The Morning Star

By WILLIAM H. BERNARD. WILMINGTON, N. C. WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCT. 14, 1885. EVENING EDITION.

THE VIRGINIA OUTLOOK.

Gen. Mahone is the best party organizer in Virginia. This is his reputation, and in it lies his strength and danger. The Lynchburg Advance, edited by a shrewd politician, of the 12th inst., says of his calculations:

"That he has some hope of success there can be no doubt. It is stated, for instance, that he claims 6,000 majority for Wise in the second, or Norfolk district, and 8,000 in the fourth or Petersburg district. It is said, also, that he claims 3,500 majority in the ninth, or Abingdon district, which would give Wise an aggregate majority of 17,500 in the State, to be overcome by the seven other conceded Democrats. In his estimates, of course the vote of the State will be as close as it was in the Presidential election of last year, and Fitz Lee's majority will not exceed 6,000."

But Maj. Glass, the editor referred to, does not accept this calculation as correct. He thinks the people are fully aroused and that a sweeping victory awaits the Democrats in November. He places Lee's majority at 20,000. All the speculations as to the result we have noticed in Democratic papers are favorable, and if victory does not crown the efforts of the Democrats there will be widespread disappointment throughout Virginia.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL AND REPUBLICAN ORGANS.

Attorney General Garland is still the victim of unmanly and mean thrusts at the hands of Republican editors. The Philadelphia Press is an organ. It is rarely ever fair. It can find nothing in a Democrat that pleases it. It is not singular that people should attach any importance to the opinion of any paper of this kind—of either party—that is rankly partisan, and goes to work, not to find and tell the truth, but to pervert facts, slander character and make party capital. An organ's opinion is really of no value. It is generally paid to say what it says, and hence the truth is lost sight of completely. Here is what the Press said of Attorney General Garland and the telephone suit:

"Attorney General Garland will sell his telephone stock at present prices. The attempt to work up a bull movement by using the other company has failed out."

tion as that is incomparably infamous and base. Other Republican organs are engaged in this dirty work of personal defamation. Mr. Garland has had nothing to do with the bringing of the suit against the Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Garland owns considerable stock in the Pan-Electric Company, and hence the attempt to make it appear that he connived at a suit against the Bell Company because it would be to his personal advantage.

Mr. John Goode, Solicitor General, is alone responsible for the action of the Department of Justice. Mr. Garland not only did not have anything whatever to do with the bringing of the suit, but did not know that it was to be brought. But says the Philadelphia American, another Republican organ that can never find anything to approve in a Democratic Administration, but condemns and fault-finds:

"It may be that it was thought convenient to cover Mr. Garland's connection by a second evasion, not unlike the first. There may have been no more than an understanding that the suit would be brought if an application were made, and that it had better be made when Mr. Garland was taking his vacation. In a word, the defence does not meet the case. Mr. Garland owes to the public and especially to those who have thought well of him—in which number we wish to be reckoned—a much simpler and more explicit denial than this. If he can make one."

Mr. Garland emphatically denies that he has had anything whatever to do with the suit, and he says squarely that he had no knowledge that it was to be brought until he learned of the fact by telegraph. Among those who know him this will be sufficient. He has character, and his statement will be believed among all honorable men of all parties.

UNFORTUNATE LEGISLATION.

The legislation in the States ought to be so judiciously and wisely done as to foster enterprises and invite capital. There has been a decided tendency in some of the States by repressive and discriminating laws to make capital timid or to exclude it altogether. It is not believed that this was the intention, but the result was the same as if it was. Legislation needs to be cautious lest on the one hand it is hostile to the capitalists, and on the other hand let it fail to protect the interests of the people. In some of the States south of us capital has been driven out by unfriendly legislation. This is unfortunate, for it not only injures the prospects of States indulging such legislative experiments, but it also hurts their neighbors and gives Southern law-makers generally a name for hostility to foreign capital, to which they are not entitled and do not covet.

The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record has this to say of this unfriendly legislation:

"The South is greatly in need of capital to develop her vast resources, build new railroads and increase her banking capital, and yet, instead of offering every possible inducement to attract the favorable consideration of capitalists, her legislators, or at least many of them, apparently make it their special study to see what they can do to make capitalists suspicious of the South. Certainly there can be no excuse for legislation of this character. It only serves to hinder the progress of the whole South, and to keep away millions of dollars that under other circumstances would be invested in that section. These laws not only harm to the State which makes them, but to the whole South, as they cause capitalists and business men generally to feel a degree of uncertainty regarding what might be done next in the way of hostile legislation that prevents many investments which would otherwise be made."

If the legislation of the States was more judicious than it is there would be more money brought to the South to be lent on real estate security. It is strange that when so many tens of millions of dollars are unemployed in the North that none of it finds its way into the South. It can be easily lent at 5 or 6 per cent with proper security, while it is going a begging at 1 1/2 and 2 per cent in New York. How much the laws have to do with keeping the money out of North Carolina we can not say, but it is certain that the men who will lend money to farmers at 6 per cent will be doing them a great kindness.

We are sceptical as to the reported probable alliance between Parnell and the Liberals. As we said yesterday such an alliance would be natural in the light of English history. The Tories have always been the enemies of Ireland, whereas all that is beneficent and kindly and progressive in English treatment of Ireland has come from Whig or Liberal inspiration and advocacy. Of all the British leaders, past and present, Mr. Gladstone has shown himself the truest friend of Ireland. So in that sense it would be natural for the Home Rulers and Liberals to unite as against the Tories. The New York Times, something of a Tory advocate, takes this view of the report:

"The suspected alliance between Mr. Gladstone and Parnell is not impossible, but it is very improbable. Parnell's ideas, as announced, have been so irreconcilable with the principles cherished by the great Liberal leader that such a combination would be extremely difficult. Nor does there seem to be any ground of expediency upon which it could be based. Parnell has been devoting all his energies to securing such a division of parties in the new Parliament as would leave to him the balance of power and make it impossible for either party to govern without him. He would not abandon that plan unless it were plain—as now seems likely—that Mr. Gladstone could command a clear majority without his aid, and in that case there would be no inducement for Mr. Gladstone to make terms."

Gov. Cameron finds another warm defender in Gen. V. D. Groner, of Norfolk, who is regarded as the leader of the Republicans in his section. He is profoundly amazed at the attack upon the Governor. He says there is bitter personal feeling between Cameron and Mahone, but the former is perfectly loyal to his party. He says Cameron condemns the plan of party organization that gives Mahone unlimited power and insists that a change should be made. In this Cameron is sustained by a great many other Republicans. Gen. Groner says of Mahone's power:

"He can appoint every district, county and precinct chairman in the State, and, therefore, can dictate who shall be the party nominees for every office, from Governor down to Overseers of the Poor in every county and magisterial district."

Rev. Dr. Arnold, the celebrated Master of Rugby and historian, in 1836, in a letter writes of "Lynch law." See letter to W. W. Hull, March 17, 1836, in Stanley's "Life." So the origin of that law is not as published recently we take it. An account said it took its name from one Lynch in South Carolina. In one of Sir Walter Scott's letters written before 1816, he speaks of the hot water cure that is now so much resorted to and often with signal benefit. See Lockhart's "Life."

THE PERIODICALS.

The Art International for October 8th is a splendid number of a popular household journal devoted to art. It strikes our artistic eye that this is a most admirable weekly publication, and specially adapted to all studying decorative art, embroidery, &c. Price 15 cents a number, including two supplements. Published at 88 and 89 West 23d street, New York.

The Sanitary Monitor for October contains, among other papers, Inhumation and Cremation Compared, by J. E. Chancellor, M. D.; Prevention of Diphtheria, Scarlet Fever and other Infectious Diseases, by J. H. Raymond; and Education of People in Sanitation, Dr. J. F. Winn, editor, Richmond, Va. Yearly subscription $1.

Babyhood for October, like previous numbers, is well adapted to the end in view—to furnish instruction for those having charge of infants and young children. Price 15 cents a number or $1.50 a year.

Literary Life is the title of a well printed and well edited illustrated monthly magazine published at Chicago at $1 per year. For this sum you get a volume containing some 350 octavo pages. It is a publication of some merit. We published yesterday an article from it by Joaquin Miller.

WILLIAM GILMORE SIMMS.

His Last Days—The Closing Scene. From Paul H. Hayne's "Anti-Bellum Charleston," in Southern Bivouac.

I could not but remark how aged he had become. Five years of "hope deferred" and of final despairing agony—for his whole heart had been with the South in her struggle for self-government and for constitutional right against the "handed world"—had done the work of half a lifetime. His hair was thinned and white, his beard grizzled, his fine forehead scored with wrinkles, and over the once fiery eyes a film rested as of unshed tears!

Simms, utterly impoverished and laboring only for the sake of his children, took a contract in New York in the autumn of 1868, for three romances, all to be worked at the same time!

"I got," he says, "advances of money on each of these books, and the sense of obligation pressing upon me I went rigidly to work, concentrating myself at the desk from the 20th of October 1868, to the 1st of July, 1869, nearly nine months, without walking a mile in a week, riding but twice, and absent from work but half a day on each of these occasions! The consequence was, I finished two of these books, but broke down upon the third, having written during that period three thousand pages of manuscript!"

Such a tour de force at his age and in his condition of health really killed him. Eleven months of continued physical suffering followed. Indigestion in its worst form, dyspepsia, catarrh, and finally dysentery, combined to sap his already enfeebled frame.

His patience and consideration for others were beautiful to see. All the old dominance of manner and hardness of tone had disappeared. All skepticism and doubt also, in reference to religious matters, seem to have melted forever in the glory of dawning immortality. His bosom friend, the Rev. James Miles (author of that remarkable work, "Philosophic Theology") stood by his death-bed and revived his faltering but fervent confession of faith in the mercy of the atoning Christ.

At last the end came. On the afternoon of June 11, 1870, his worn but indomitable spirit passed through the "strange gate" into the realm of all realities; passed, we might fancy, before the clang and echo of their

FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

THE OHIO ELECTION.

Contending for the Presidency as to the Results in Hamilton County—The Legislature claimed by the Republicans—Few Returns of the Governorial Vote. (By Telegraph to the Morning Star.) CINCINNATI, Oct. 14.—At 10 o'clock this morning the returns from Hamilton county, and even from Cincinnati, were not all in. This fact is cited by both parties as evidence of fraud, and both the Commercial Gazette and the Enquirer openly charge the opposite party with fraudulent practices. The Enquirer claims that the Democrats have carried Hamilton county by over 1,000 majority—electing all their candidates for the Legislature and county officers. It claims that the Legislature will be Democratic in both branches by a majority large enough to remove all danger and disputes. Unofficial footings from 176 of the 206 precincts in Hamilton county give Foraker 31,008, Hoadly 28,976, and Leonard 261.

The Times Star has returns from all of the city precincts except four, which put a different phase upon Hamilton county. The totals are: Foraker 33,437, Hoadly 30,584, Leonard 868. If this is accurate, a confirmation from at least one other source, it would show that the Republicans have carried their entire legislative ticket, with the possible exception of Robert Harlan, who runs behind the others.

WE SIMPLY LET THEM ALONE.

Norfolk Landmark. Some of the Mahone people complain that they are ostracized. We understand that Mr. Wise is eloquent on this point, and if half we hear is correct the men who have proved themselves political Ishmaelites on this theme grow lazier when they discuss it. But what right have they to complain? They have allied themselves to the worst elements, white and black, in the Commonwealth. They have filled the air with ribald abuse of the best and purest men among us. They have been violently aggressive from the beginning of their career, and have ridden rough shod over every sentiment of decency, and every right of the citizen which they could trample down. They have inflamed negroes against whites; and have solemnly charged the Democracy of the State with being "murderers and assassins." In their political walk and conversation they are not men to excite affection, command confidence, or win respect; and they have received just what they have earned. But the outcry which they make is entirely in keeping with their characters. They expect to denounce the Democracy, to wrong individuals, to outrage public sensibility, and then to be received as if they were equal in morals and delicacy, and patriotism with the men who have been true to the fame and interests of Virginia through good and ill report! * * * They have planted themselves, through Gen. Mahone and Mr. Wise on the ground that service in the Confederate army disqualified men for service in the army or navy; and they have, through Mr. Wise, called for the repeal of the Thurman amendment, which, for the first time, since the war, gave Southern white men a fair show before juries in Federal Courts.

FOREIGN.

War Imminent in the East—Great Activity in Turkish Military Circles—London Standard on the Triple Alliance—Accident to an Ocean Steamer—(By Cable to the Morning Star.) LONDON, October 14.—The hopes entertained last night of a peaceful settlement of the Roumelian question have been shattered this morning by the receipt of a dispatch from Constantinople, stating that the conference has formally declared that the Triple Alliance will not be bound to be answer. Further news is awaited with considerable anxiety.

LONDON, October 14.—The Standard of this morning says: "The situation in the East has become more clouded within the past forty-eight hours. The problem could be dealt with effectually if the Triple Alliance were united as it pretends to be. The problem now for Bismarck is, how to settle the pending difficulties, so as to prevent Russia and Austria from fighting. If the latter agree to insist upon status quo, or to force Serbia to agree to it, Greece will be satisfied, and Bismarck will concur, but it appears to be little chance that they will agree. It is not for England to act as a principal in the miserable dispute, which is only of secondary interest, though she might cordially assist if Germany and Austria make the request."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 14.—Great activity prevails in military circles throughout Turkey. Troops are being hastily armed and equipped for immediate service. The Sultan has determined to fight against the further dismemberment of Turkey, and large bodies of troops are being rapidly concentrated on the frontier at strategic points within striking distance of Bulgaria, Greece and Serbia. Troops, horses and field guns are being dispatched to the front night and day. The Moslems are enthusiastic and are volunteering in large numbers. A conspiracy has been discovered at the Palace, which has led to the exile of Said Pasha, ex Grand Viceroy.

QUEENSTOWN, Oct. 14.—A four-masted steamer has been sighted from Galleyhead, county of Cork, having in tow a three-masted vessel, which is supposed to be the overdue steamer Seddon, which sailed from New York September 19 for Genoa and Leghorn.

TEXAS.

Forty Thousand Dollar Fire in Gainesville. (By Telegraph to the Morning Star.) GALVESTON, Oct. 14.—A special to the News, from Gainesville, says a destructive fire broke out here at midnight, last night, in the grocery store of J. C. Dray, on the main square. The Red River National Bank building, adjoining the grocery, was badly damaged. The large drug store of Gilchrist & Black, adjoining the Drew building on the south, was gutted. The upper floors of these buildings were occupied by the Western Union Telegraph Co. and by lawyers. The furniture warehouse of M. H. Pierce, in the rear of the Bank, was considerably damaged. The total loss is about $40,000; fully insured. It is suspected that the fire was of incendiary origin. The Red River Bank resumes business today in other quarters.

The President this afternoon appointed Thos. R. Jarman, of North Carolina, to be U. S. Consul at Oskand Hoega, Japan.

POLITICAL POINTS.

The Democratic party is now in a position of advantage where wise, conscientious and courageous leadership might keep it for a quarter of a century.—Galveston News.

Every little insignificant country in the world is following the example of France and Germany, and piling up restrictive and burdensome tariff duties upon American goods.—Madisonian (Wis.) Democrat.

Will the Democracy party break up? The answer to this question depends in a measure upon the results of the impending elections. Success now means disruption hereafter. Defeat will secure another chance for life.—Boston Herald, Douglass Aug.

One Experience of Many.

Having experienced a great deal of "Trouble" from indigestion, so that I came near losing my Life! My trouble always came after eating any food— However light and indigestible. For two or three hours at a time I had to go through the most excruciating pains. "And the only way I got relief!" Was by throwing up all my stomach contained in! No one can conceive the pains that I had to go through, until "At last!" I was taken! "So that for three weeks I lay in bed and could eat nothing!!! My sufferings were so that I called two doctors to give me something that would stop the pain. Their efforts were no good to me. At last I heard I had good news. "About your Hop Bitters!" And determined to try them." Got a bottle—in four hours I took the contents of one!!! Next day I was out of bed, and have not seen a "Sick" I fear, from the same cause, since. I have recommended it to hundreds of others. You have no such "Advocate as I am." Geo. Kendall, Alston, Boston, Ma.
