VOL. XXXVII.—NO. 13.

WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1885.

WHOLE NO. 5944

The Princeton Review is to be revived, and the old way of discussing subjects with elaboration and exhaustive ability will be perpetuated. Some of the latter-day Review papers are not half as full and thorough as some of the great Jo Gales' editorials of thirty years ago in the National Intelligencer. You can learn something from thorough discussion of important topics. You can see this to perfection in the old Edinburgh and London Quarterly Reviews. Carlyle or Macaulay or Sir James Stephens would have filled a whole number of the North American Review, and with matter worthy the attention of a dozen generations.

Virginia has one great orator, no doubt. Not only is Major John W. Daniel the author of the best oration we ever read from a Southern man, but he is a political speaker, we suppose, of magnetic power and kindling eloquence. He is now canvassing and the impression he makes is fine. At Petersburg the demonstration was very great. The Index-Appeal said: "It was several minutes before the people exhausted themselves in their tumultuous greeting, but when at last the speaker was permitted to proceed, he held the class attention of his audience uninterrupted for three hours, and the spell which his eloquence wove around them was only broken at intervals, when the enthusiasm aroused by his burning words became too overpowering and had to find vent in cheers and shouts and clapping of hands."

There is another English claimant for an estate and a title. A woman from Australia puts in a claim that her son is the rightful owner of property and title that has passed to others. A London letter says:

"The new peer, who is not the son of the deceased, will be asked to surrender to the new owner, who professes that he is. It is declared that the lady will be able to produce a certificate of her marriage with the late peer and to prove that her son is the lawful issue of the union. The striking fact in this pretension is that, allowing the documentary evidence to be unimpeachable, the marriage must have taken place when the late peer was about 16 years of age."

Mahone accuses Gov. Cameron of treachery against him. They do not speak. Cameron is opposed to Billy's going to the Senate and because he is unfit. He is the friend of Wise. He is opposed to "bossism" and would rather see the Legislature Democratic than see Mahone re-elected Senator. Mahone has attacked Cameron in a Philadelphia paper through one of his employed correspondents.

Always Thought It the Best. Hillsboro Observer. The Wilmington Star has completed its eighteenth year. It is the oldest of the North Carolina dailies, and we have always thought it the best. Shine on bright STAR.

Spirits Turpentine. — There was frost at Hillsboro ten days ago.

— Washington Gazette: Mrs. Mary Waters died at her home, about 18 miles from town, on the 28th ult., at the advanced age of 98 years.

— Hillsboro Observer: Miss Mary Carmichael died at her residence in Hillsboro, Thursday, October 1st, at 6 o'clock a. m. — The resignation of Rev. W. L. Wright, pastor of the Baptist Church of Hillsboro, has been accepted. He has accepted a call from the Baptist Church at Reidsville.

— Lexington Dispatch: Rev. R. T. N. Stevenson is holding an interesting protracted meeting at Fair Grove church, near Thomasville. About twenty conversions are reported this week. — The attendance at the Thomasville College is larger than in years past. Mr. Stallings and his efficient corps of teachers merit success.

— Kinston Press: Aaron Ferrey, a negro employed on the steamer Carolina, had his leg broken last Wednesday by a bale of cotton falling on it. — The dead body of a negro man was found at the mouth of Contentnea Creek, last Thursday, by the crew of the steamer Blanche. He was blown on his face and a scar on his forehead.

— Black Mountain Pioneer: What a contrast has this court week been to those of the past! No bar-room, no drunkenness, no fighting. Everything moves along as quietly and orderly as at a church gathering. With liquor abolished everybody feels better—even the old topera themselves, who always thought it a duty to get drunk and fight when they come to town.

— Warrenton Gazette: Judge Phillips is the only Judge that has been here in ten years that we recollect, in time to open Court promptly Monday morning. — Mr. Hugh J. White bought this week 160 acres of the Hall tract, near town, at $30 per acre. — It is useless for any more people to come to Warrenton unless they build or board, for there is not a vacant house to be had in the place.

— Asheville Citizen: We have inadvertently omitted to tender our greetings to two of our most esteemed contemporaries, the Wilmington Star, which has entered upon its eighteenth year, and the Salisbury Watchman, which has done an entirely new dress, and is otherwise improved. Both are able, earnest, devoted friends of North Carolina, and deserve a full measure of prosperity, and may both continue in the fullest enjoyment of such.

— Raleigh Visitor: The Supreme Court met at 10 o'clock this morning, with all the Justices on the Bench. There were about twenty-five applicants for licenses. — The jury in the Duncan O. Haywood case came into court last Saturday afternoon and rendered the following verdict: Is the defendant guilty or not guilty of the forgery with which he stands charged? Answer, Guilty of forgery and guilty of uttering and publishing. Is he now insane? Answer, No.

— Tarboro Southern: This week the Sentinel makes probably its last appearance. The editor, J. C. Dancy, will leave here for Salisbury where he will conduct a religious paper. — Jonathan Jenkins, one of Edgewood's progressive farmers, laid on our table last week a splendid sample of cured bright tobacco, raised by him on his farm in Cockeys town. — O. Marks Jenkins was born and raised in Granville in the heart of the tobacco section. He says no better tobacco can be raised any where than in Edgewood.

— New Bern Journal: New Bern's death rate for September was less than one to the thousand, having only two deaths in a white population of 3,500. For the nine months ending September 30th, we have had twelve deaths in the thousand, while the death rate for the same period of the year was one to the thousand. We are both pleased and surprised that our dry goods merchants are making an effort with some success to regain the wholesale trade formerly enjoyed by New Bern. Only a day or two ago Mr. O. Marks Jenkins, a wagon with several large boxes packed with goods, arrived in New Bern, and we have mentioned but recently transactions of a similar nature by other merchants.

— Monroe Enquirer-Express: A large number of farmers are bringing their cotton this season who carried it to Kinston last year. Mr. Thomas J. Ezell, who lives in the western portion of the county, suffered the loss of his barn with all its contents, by fire, on Thursday evening last. The barn was full of fodder and other forage. The loss was about $800, with no insurance. If any one is disposed to doubt that Monroe is not growing in popularity as a cotton market he will radically change his mind, we doubt not, in the light of the following fact. In the month of September last year, only 470 bales of cotton were weighed here against 1,438 in 1884.

— Goldsboro Messenger: The Oak City Blues of Raleigh will play the Colored Fair to be held here in November. — Mr. W. F. Kornegy, President, thinks the outlook for the Goldsboro, Snow Hill & Greenville Railroad is very encouraging. — Observing farmers estimate that the cotton crop in this section, which in July looked so promising, has been damaged fully 25 per cent. — The surviving members of the old Goldsboro Rifles are requested to send their names to Lieut. T. B. Bain, preparatory to the arrangements for the reception of the flag captured near New Bern. We learn that the return of the long lost banner will be commemorated by appropriate ceremonies.

The loss of the Goldsboro Rifles by the accident near Asheville last summer has been adjusted to the satisfaction of all the members of the company, with the exception of Messrs. Jesse Scott and John T. Edmundson, who were not included in the settlement. The injuries of these gentlemen were more serious than those of the others, and hence they were indisposed to settle upon the same terms.

— Charlotte Observer: Rev. J. C. Galloway has accepted a call to Yorkville, S. C., and will take his departure for that place during the coming week. He delivers his farewell sermon to his people to day, at the Associate Reformed Church. The stranger who was found sick in a car at the Air Line depot and who was removed to the Home and Hospital a few nights since, died in his ward at that institution yesterday morning, and his body was interred in Elmwood Cemetery in the afternoon. Nothing could be learned of him except that his name was Charles Chapman. — Washington Items: Senator Vance has just returned to "Gombroos" from Kentucky. I learn that he is not looking for here until November. — The Senator's recent visit to the Louisville Courier Journal is much talked of among North Carolinians and other Southerners. — The late Judge Heath's son, Mr. R. R. Heath, himself a native of North Carolina, left yesterday for his home in Memphis, by way of Louisville, Pa. He has been confined for several months with paralysis, but his health is probably quite restored. — Young Miss Julia Wheeler, who will read to-night the dedicatory poem of Mr. Montgomery at the New National Theatre, is a daughter of Mr. Bully Wheeler, and a granddaughter of both Bully, the artist, and Col. John H. Wheeler, the historian. She is beautiful as well as talented. Miss Wheeler is a member of Mile Rhea's troupe, which is playing 'till opening engagement in the New National.

— Charlotte Observer: Rev. J. C. Galloway has accepted a call to Yorkville, S. C., and will take his departure for that place during the coming week. He delivers his farewell sermon to his people to day, at the Associate Reformed Church. The stranger who was found sick in a car at the Air Line depot and who was removed to the Home and Hospital a few nights since, died in his ward at that institution yesterday morning, and his body was interred in Elmwood Cemetery in the afternoon. Nothing could be learned of him except that his name was Charles Chapman. — Washington Items: Senator Vance has just returned to "Gombroos" from Kentucky. I learn that he is not looking for here until November. — The Senator's recent visit to the Louisville Courier Journal is much talked of among North Carolinians and other Southerners. — The late Judge Heath's son, Mr. R. R. Heath, himself a native of North Carolina, left yesterday for his home in Memphis, by way of Louisville, Pa. He has been confined for several months with paralysis, but his health is probably quite restored. — Young Miss Julia Wheeler, who will read to-night the dedicatory poem of Mr. Montgomery at the New National Theatre, is a daughter of Mr. Bully Wheeler, and a granddaughter of both Bully, the artist, and Col. John H. Wheeler, the historian. She is beautiful as well as talented. Miss Wheeler is a member of Mile Rhea's troupe, which is playing 'till opening engagement in the New National.

— The Raleigh Visitor has the following notice of the performance of Cole's circus in that city: "The circus on Saturday afternoon last and at night was attended by very large audiences. The performance was very good and we believe gave general satisfaction. The trapeze performance was as good as ever seen here. The trained elephants and horses were very fine. There were many features about the circus which were quite commendable. The absence of lady riders, however, was noticed. The officers and employees were the most orderly and gentlemanly that we have ever seen connected with a circus. We commend them to the public wherever they may exhibit."

It exhibits in Wilmington on Saturday next.

— Personal. Prof. Gaston M. Hobbs, a thorough musician, has determined to make his home in our city, and he comes most highly recommended. The professor is well known here and will add much to the musical talent of the place.

— Capt. O. H. Blocker is registered at the Purcell House. Mr. W. A. Guthrie, of Fayetteville, is in the city.

— Rev. Dr. Pritchard and Messrs. J. M. Chastain, E. H. Freeman and Alfred Alderman are the delegates of the First Baptist Church to the Eastern Baptist Association, which met at Mt. Olive, Wayne county, yesterday.

— Superior Court. The Court met yesterday morning, when the case of Beverly Scott vs. the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Co., was continued until the next term. After this a few motions were heard and the Court adjourned.

— Before adjournment Solicitor Allen reported to his Honor that he had examined the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court (Mr. VanAmringe) and found the books and papers properly filed and recorded. His Honor approved the report and ordered it filed.

— Judge McKay goes from here to Clinton, where a two-weeks term will be held, beginning Monday next.

The Renting of Stalls and Stores in Market Houses. The following is the report of the committee on markets of the Board of Aldermen, made at the meeting of the Board on Monday night last, but which was unavoidably omitted from our report of the proceedings published yesterday:

That in accordance with the city ordinances in such cases, on September 21st, 1885, at public auction, they rented in the three markets of the city of Wilmington, at public advertisement, all the stalls which were vacant and for rent, as follows: One stall in Fifth Ward Market, to Geo. Fearman, at $1 per month; Fourth Street Market, one stall to Thos. Watson, (since vacated); Front Street Market, stalls Nos. 3, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, to F. W. King, at $3 per month. Premiums not having been paid on stalls Nos. 5 and 8 within the legal time, they were re-rented Sept. 27th. There was so much doubt as to the value of the ordinance under which all the stalls and stores were previously rented, and as it was an open question entailing expense and litigation whether the occupants who had been holding for a year could be dispossessed, your committee adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and premium as that of last year; that they only rented such stalls and stores as had been given up or were vacant. They had it understood, however, that all stalls in all cases were for one year from October 1st, 1885; so that next October all the stalls and stores would be put up at auction to the highest bidder. They recommend that notice be given to every occupant of the stalls in the markets, and of the stores in Front Street Market, of the ordinance prior to October 1st, 1886, that all stalls and stores will be rented at auction October 1st, 1886. They recommend, further, that the market ordinance concerning these rentals be amended and made plain and less ambiguous, so as to have the question of the right of the city to rent these stalls and stores in 1886 no further in doubt. They also report that for the reason that there are many stalls in the market vacant, and that the city ordinance adopted the following plan: In all cases where occupants who were holding stalls and stores at the time of this rental were the same persons who had rented them at the last annual rental, and who had paid up all rent, &c., the committee allowed them to remain in possession at the same rate of rent and